

INDEX

- Agriculture in New France, obstacles to development of, 30-1; in 1759, 32; in 1616, 65-6.
- Bigot, François, last intendant of New France, 23.
- Brandy Traffic, the, effect of on the Indians, 123.
- Canada. See New France.
- Carignan-Salières, regiment of, sent to New France to punish the Iroquois, and remain as settlers, 52-7.
- Carleton, Sir Guy, and the habitants, 144.
- Cartier, Jacques, 7.
- Casgrain, Abbé, on neighbourhood government in New France, 129.
- Catalogne, Gédéon de, his report on the seigneuries of New France, 49-52, 57-9; on the habitant, 113, 116; on the relations between seigneurs and habitants, 133.
- Champlain, Samuel, his colony at Cape Diamond, 8-10, 16.
- Church, the, in New France, 122; and the Brandy Traffic, 123-4; assists colonization, 124-5; largest landholder in New France, 125-7; as a seigneur, 127, 133-4; and tithes, 129-30; church buildings and patronage, 131-2; its great influence, 137-8.
- Colbert, Jean Baptiste, chief minister of Louis XIV, 20.
- Company of One Hundred Associates, the, 17; its powers and obligations, 18; its failure, 19-21.
- Coueurs de bois, 30-1; and the Brandy Traffic, 123.
- Duchesneau, intendant of New France, on the seigneurs as patrons, 132.
- Durantaye, Olivier Morel de la, seigneur of New France, 71-7.
- Durham, Lord, on the seigneurial system, 147.
- Feudal system, the, creates a bond of mutual wardship and service, 12-13; becomes the seigneurial system, 13.
- France, her position in Europe in the seventeenth century, 2-4; form of her administration, 5-6. See New France.
- Frontenac, Count, governor of New France, 24.