NEW ARRANGEMENT OF BIG TRAFFIC BUSINESS.

One Man in Control of Traffic of Various Corporations Comprising the Harborman System.

San Francisco, June 20—J. B. Stubbs, vice-president of the Southern Pacific, whose appointment as traffic manager of the west system of railroads controlled by the Harborman interests, is announced from Chicago, has arrived in this city. In speaking of the innovation to be introduced in railroad methods by the creation of the position to which he has been appointed, Mr. Stubbs explained the problem by saying that Mr. Harborman had been considering for some time the feasibility and practicability of divorcing the control of the lines he is interested in from the other affairs of the roads.

As Mr. Stubbs puts it, it is a plan to bring a unification of interests and a reduction of friction and the elimination of unnecessary competition without connecting the properties under one management.

Under this plan one man is to have entire control of the traffic of the several corporations and in order effectively to divorce the traffic from the other affairs of the lines he is interested in from the other affairs of the roads.

This position of power and responsibility, comparable to no other in the history of railroading, was offered to Mr. Stubbs and he accepted.

The plan is an absolutely new one in railroading. "In a word," Mr. Stubbs went on to explain, "I am to be placed in entire charge of the traffic of the Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Oregon Railroad, Navigation Company, and the Oregon Short Line, and I will report to the boards of directors of the several companies. That means that I am to report directly to Mr. Harborman, who is chairman of the executive committee of the four roads. There have been pools and gentlemen's agreements, but now they have all fallen to the ground. Now Mr. Harborman purposes to try this experiment of handling traffic of the lines over which he presides.

COUGHING ALL NIGHT.

It's this night coughing that breaks us down, leaving us awake most of the time, and annoying everybody in the house. Lots of people don't begin to cough until they go to bed. It gets to be so that retiring for the night is an empty form, for they cannot rest.

Adams' Botanic Cough Balm makes life living to those who suffer by its soothing effect on the throat. It is prepared from herbs and roots and gums of trees, and is a true specific for throat troubles.

It is a disagreeable thing about it, and it does efficient service in breaking up coughs of long standing. It is prepared from herbs and roots and gums of trees, and is a true specific for throat troubles.

DRANK WITH BLONDIN.

So Says a Lowell Man to Police Tuesday.

Lowell, Mass., June 18—Joseph Nichols, living in Lakeview avenue, says that he talked and drank with Blondin, in this city, this morning. He says he knew Blondin when the latter lived in Lowell and he seemed confident that the man he met this morning was the suspected wife murderer.

He asked Nichols to advise him as to the best method of removing a trunk he said was at the railroad station in Nashua to Fall River. Nichols left the man eating breakfast in a restaurant. He returned in a few minutes with the intention of questioning the man relative to himself, but the stranger had gone after ordering but not eating his breakfast.

State Officer Dunham obtained a warrant here today for Blondin's arrest.

New York, June 18—The New York detectives say that Blondin, under the name of Joseph Marrau, went to 692 Third avenue last Wednesday and talked with the landlady about renting a room. He did not appear satisfied and said he would call again. A young woman in the house recognized him from a description she had read in a newspaper and told the landlady, who laughed at him and prevented her from calling a policeman.

On Friday Blondin called and said that he had secured a room elsewhere. He asked that a trunk and bicycle coming to the house for him be cared for. It was learned that Blondin called at 692 Third avenue and talked with a Mrs. Monahan about renting a room. The last seen of him was on Friday.

Montreal, June 18—(Special)—Blondin, the accused wife murderer of Lowell, is still at large, although it is asserted that he is hiding in this city, a statement which the police refuse to confirm or deny.

A sensation was created here this morning by a French morning paper coming out with this assertion. The paper goes on to state that Blondin had several days at Bous's Point, N. Y., stopping at a hotel frequented by Chinese smugglers, and that he rode into the town on a bicycle. While he was there he was seen by a man and had his hair cut, entirely changing his appearance. When he took the train for Montreal he left behind him a pair of bicycle stockings and his knickerbockers.

The Wrong Medicine.

Thousands of people yearly treat their ailments with the wrong medicine. They are in the habit of jumping at the first "cure-all" they see advertised and fancy they are going to be benefited.

People should use more caution in selecting their medicines. There are times when the country is flooded with the pretended benefits of experimenters. Those who have piles in any form cannot be too careful in their selection.

The delicate membrane may receive injury from the use of the St. John school, which is affiliated with Kings, was passed. A motion recommending some modification of the present system of administering the college affairs was recommended to the governors for their consideration.

The Dominion government received a telegram today from the postmaster general, making an offer for settlement of the difficulty over the fisheries. Attorney General Eberts wired that the British Columbia government were willing to leave the question of sea coast fisheries for the present in abeyance. In regard to provincial fisheries on Fraser, Skeena, Nass and other rivers, it was suggested to allow the Dominion government to go on collecting license fees as at present, understanding that the matter would be left to arbitration and that the Dominion would refund to the province whatever amount of such moneys as might be held to belong to the province. The provincial government also agreed to amend any portions of the provincial act passed last session, which may be shown to encroach on Dominion rights.

A reply was sent this afternoon from the Dominion government to the effect that this arrangement would be satisfactory for the present.
