Rev. Ralph W. Trotter Declares That Vice is Allowed Too Much Latitude.

A Sermon on the Subject-His Experiences on Two Tours of Inspection.

Sunday evening last:

Habakkuk 2:12-"Woe to him that "Lead us not into temptation, but dever us from evil."

During the past six months I have een tempted a hundred times to draw back from the task before me to-night; of times I have, for a moment, yielded 10 such feelings, and with each such weakness I have felt, like Solomon, much of the truth to draw back now. Two months ago, in a sermon on "the ethics of municipal politics," published the Times of this city, I set forth our obligation to elect men of character and ability to our executive board. It was ded the nominations, and that every one eds out of every minute.

arough which we have just passed was the fight of light against darkness, of right against wrong, of God. against vil; and I thank God that to a great xtent right has triumphed. It is a fact be proud of that the first resolution cassed by our new council was one alculated to abolish the crime of gamling in our city. I am proud that very member of the council of 1896 has declared himself opposed to gambing. I regret that all did not see fit to apport the amendment, which makes a ean breast of the whole business, covring adults and minors alike, but it is tated its position as opposed to gamling. And it is even more gratifying motion which asks for a detailed reenforcement of British law.

I have been flooded with letters and visitors asking me to do something for mmediate moral reform in our rumo save their boys from gambling and sate their boys to save what was to be seen, no matter what beir boys from the lowest forms of it cost or where it took me. Here at all hours of the night and day white men and Chinamen may police never took occasion to ask the demand that our police commis came west had changed into a den of with such facts as I have and deem vice and crime. I felt that my second night had not been in vain, and I was no longer in doubt as to where the germs of moral death were generated in this community.

In a saloon on Government street I had noticed advertized on the walls "social dance Friday nights." I determined to see what this dance was. The night came. I went at 12 o'clock midnight. I was too early. I went at 1 a.m., and after waiting half an hour the dance began. In plain words it is the prostitutes' dance of this city. I can give you the names of every woman present and forty-two of the men. After each dance the man takes the girl to the bar (drinks are 25 cents during the dance) the girl gets a drink and part of the price. These girls danced like mad things till daylight with drunken men, drunk themselves. The obscenity. and blasphemy, and lewdness, and drunkenness was too hideous for public speech. It may be interesting to Victorians to know that at four o'clock that morning one of our officers who wears the blue, entered in civilian's clothes and witnessed the scene as I have described it. And upon another occasion he entered at the same hour and in the same dress as drunk as any in the rum-soaked crew. This den has back entrance from Broad street, and they say ran a gambling hell up stairs, which fact I am prepared to put over my affidavit. I have only touched the fringes of what I know. This goes to show that they are not ignorant; and to this extent, not incompetent. The fact is the police of this city have demonstrated that they can close the gambling dens of this city any hour they choose. Business is dull down in the ward this week and last.
