CENT A MEAL.

Economy in Food.

"Ease in getting a meal and economy, are two important things," a lady teacher says about the fully cooked food Grape-Nuts. "I started in on Grape-Nuts because it needed no preparation whatever, and I wanted a little lunch before going to bed, so I had cream and sugar ready and a package of Grape-Nuts. Pouring a little of the food into a saucer I treated it with good rich cream and a little sugar at times, usually it was sweet enough."

I had a meal that satisfied hunger and I began to sleep well nights. After a while I concluded to make my breakfast of Grape-Nuts and a little fruit rather than go to the boarding house. I found that I began to improve very rapidly in health, and my work became a pleasure.

"I have made a most important discovery, that is that I can have a meal served at a cost of about one cent that is the most nourishing meal that I have ever been able to find, delicious in taste and a real good 'food cure' for stomach and bowel troubles."

"I have many friends using Grape-Nuts Food regularly." This lady lives at Grosbeck, Ohio. Name given upon application by the Postum Cereal Company, Limited, at Battle Creek, Mich.

year. The congregation expect to reach the goal set in the raising of $4,000 to clear off the debt of the church.

The pulpit in the morning was occupied by Rev. Dr. Courtice, editor of the Christian Guardian. He took for his subject the parable of the wheat and the tares, and after speaking of the world as the field in which the sower went forth, he said that the history of the past indicated that Christianity is destined to spread through all the earth. He spoke of the increased opportunity for the work of the church in the twentieth century, and instanced the countries which are being opened to the reception of Christianity. The preacher spoke of the phenomenal rise of the United States and Japan as being probably the two most important features of the past century's history, and said that this century would be marked by Canada and China assuming a similar important place among the nations of the world.

Beginning to possess this century, as the United States did the century just closed. A large portion of the doctor's discourse was devoted to the Christian socialism and the need of the church to awaken to the demands of the age.

In the evening Rev. T. E. Morton, superintendent of the new Methodist Mission, Toronto, preached from Revelation, xli, 16: "The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal."

Taking as his theme, the Christian church, as typified in the New Jerusalem of the text, the preacher said that true Christianity is cubic in character. Its length is the period from Calvary to the end of the dispensation, its breadth is such as to reach out to all classes of men, while in its height it should reach to the very heights of heaven. He emphasized the thought that the life of the Christian depended upon its intense spirituality, and the church itself must be fully imbued with the Spirit of Christ.

WELL-KNOWN MAN DIED ON SUNDAY.

George T. Trebilcock, of South London, Succumbed After a Short Illness.

Another of London's prominent young business men has passed to his last rest. At 9 o'clock on Sunday morning Mr. George T. Trebilcock, the well-known South London grocer, succumbed to an affection of the throat, culminating in lung trouble, after a comparatively short illness. About the middle of March Mr. Trebilcock, realizing that his ailment was becoming serious, went to the Muskoka Sanitarium at Gravenhurst, in the hope of regaining his health, but without avail, and he returned to his home only a week ago, since which time he failed rapidly until the end came yesterday.

In 1855 his mother, Mrs. Harriet Trebilcock, of Dundas street, bringing her young family to London shortly after the war, was educated in the old Bond street and Union schools, afterwards learning the hat and cap trade with Mr. H. Beaton. Subsequently in July, 1881, he took over the grocery business in South London, and was on by the late Orville E. Smith, who was a victim of the Victoria disaster on May 24 previous. Mr. Trebilcock was married in his early years to a Miss Keast, who, along with three children, Miss Hattie and Masters Bert and Fred, survive to mourn the loss of a loved one. No children of his father. He also leaves his aged mother and three brothers, Messrs. J. C. of this city; W. H., of St. Paul, and A. E. of Toronto to mourn his untimely end.

The late Mr. Trebilcock always took a lively interest in amateur sports, was a successful baseball player and cricketer, and was fond of the gun and rod and line. Only a couple of weeks previous to his going to Muskoka he had been participating in the city whist league matches. He was a conservative Liberal in politics and a member of the executive of No. 6 Ward Liberal.

He was also a past regent of the South London branch of the Canadian Royal Arcanum, which he joined in 1882, being one of its charter members. Always of a lively, good-natured disposition, and enthusiastic in whatever he took an interest in, his genial companionship will be missed in many circles, both social and business. His death has been a great loss to the surviving members of his family, who will have the deepest sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

LIVED IN LONDON OVER FORTY YEARS

Death of Mr. Alexander Leslie, One of the City's Oldest Inhabitants.

