On Thursday night, 27th inst., the people of Ferryland tendered him a reception in the Star of the Sca Hall, at which the following address was read to him by Miss "Dot" Ryan. ADDRESS.

To Private W. Kinsella, 1st Royal Newfoundland Regiment. Ferryland,

Feb. 27th, 1919. We, the undersigned, on behalf of the residents of this place, being mindful of the sacrifices you have made, and the hardships you have endured while on active service with the 1st Royal Newfoundland Reginent, do hereby wish to place on record our appreciation of said services. We would also request the acceptance by you of this small gift as a token of our regard in this respect. We sincerely trust that your wounds will soon be healed, and that ere long you will have recovered your accustomed health; also that you will live long to enjoy the fruits of the Victory towards which you so nobly contributed. Signed on behalf of the people of Ferryland:

MRS. M. J. WHITE. MISS EMMA SWEENEY. After the reading of above address,

Miss Emma Sweeney presented the Purse above referred to. here to-night I did not anticipate such a glowing welcome, nevertheless, you for the spirit in which they are offered, and would now extend to all friends gathered here to-night my sincere thanks, and trust they will

"Airy Jim."

He sneaked around the His name was Sunny Jim
The cold unfeeling airman,
Would not let him in.
And wasn't it a perfect shame,
The way they treated him.

And up goes goes Jimmy's monkey,
To think that he should be
The one to come to make a song,
And wasn't 'lowed to see,
For Jimmy is a bard you know,
Spelt with a capital "B."

The cold unfeeling airman, He couldn't see the airplane, The soot got in his eyes, But on the bogy funnels, He thought he was some wise.

He went to write on airships, And lofty heights to soar,
He ended up with funnels,
And the bogy on the floor,
And will he visit there again,
Quoth Jimmy, "Never More."

He wondered which was Hangar, And which the aeroplane,

And a gigantic snail, The beast had taken off his wings, And hung them on a nail. He quite forgot to tell us If he saw the creatures tail.

Upon this mundane sphere, To sing a dong of subjects
You can't get through your hair, Stand firm on Terra Firma Don't soar up in the air.

When in search of inspiration, Don't sneak around and pry, And poke your snout in places Not intended for your eye, Just try to be a gentleman On earth or in the sky.

The treatment you will meet with, Won't fill your soul with pain, You'll get inside the Hangar And see the aeroplane. Where soo's and bogy funnels Won't muddle up your brain. SCARLET IBIS.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Mr. Editor,-Kindly permit me space in your valued columns, to add a voice of protestation to those who thought and think so little of the invaluable services rendered by the 5 gentlemen as mentioned in the letter "Honor to Whom Honor is Due."

The hero made reply as follows:

My dear Friends,—When arriving call attention to the fact that a sixth member of this Rifle Club has unmay be sure I appreciate same as well | fortunately been unknown, but it is as the accompanying gift, principally a still greater pleasure to place before the public the name of Mr. Baxter. These men, I believe, or at least some of them, did give their sons to

It was indeed encouraging to them to know that they were making such brilliant success out of their abilities. Night after night found them attentive to their duties, interesting themselves wholly to the improvement of each and every soldier that passed through their hands, and then turning out soldiers who afterwards were such a credit to the very rifles they used.
