NOTES OF TRAVEL AND CURSORY OBSERVATIONS

By Rev. G. W. Rideout.

ARTICLE II.

After two weeks of a most delightful visit, with trips to Topsail and Bay Roberts, and taking in two picnics, and other good things too numerous to mention, we embarked by S. S. Siberian for Halifax and Philadelphia. By a strange chain of circumstances we were detained in Halifax two whole days during which we had opportunity to see Halifax—the city and its suburbs—and anyone who would say that Halifax is not much of a city is guilty of libel. But I was struck with the contrast between St. John's and Halifax. What makes the difference? Not population—Halifax has only some 52,000; St. John's, 35,000. Not location—St. John's is a city set upon a hill with advantages somewhat superior to Halifax. It is true Halifax has got some moneyed men, so has St. John's. Halifax is quite a shipping port, so is St.

John's, but why is Halifax so far ahead in every particular than St. John's?

First, it has splendid, clean well-kept streets and boulevards; but why should not St. John's have the same? Why should St. John's—the Capital City—allow itself to run on year after year with dirty, ill-kept, poorly paved streets and with drains that smell at times so vile—plain language, but please excuse me. No city has a fairer location for a perfect drainage nor sanitation system. St. John's ought to be one of the best paved, the best kept, the cleanest cities in North America, and this could be accomplished at a minimum of what it costs some other cities. It is to be regretted that the absence of cleanly, well kept streets is a matter of common gossip among the tourists who are pouring into St. John's in increasing numbers every year. Halifax has splendid streets, magnificent driveways; St. John's can have just as good. Then Halifax has splendid means of access to its beautiful suburbs; for five cents car fare you can reach them, but St. John's has just as beautiful suburbs. What can equal in beauty Waterford Valley or Quidi Vidi? What it would mean though if a trolley system would penetrate those points of beauty. It may be argued population not sufficient, but Halifax has only 17,000 more than St. John's, and yet all the advantages. One would suppose a motor omnibus service such as we see in London, would pay splendid in the season to take people to and from those suburban points. Then, again, Halifax has such superb Public Gardens and Park. St. John's has the approach of a Park it is true, but it is to be hoped that something more beautiful and more commanding will be attempted in the near future. They say Halifax is a slow old town, but the Municipal Council of St. John's would learn a thing or two about the City Beautiful if they took a trip to Halifax—even at public expense, and such a trip would be a paying investment if it came back with resolute will to have St. John's clean up and keep clean and beautiful.

The Bank of Montreal.

Writing in a hurry yesterday our contributor made an error. Instead of for the last half year the profits were $819,000, it should have read for the July quarter. The profits for the last half year would be double that amount. The Bank is one of the oldest in the British Colonies, and will soon celebrate its centenary. The amount on deposit in the Bank of Montreal goes into hundreds of millions.

TOWED IN BY TUG.—The schooner Pouch Cove arrived at Job Bros. & Co. yesterday with 700 qts. of fish from Pouch Cove. She was towed in by the D. P. Ingraham at 10 o'clock last night.

Fell From a Cart.

A man named Lee, of Petty Harbour, while driving down town yesterday with a load of fish on the vehicle was thrown from it by the wheel coming off, and narrowly escaped serious injury as the horse and cart toppled over in the drain and almost came on top of him. Mr. Lee was cut about the face, and the horse was badly injured.

Rifle Club Contest.

The J. W. Morris prize which was competed for at the Rifle Range yesterday, was won by P. W. Norman who made a total score of 63 points. The ranges were: 200, 500 and 600 yards. The exposures at the 600 yards range was two minutes, and at the other ranges seven shots were allowed; sighting shots were used. The scoring, considering the lack of practice, was very good.

Shipment of Brick.

The branch railway will prove a great boon to the Messrs. Pelly, brick makers at Random Sound, formerly they had to ship all their brick from the yard at George's Brook by schooner. Now the branch railway runs a right along by their brick yard and they can ship with great convenience. This week they shipped the first car load in over the railway.

