Highly Applicable.

"Congress on Trial" is the subject of a recent editorial article in the New York Times, which seems singularly applicable to conditions here. The Times says that "public opinion is not favorable to the work of the new Congress. . . . It Newfoundland public propinion is probably unanimous that the present session of the Legislature has shamefully wasted valuable time. The Times article continues, "There is evidence of growing popular impatience. It is not that people think Congress necessarily corrupt, but that they think its members incapable, or at least inefficient, and almost pathetically helpless in the face of what has or what ought to be done."

Does not that exactly express sentiment here about members the of the House of Assembly. Con-Bell Island Agreement, the Coal Contract, the question of Fishery Supplies. Are not the members showing themselves to be pathetically helpless in the face of these matters? Describing the cause of the paralysis of Congress, the Times says: "A deeper difficulty lies in the lack of natural leaders, with the will and the power to bring order out

tical advantages, which are

The following letter appeared in the Times on the day succeeding the publication of the leader from which we have quoted. Were the subject matter written around or in connection with present day political conditions in Newfoundland, it could not be more apropos.

SPECIALISTS IN CONGRESS. To the Editor of The New York Times: Your article, "Congress on Trial." from this morning's issue is distinctly of sound and deserves cordial appreciation.

Our methods, or lack of method, in the selection of national legislators results in the choice of men destitute, or almost destitute, of any real fitness for the important duties of shaping policies and making laws for country with such varied interests and difficult problems as ours.

... It seems to me that it may be truly said of most of our Senators and Representatives that they have neither a thorough and comprehensive acquaintance with great economic sire to consider them with docility and deliberation. Readers of the Congressional Record are not likely to form a very favorable opinion of the average Congressman's qualifications as a leg-

Partisan higs and the desire to produce a satisfactory impression upon their constituencies are only too apparent. Few seem capable of sub-ordinating petty scheming for party and personal advantage to the judi cial consideration of great nationa and international questions.

Many of them, it seems, are withyout any adequate recognition of their trusteeship of the public funds; as is clindicated by the flippancy and recklessness with which they vote away millions and even billions of money raised by taxation of the people, (How like the Liberal-Reform Government of Newfoundland.—Ed. Tel.) will the nation submit to having its policies formulated, its taxes levied dared to do, reflects great credit upon Mr. Archibald. His protest against the policy of the Government was the only course that anyone with manly blood in trict of Hr. Grace are still silent. Do they intend to remain so? Are they so utterly cowed or are they being so well catered fishery product by the man he sup-to that they dare not or will not plies shall be "null and void" as to that they dare not or will not follow the splendid step taken by Mr. Archibald? If they are content to remain where they supplier is unpaid for any part of the are, all shame to them. The District of Hr. Grace will re-member Mr. Archibald for his manly courage and care of their men who caught it has received no interests, when they remember supplies from a guaranteed supplier, also the cowardly hesitancy and or that such supplier has been paid in also the cowardly hesitancy and ignoble silence of Dr. Barnes and Mr. Gosse.

Extravagance Gone Mad

Further light on the extent to which the Government's extravagance has been carried, may be gleaned from a reply given by Dr. Barnes, Minister of Education, to Mr. MacDonnell, re the cost of educating or training a staff of supervisors. In no other department is wilful extravagance so apparent. Formerly a clerk in the Colonial Secretary's Department looked after the educational programme, but under the new arrangement a staff of six inspectors, with large salaries, and 12 supervisor.
