Kemble's Last Performance.

On Monday night, June 22, 1817, Mr. Kemble, the renowned and brilliant dramatist, took his leave of the public in the character of "Coriolanus." He sustained the part throughout with as much vigor as he had exerted on any former occasion. The applause which he received was enthusiastic in the extreme, and when the curtain dropped, the "pit" rose up in a body, and continued waving hats and hands for several minutes. The curtain being drawn up again Mr. Kemble came forward, evidently under great agitation, and after a considerable pause, delivered a short farewell address, in nearly the following terms: "Ladies and Gentlemen.—This night I have made my last appearance before you. I fear I cannot express myself with any kind of propriety—indeed, I wished to withdraw silently from the stage. I thought I had not composed enough for this situation; but I have suffered myself to be persuaded, in compliance with custom, to utter one parting word. I entreat you to believe that the kind approbation which you have bestowed upon me since I first became a candidate for public favor, down to this, my last performance, will remain for ever fixed upon my heart. Whatever talents I am master of, whatever exertions I have made as an actor, or as a manager? In improving the propriety of costume, and giving increased splendour to the representations, particularly those of Shakespeare, they have been rendered delightful to me on account of the favor with which you witnessed them. Accept my respectful, warm gratitude—it is too big for expression. And now, suffer me, ladies and gentlemen, to bid you a long and unwilling farewell." While delivering this address, which was heard by the audience with breathless attention and real regret, he was frequently interrupted by the swelling of his feelings. As soon as the speech was concluded, several wreaths of laurel were thrown upon the stage, and Mr. Kemble slowly retired.

Proof Positive.

The pathway of love was not lined with rose leaves for poor Reginald, and he was getting tired of it. In fact, what with having lost hours of sleep making love, and the financial strain, he felt that he had gone for enough. So he felt it was time to give his imitation of the worm that turned, when the maiden coyly asked for the 1000th time: "Are you sure that you love me, dear?" "Do I—Look here, my darling!" he gasped, "I've missed my last train home for the third time this week; you've been sitting on my knees for three hours till I've got the cramp; your little brother has torn the brim off my hat; your father made me smoke one of his beastly cheap cigars this evening; I've spent my last dollar on those chocolates you've just eaten, and I've never grumbled—do you think I hate you?"—Pearson's Magazine.

Instead of using alternate layers of ice and salt when freezing cream, chip the ice fine and mix, in a separate box, with one measure of salt to three of ice. The freezing is hastened if this proportion is used. Turn the crank slowly.

WHEN I GET HOME. When I get home at night they run To meet me down the street; The duties of the day are done, And joy is mine to meet. Here is a welcome warm and true, Worth every task a man can do.

I stoop to catch them in my arms And nestle face to face; The finest of this old world's charms Is naught to this embrace; Thus to be greeted, I declare, Is worth a thousand years of care.

To earn so glad an hour as this? The tolling of the day is o'er, No more I need to roam, They shout this through the open door: "Oh, Mother! Daddy's home!" Who would not toil where engines hiss

When I get home at night, and see The little place aglow With love and laughter all for me, The table set just so, I tell myself, just one glad smile Makes all the care of day worth while.

Oh, we have grieved and we have wept, And bitter were our tears; Yet when the long faith we have kept Through all the lonely years, There will be glad souls in the gloom To welcome us when we get home.

Harbor Grace Notes.

The Western Drama "The Red Rosette" which was such a success when staged here on the 7th inst., was repeated at Bay Roberts last Wednesday, to a large and appreciative audience, and the performers once again won fresh laurels. Proceeds amounted to over $145.00, and was in aid of the Parish of North River.

Mr. J. A. Whitman left town by Thursday morning's express. He purposes visiting his daughters, Mrs. A. Webber, of Halifax, and Mrs. Trickey, of Toronto, and from there he will visit his brother in British Columbia. Whether Mr. Whitman's stay be long or short, he will be missed, and especially in the Methodist Church, where as choir master, and in all the interests of the church he labored faithfully and well, always giving of his best in her service. The good wishes of his wide circle of friends shall continue to follow him in the future.

Schooners Romalme and Coronation have been docked for painting, since Friday, and came off to-day.

The play "Oh Susannah" as referred to last week, was repeated at Carbonear on Thursday last. The weather was not the best for a large audience, but the proceeds amounted to a very good sum. Again, on the following night, Friday, the play was once more staged here, this time in aid of the Boy Scout Movement, and proved another big success. Something in the vicinity of $80 was realized. This will certainly be an encouragement to the boys of our local troop, as well as to all who are endeavoring to forward the Scout movement.

The schooner Parity arrived in port this morning, from Carbonear, having put in there yesterday. She went on dock this afternoon. —COR