Annual Outing.

The Oddfellows had their annual outing at Smithville yesterday afternoon. The weather was very fine and suitable for outdoor sports which formed an important part of the day's programme. At night a dance was held under very favourable auspices. The ballroom was beautifully decorated. The event was brought to a conclusion at an early hour this morning. All were well pleased with the outing.

TIM SHANNAHAN

ON THE LOOK-OUT.

Strange old world this. It is so. As you are enjoying yourself something turns up that knocks all the frisky business out of you. Sometimes Mrs. Tucker gets right down in the blues. She said how easy 'twould be to get along if we hadn't to dress ourselves up to please our neighbors and live in houses that are away beyond our means, because Jimmy Sloan lives in one just like it. Mrs. Tucker can't see why other people have to keep up with the Sloans, but just the same you have to do it or you'll be called slow. 'Tis better, you know, to be considered a mystery than to be reckoned as being slow.

Mrs. Tucker says the first good old-timer of a northeaster that comes up makes people think of the Labrador and our thoughts go away down that way, and we say to one another, "I wonder how is the fishery on the Labrador?" Terribly strange how it strikes every one of us. The giddy little lassie with the innocent smile and the desperate looking animal on the motor bike all wonder "how they are doing on the Labrador?"

Early in the summer when everything was nice and gay, when Aunt Jane didn't exactly know where she'd spend the summer and Casablanca was wavering as to what maker he'd patronize when ordering his auto, no one thought of Labrador. Mines and minerals, pulp and gold, iron ore and beach rocks, all are now forgotten, and we ask one another, "How are they doing on the Labrador?"

Until "they" have done well on the Labrador and until we are independent enough to stop crying over a bad fishery, we should not start in spending money on monuments, money that could be spent in a better way and be a benefit to our people. Half-baked historians of the second eleven type, who have nothing else to do only go around looking for some one to dig up and erect a monument to, should be gagged in a poor country like ours. Here we are depending on strangers to assist our fishermen on the Labrador and afterwards soak us in the outside press, and yet we can find money to fire away on monuments erected in honour of men who, if they came on earth to-day, would drop dead laughing at our nonsense. The rich around here blame the poor for being extravagant, but they should take a tumble and drop their antics, which are not fit for this country—antics and tomfoolery which are sending us on the rocks.

A couple of more trips of the Labrador boat with the same old news and we'll have some of the auto gang dreaming of a memorable day known around here as Black Monday. We hear a lot about our revenue. It is belled into our ears night, noon and morning—our wonderful revenue. But let us take a look into the business and what do we find? Every family man is taxed about sixty dollars a year to make it up. No wonder 'tis wonderful; but let us ask ourselves how wealthy are our workmen becoming? We, all of us, Shannahan and Tucker included, are living in a ring-a-rose atmosphere. We have had a few good years and we're gone mad. Now 'tis up to us to put on the brakes and ask ourselves: Are we acting straight or are we living past our means?—and the sooner we find the answer the better. 'Tis considered a crime almost around here to talk in this strain, but Shannahan can, get quick enough to say just what he means, and knows there is another side to life beside the giddy one.

All that historical business should be buried now that the Guy fiasco is over. Let us get down to actual business and let us knock off aping other countries that are a thousand times our size, with money to burn and not depending on the products of the ocean to keep things a-going. One touch of nature makes us all alike. Some smart man said that one night and he was pretty near right. For a bad codfishery would send us all bemoaning the loss of the days when "everything was lovely on the Bow-ery."

$20 a Week For a Typist.

Sir Robert Hadfield, head of Hadfield's Foundry, Sheffield, who is residing in Santa Barbara, California, has failed to find an American stenographer and typist who can "take" 150 words a minute of dictation, and is offering (writes a San Francisco correspondent) £20 a week for an adept.

Sir Robert is allowed to work only every other hour, but crowds two hours' work into one. Hence his demands have proven too much for the California typist, and he threatens to send to London for the person he wants.
