

found himself in case of attack. He threw himself on the bed resolved not to close an eye, but overcome by fatigue and excitement of the day, soon fell asleep. In his dreams he was setting sail and rapidly leaving the dreaded bay, when a loud knock on the wall roused him to the fearful reality of his position. Gamacho stood near him, with a light in one hand and a gun in the other. It seemed then that all was but too true—that the young pilot had heard of this monster. "I see you are awake already, but how pale you are. I wager you have heard that Gamacho murders everybody, now you coward, I have come to give you, he raised the gun and—hung it on two nails in the wall just as the poor young pilot had nerved himself for the death struggle, and resolved to sell his life as dearly as possible. 'I have come to give you a settler for the night.' He took from his pocket a bottle of brandy and a glass, and after drinking to the health of the stranger, handed him the glass with—'Here, take a good pull, it will make you sleep soundly, and if Gamacho comes to attack you during the night you can defend yourself; there is a loaded gun over your head.' 'Well, comrade,' said the master of the house, as his guest made his appearance next morning with more confidence than he enjoyed the previous evening. 'I saw you were frightened last night, and when I went to see you, I thought I would give you plenty of it. You know me now, and if ever you hear people say, that Gamacho is a murderer, tell them it is false. You see now the devil is not so black as he is painted.'

We certainly came to the same conclusion before we left him to return to the vessel. I have not since revisited that interesting spot, and it was with pain that I heard of the death of Gamacho, which occurred in the month of September, 1854, in a similar manner to that of his wife as he himself had foretold. No person had visited the bay for several weeks, when at length some voyagers landing at the place found only the remains of LOUIS OLIVIER GAMACHO.

The following is from the London Examiner:—"Had the accident at Covent Garden happened two hours earlier, when the house was full, London would now be bereft of all the flower of its profligacy and harlotry, every flock would be in mourning for its black sheep, every family deploring the untimely loss of its scamp, fond mothers weeping for their precious scapegraces, the detective police suddenly reduced to a sinecure—its occupation gone. A little earlier and Tartarus would have been anticipated. As it was, two hundred of this worshipful company were, as the phrase goes for such occasion, 'keeping it up' at five o'clock, when Mr. Anderson perceiving the gaiety to flag (which, being interpreted, signifies that the drunkenness called dead was predominating over riot), gave the signal for the finale of 'God save the Queen,' for the strange compliment is paid to Her Majesty of considering the loyal anthem the appropriate termination of orgies as revolting to good taste as to all sobriety and modesty. While the fuddled creatures were listening to the sounds preluding their return to their dens and stews, down came the fire raining upon them as if from Heaven, and a rout like that of Comus's crew ensued. They were only two hundred, the last the very dregs of the congregated vice and folly of the night; but, few as they were, their escape was difficult, partly from the condition of their besotted senses, partly from the intense selfishness proper to their worthlessness, which made each care for himself, or herself, without the slightest care or thought for another. And so they straggled forth, affronting the light of day with their debauched figures and unseemly mummeries. They looked like the devils belonging to the scene of devastation, and doubtless they were little better than they looked.—In an hour it was all over. What remained of that beautiful theatre were four blackened walls and a heap of smouldering rubbish.

Whose best works are most trampled on?—A shoemaker's; because good shoes last longer than bad ones.

The man who stood upon trifles has been blown away.

Why are good resolutions like fainting ladies?—They want carrying out.

The man who "retraced" the past is supposed to be a harness-maker.

LET US REASON TOGETHER

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

WHY ARE WE SICK?

It has been the lot of the human race to be weighed down by disease and suffering. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are especially adapted to the relief of the WEAK, the NERVOUS, the DELICATE, and the INFIRM, of all climates, ages, sexes and constitutions. Professor Holloway personally superintends the manufacture of his medicines, and offers them to a free and enlightened people, as the best remedy the world ever saw for the removal of disease.

THESE PILLS PURIFY THE BLOOD.

These famous Pills are expressly combined to operate on the stomach, the liver, the kidneys, the lungs, the skin, and the bowels, correcting any derangement in their functions, purifying the blood, the very fountain of life, and thus curing disease in all its forms.

GENERAL DEBILITY.—ILL HEALTH.

Many of the most despotic Governments have opened their Custom Houses to the introduction of these Pills, that they may become the medicine of the masses. Learned Colleges admit, that this medicine is the best remedy ever known for persons of delicate health, or where the system has been impaired, as its invigorating properties never fail to afford relief.
