

the form. When the nervous system is the channel for its transmission the product is dynamic, when the vital system is the channel the product is chemical, and when the motive system is the channel the product is mechanical energy.

The following diagram will give a clearer idea of the different forms of force operating through the human body :—

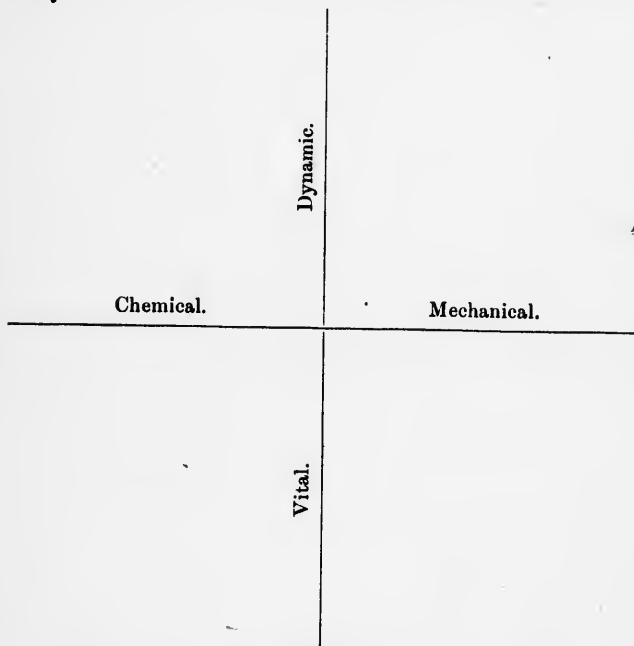

FIG. D.

Diagram of Forces operating through the Animal Body.