"LITTLE BREECHES."

THE MISSIONARIES AND THE BABY The Rev. Mr. Lee, one of the represent-atives of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church is Corea, writes that one night not long ago a belated party of eight missionaries and a baby found the great gate of the wall of the second shut when they arrived. The gate-keeper dared not open it, as that might cost him his head. But for 50 cents he loaned the missionary a rope, and gave them the privilege of scaling the wall. See seasy enough for the men and women, but the unworldly missionaries, having got to the top, found they had left the baby behind them, and had nothing to do but to come back. No one was found strong enough to tote the baby up the rope, and it was finally slipped through a hole under the gate, which had been worn away in the solid stone by the feet of thousands of passers. Then the others climbed the wall again, and all got home safely, with the ociety of the Presbyterian Church in DO NOT KISS THE CAT, is must be a terrifying revelation to those is might ladies who kiss their cats that has less made by Prof. Flocci, the Italian consist. The dancing girls make startling whirls,

Here mosques you see and Japan tea, And clams they serve romantically; And sliding cars and foreign jars, For which they charge gigantically.

The whistle a low, sweet strain; The passenger winks, and nods, and blinks, And goes to sleep in the train.

I hope it is not very dear.

The fare is this, a hug and a kiss,
And it's paid to the engineer.

On his knee in kindness great, "Take charge, I pray, of the train each day That leaves at six and eight.

"Keep watch of the passengers," thus I pray, For to me they are very dear;

THE STRANGERIS SHEAF!

[There is a quaint old rural custom which still prevails in zome country neighborhoods during harvest season. On the edge of the field bordering the highway, a sheef of grain is left standing to which all the harvesters con-tribute. It is called the stranger's sheaf, and is the lawful property of any poor tramp or homeless wayfarer who may care to carry it away.]

There knelt a weary, famished man among the shocks of grain. [There is a quaint old rural custom which

AT LAST.

When on my day of life the night is falling. And, in the winds from unsurned spaces blown, I hear far voices out of darkness calling My feet to paths unknown.

Thou who hast made my home of life so pleasant, Leave not its tenant when its walls decay; O love divine, O Helter ever present, Be Thou my strength and stay!

Be near me when all else is from me drifting Earth, sky, home's picture, days of shade and shine,
And kindly faces to my own uplifting

The love which answers min I have but Thee, O Father! Let Thy Spirit Be with me then to comfort and uphold; No gate of pearl no branch of paim, I merit, Nor street of shining gold.

Suffice it if, my good and ill unreckoned.

And both forgiven through Thy abounding

grace,
I find myself by hands familiar beckoned Unto my fitting place, Some humble door among Thy many mansions

Some sheltering shade where sin and striv ing cease,
And flows forever through heaven's green The river of Thy peace.

There from the music round about me stealing I fain would learn the new and holy song, And find at last beneath Thy trees of healing, The life for which I long, —JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIEL
