The Everlasting Arms Are Underneat h God's People. Divine Compassion For This Great Groaning Creation. -PASTOR RUSSELL'S Sermon at Waynesburg, Pa.

SATURDAY MORNING

the majority of mankind never reached that degree of development in life experience which would enable them fully to appreciate the grandeur of some of the expressions of the Bible as for instance of our text. By this we do not mean that such lack intelligence and education. On the contrary, some of the best educated are undeof the best educated are undeveloped in this direction, and some of the most illiterate are highly develop-ed in the power of such an apprecia-tion. The Apostle Paul tells us that tion. The Apostle Paul tells us that imankind as a whole is a groaning creation, travailing in pain together and waiting for deliverance at the second coming of Christ and the establishment of His millennial kingdom.

(Rom viii., 19-23). But this groaning creation understands very imperfectly its real situation. It recognizes that seemething is wrong; that the world

They were first made by John Walker in England The fact that sulphur and phosphoru would ignite by friction was discover no practical use of the fact was made until a century and a half later, when phosphorus friction matches were made in Vienna. About the same time Walker began to use phosphorus in his matches. The first improved friction matches were made in this country, at Springfield, Mass., by Alonzo Phillips in 1836. A score of years later the so-called safety matches were devised to obviate the difficulty caused by the use of the ordinary lucifer match, part of the compound, the phosphorus, being left off the match head and put with the sand on the outside of the box, on which the match must be rubbed for ignition.
