-The business community and public generally will hear with regret that the wholesale firm of G. A. McGillivray & Co. have been forced to suspend payment, temporarily, at least, not having been able to meet their paper maturing on Aug. 4. Mr. McGillivray has always been a strong believer in and advocate of the development of home resources, and perhaps has erred mostly from a business standpoint in having too much of his capital invested in real estate. Mr. McGillivray is a large property owner, not only in London, but in Petrolia, and the oil-producing vicinity immediately surrounding. His suspenwill come as a surprise to public generally, as the firm were thought to be doing a good business; but those who have had dealings with them have known for some time that unless Mr. McGillivray got assistance by disposing of some of his real estate. and oil property, that he would have difficulty in pulling through. Many and beautiful were the gifts received as tokens of the high esteem in which they are held. A most enjoyable evening was spent, persed, offering many congratulations and kind wishes for their future hap-piness and prosperity, and that they QUEST OF NOISELESS RAILS.

The Scientific American points out the rich harvest that awaits the inventor who shall produce a rail over which street cars may pass noiselessly. In the worst of these, such as most of those in Chicago, the din is nervewrecking, and even under the best conditions there is an annoying noise. There is no noiseless joint, and the "anvil chorus" marks the progress of every train, and the blow given by every wheel as it strikes the joints may be heard blocks away. The con-cussion which is produced whenever a wheel passes a joint is due to the fact that, as a wheel leaves the end of a rail, that rail end is depressed below the end of the rail against which it abuts. So when the wheel passes to the rail ahead it strikes a blow that increases in clangor according to the poorness of quality of the track. The need is for a joint as strong and stiff Toronto, Aug. 7-10 a.m.-Probabili- as the body of the rail itself, and when ties for the next 24 hours for the lower this is obtained there will be a practically silent track. The best joints on the market theoretically fulfill this condition, but they soon become worn by the heavy loads. What is needed, in the judgment of the Scientific Am-erican, is some means of abolishing the joints altogether and welding the Secretary Small announced that these places were only a few of those represented; he knew personally of others who had joined the Chicago excursion, coming from St. Paul, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Racine, Wis. Besides the visiting Old Boys there were many of the home guard present. and the meeting throughout was one of the happiest imaginable.

The vice-president, Mr. Thomas Weston, of Chicago, presided, and in introducing the business that had brought them together he welcomed the Old Boys of new associations from wherever they came. They all came here to have a good time, he said, and that was what they were having. Secretary Small read the minutes of the previous meeting, and afterwards Police Magistrate Love asked permission to change the regular order of doing business, so that he might present to the various organizations a group photograph of the local commit-In doing this, he said it was hardly necessary to repeat the welcome that the city had for them. You have stormed our hearts, he said, as well as stormed the town. The citizens of London could not show their appreciation of the Old Boys' kind remembrance of their former home. Before proceeding further, Mr. Love assured the visitors that the reunion was to be an annual affair, to continue for all time to come. There might be friction, and there might be mistakes. but they would be of the head, not of the heart. They were to continue until those who now enjoy them fade away off the scene altogether. (Applause.)

During the election of officers Sir John Carling entered the room, and was greeted enthusiastically. While thanking them for their reception, Sir Clarence Jackson, of Cavendish John expressed the opinion that with a liberal government, a good educational system, its fine natural resources, and excellent climate, there was every reason to hope that Canada, starting with the same population as did the United States, might also in the same time reach the 75,000,000 that it had grown

HOTTEST DAY

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.] The lengthy account of the siege of the Pekin legations forwarded by Dr. Morrison, correspondent of the London Times at the Chinese capital, shows that the great metropolitan daily's position as the first newsgatherer of the world is still undisputed. While having the reputation of being intensely conservative in a great many ways, it has been quite as wide-awake as any of its rivals and no expense has been spared to secure for it the earliest and most reliable intelligence from all parts South Africa was by far the best and that Pretoria was all ready to Dr. Morrison was an authority nalism.
