Healing Wounds by Washing and by Mathematics.

By R. J. Bjurstedt, in the March Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Undoubtedly the most important medical discovery made during the war is that of Doctor Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, who, working at Compiègne—just behind the battle line in northern France—has perfected a method of sterilizing wounds, so efficacious that, of the hundreds of patients that have so far been treated by it, only one has died. And this one, it is interesting to know, did not succumb to the original shell wound in the back for which he was brought to the hospital, but to a violent attack of pneumonia induced by his exposing himself at an open window in the absence of his attendant.

To effect the complete sterilization of a wound Doctor Carrel came to the conclusion that it would be necessary to carry the antiseptic to all parts, rather than only to the surface, as has been the case with the practices hitherto followed. For this purpose an apparatus was perfected, consisting of a glass receptacle, of about 2-qt. capacity, to be suspended several feet above the bed on which the patient under treatment is lying, and a rubber tube to carry the solution to the wound. On reaching the wound this tube divides and subdivides—by means of glass joints and elbows—into smaller tubes, which are buried in the torn and lacerated flesh under treatment. The small tubes are closed at the ends and perforated at intervals of every half inch or so with small round holes, so that whenever the solution is allowed to enter them the slight pressure which it is under from the elevation of the receptacle above the bed forces it out into and through all parts of the wound. Any excess of the solution drains off—carrying with it the germs of infection, and is absorbed by bandages, which are changed every time the wound is flushed—usually about every two hours.

The decrease of the bacteria of infection in the most terrible wounds under treatment by this "flushing" method astonished even Doctor Carrel and his assistants until they came to take its continued success as a matter of course. The bacteria are simply killed and washed away, where, under other treatments, they were left to be taken up by the already vitiated blood. The new way reduces the infection and, of course, hastens healing. Legs and arms that no surgeon would ever have dreamed of treating by anything but amputation in the past, are not only healed in from one to three weeks, but healed so thoroughly as to retain all their former usefulness. Men that would have been cripples for life—if they had been saved at all—under the usual treatments have gone from the Compiègne hospital direct to their regiments, appearing shortly after on the firing line. Perhaps in no military hospital in Europe is the cooperation between clinic and laboratory so complete as in the "Ambulance Carrel." A "smear" for microscopic examination is taken once a day from every wound under treatment, and a careful record is kept of the decrease in the bacteria of infection. Should these fail to decrease, the microscopic reveals the fact even before it would have been noticeable through a retardation in the rate of healing, and means are at once taken to find what is wrong and apply the remedy. The very day that the laboratory reports that a wound is free of infection, a longer and complete "flush" is given it with the solution, and it is closed for good. No provision for "draining" is necessary, as suppuration is at end. It is even practicable—and apparently desirable—to close a bacteria-free wound over a knitting bone. Once the infection is gone, the bone appears to knit all the faster for having the flesh closed over it.

Your Boys and Girls. Children, not up to par physically, between babyhood and seven years may have oatmeal, farina and hominy, mush, whole wheat or cornmeal bread or cold muffins, white bread if not too fresh served with butter and once a day with pure jam. They should consume plenty of fresh milk and ripe fruit. Stewed fruit, not too sweet, should be given at supper time, fresh fruit early in the day. They may have beef, mutton, and poultry, roasted, broiled or boiled but never fried. Baked potatoes are excellent for little folks and peas, beans and asparagus are the best vegetables. Eggs, poached, scrambled or soft boiled or in omelets or custards, are rich in nourishment. Delicate children should never be given hot breads, fried doughnuts, gridle cakes, rich gravies, highly seasoned foods, pickles, heavy preserves, tea or coffee. Have on your pantry shelf several cans of condensed milk, and if the milkman is snowed under you are not without milk.
