ROTHESAY DEFEATED AT CRICKET

The return match between a St. John eleven and Rothsay College, was played on the Marathon grounds yesterday afternoon and after some exciting play resulted in the home side winning by 11 runs on the first innings. St. John were first to bat and the visitors went first to the wickets, opening with Tucker and Cooper. The start was disastrous, two wickets, Tucker and Andrews, falling for a single. Brown partnered Cooper and the score was raised to 14 before the latter succumbed to Popham. Hibbard helped to raise the total to twenty-four before another wicket fell but with the exception of Davis, who left with the score at 33, little effective resistance was raised to the bowling of Sturdee and Young. The innings closed for 42.
 The St. John eleven opened the batting with Young and Popham. The latter soon retired with 3 to his credit. By careful play the score was raised to 36 for eight wickets. Little resistance was offered to the bowling of Tucker and it was anybody's game until Munroe in hitting into the long field was credited with 6 for lost ball. He was finally bowled by Andrews for 24 for 6, the game ending in a victory for St. John by 11 runs on the first innings.
 The fielding was fairly smart, but the pitch despite the matting was by no means ideal. Sturdee for the home side and Tucker for the visitors shared the bowling honors.

JONES, THE "DYING BOY," CHAMPION RUNNER—ATHLETICS SAVED CORNELL WINNERS LIFE

About 75 years ago, when the doctors knew as little about curing consumption as they do today, a young man in the Middle West was told that he had only a few months to live.
 "You have consumption in both lungs and you can't possibly live through the winter," they assured him, cheerfully. It was in the early fall.
 The young man decided to put his farm in shape, and, among other things, thought he would saw up enough wood to last his wife and children for a while. He saved wood all that winter, and was twenty pounds heavier in the spring. He died at a ripe old age and left many husky grandchildren.
 It is not probable that little John Paul Jones of Washington where he got his early education, he had so far improved in health that his parents had no hesitation in sending him to Exeter to prepare for college.
Constant Outdoor Exercise.
 When he came to Exeter he was a slender boy, just approaching manhood, but his limbs were straight and his chest looked good, and his arms and legs were clothed with long, tapering, flexible muscles. He did not consider himself out of danger. He went about his business of outdoor exercise as conscientiously as ever. He wanted to make his victory over the doctors a good one.
 The professional record for the mile is 4m. 12.5s., and experts predict that before he leaves Cornell the boy who was dying a few years ago will have broken it. His endurance is remarkable, and his speed is told by the time. After running three-quarters of a mile at a pace faster than any college athlete have seen in years, he sprinted the last quarter of a mile in a fraction of sixty seconds.
 He could probably have gone faster if it had been necessary. He took up athletics to save his life and athletics made good because he followed it faithfully, in spite of every handicap and prophecy of failure. And that is the kind of boy who is likely to do a second or two better than his best when he is called on "in the pinch."
 He could run only a little way. Gradually he was able to lengthen the distance of his runs. He was often tired and discouraged, but he kept on, evidently feeling that he might as well run himself to death as to die slowly of consumption.
 He took all sorts of milder calisthenics. Everything that would develop and keep his muscles supple he worked at, and every day he trotted out the roads with the fixed purpose of bringing color into his cheeks, strength into his legs and power into his lungs. He fooled the doctors.
 By the time that he was graduated from the school in Washington where he got his early education, he had so far improved in health that his parents had no hesitation in sending him to Exeter to prepare for college.

CHANGES IN THE ST. JOHN BALL TEAM

The St. John baseball team will be reorganized with Frank White as manager, succeeding Harry Ervin, who has resigned. This change has been made necessary through the demands made upon Mr. Ervin by his other business interests and the fact that the team will be away from the city for a good portion of the time and he could not arrange to accompany them on all occasions.
 During the period of Mr. Ervin's management he has conducted the affairs of the team in a capable manner and has increased his already large following of friends among the baseball loving public. Frank White, the new manager, has been a prominent figure in all lines of local sport. An old baseball player himself he is thoroughly in touch with all points of the game and will be able to give his players the full benefit of his long experience. He took charge of the team yesterday and at once decided to strengthen it. The first move was to wire to Jack Copeland, at Halifax to return to St. John and get into the game with his former teammates. Jack left Halifax last night and will be seen in a St. John uniform at once. If he arrives in time he may go through to Calais with the team today.
 For the game in Calais today, Boivard will be the pitcher, while Lefty Ford will be on the mound for the St. John's in the game on Saturday against St. Stephen, at St. Stephen. The St. John's will secure a new pitcher and a well known college player from the United States has been signed and will report for duty at once. From this it will be seen that the management of the St. John's intend to take every effort to land the pennant in the New Brunswick and Maine League.

SHOULD BE FINE BALL GAME TODAY

Today's local game in the N. B. and Maine league will be between the Marathons and Woodstock and will be started at 2:15 sharp. Estelle, the new pitcher, will be on the mound for the Marathons, and the feature of the game will be the first appearance of Jeff Shannon, the Worcester ball player who has signed as coach for the Greeks. Shannon will play third base in today's game in place of Clawson. The batting order of the Marathons for today's game was announced last evening as follows: Fraser, shortstop; Parie, 2nd base; Donnelly, 1st base; Shannon, 3rd base; Lynch, centre field; Nelson, catcher; Riley, right field; Dr. Malcolm, left field; Estelle, pitcher.
 The Woodstock team is picked by many to win the league, and as the Marathons are now in first class shape a great contest may be expected.
 The Marathons will probably take a trip to Montreal for the Coronation
