(Special Correspondent W. E. Dowding.)

London, September 25th .- No sensible man in this country is looking longer than six months ahead; or, to put it in another way, wise people prefer to wait for something more definite to go upon at the end of that period. I hear of innumerable ness houses that have made prospective financial plans for six months or thereabouts. This attitude agrees with what I have already written, namely, that little decisive progress will be made with the war until after the winter, and that accordingly the position as it will be next spring must be patiently await-

All that is happening in the meantime indicates nevertheless, a slow and steady accession of public confidence. The financial and commercial pr that were so rudely thrust upon us have been handled with rare tact and ability, so that already we are within sight of the end of the moratorium. step is taken only because circumstances have made it thoroughly justifiable.