Mr. Alexander Leslie, one of the oldest residents of this city, died yesterday morning at his residence, 81 Wilton avenue, after a long illness.

Mr. Leslie was one of the pioneer nurserymen of the district, having come to London from Montreal over 40 years ago. He was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1844, and retired from active business life about 15 years ago, and for the past four or five years had been an invalid.

The surviving members of the family are, Mrs. Leslie, who is now in the Express Company, Kingston; O. B. and Alexander, with the same company here; Dr. Wm. H. Leslie, missionary, under the American Baptist Board at Bamba, Matoko, Congo Free State, West Africa; and Misses Annie and Bessie E., at home. Mr. Leslie's widow also survives him.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place Tuesday afternoon.

An immense region in Northern Ontario, covering 15,680,000 acres and stretching from Quebec westward to Thunder Bay, on the north shore of Lake Superior, is now recognized as being well adapted for farming.

WORKMEN AT DIVINE SERVICE.

Representatives of City Lodges Visit Lambeth Brethren.

Eloquent Sermon of Rev. Dr. McCrae on Christian Co-operation—Noble History of A. O. U. W.

Representatives of the Ancient Order of United Workmen lodges of this city paid their annual visit to Lambeth yesterday to attend divine service along with brethren from other lodges of the district. Notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the heavens, which, however, later on cleared away, there was a large crowd of people present to listen to an able sermon by Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae, of the Presbyterian Church of North Westminster.

The London lodges were represented as follows: Star Lodge, by Stephen Grant, grand lodge financier, J. Barr, David Tripp, Jas. Clark, A. Campbell and G. Barr, Westminster, by Past Master Fred McMillan and H. Gardner; Fidelity, by Past Master Armitage, Past District Deputy Grand Master Oliver and Edward Marshall; London, Robert Rider, Woodbine, David Hynd and T. Glover, past master; Grant Lodge, by Chas. Howard; Electric Lodge, by E. B. Hargreaves, R. E. Matthews, H. Richardson, J. R. Depotte and W. Armstrong.

The members of the different lodges formed in procession over one hundred strong, and marched from the Union Hall to the new Methodist Church, where the services were held.

REV. DR. MCCRAE.

As a prelude to his discourse Dr. McCrae stated that it was always a pleasure for him to perform a kindly service for any organization that was seeking to do good. He did not share the belief held by even some good Christian people that fraternal organizations were a hurt to the church of God. He maintained that they were a great help to the church. Though not himself a Workman, he wished to be counted a half-brother to them, as he was thoroughly acquainted with the excellent work they had done, and knew that many a home had been brightened, cheered and comforted through the efforts of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. According to last year's report there were in Ontario alone 450 lodges with a membership of 41,000, and the sum of $92,000 had been paid out. He stated that the order had a noble history, and strongly urged that they should see that their lives were in keeping with the great work they had undertaken.

THE SERMON.

Dr. McCrae took for his text Isaiah, xl, chapter and 7th verse—"So the business men encouraged the golden smith, and he that smote the anvil, saying, it is ready for the soldering." These words illustrate a great law of God's providence and kingdom. The lesson is that of co-operation, which is God's purpose as regards all mankind as well as the church. The prosperity of the state depends upon the observance of the great principle of co-operation, or working together. The text also embodies the principles of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. The preacher here also dwelt upon the importance of getting down to ideas. He felt that the one great need today was the breaking down of the barriers that separate the rich from the poor, and the preaching of Christ's message. Christ intended to go great ideas into men's minds, because ideas rule the world.

The principle of co-operation is manifest even in nature; for example, witness the beautiful balancing of the clouds, by which God has turned the universe of nature into a great anvil. The different things of God's universe are never in opposition; they preach the creed of brotherhood; but it is only where the Gospel of Christ has come that we are led to see this. In heaven's sanctuary we find no hospitals, orphan asylums, nor any other means of helping the needy in distress. Brotherhood, like water, cannot be higher than its source; hence all true brotherhood must be bound by golden chains about the feet of God.

In conclusion, the speaker said: "It is not enough that you give advice to your brother, you must lend a hand. 'Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ.' The great need of Christianity is not loud-mouthed professions, but beautiful, brotherly and charitable living. The principles of your order are noble principles, but let your lives be even nobler than the principles you profess."

At the close of the church service the members of the different lodges adjourned to the hall, where Jas. Connolly, master of the local lodge, in a timely speech welcomed the visiting brethren. Stephen Grant, in a short address, spoke of the able sermon they had been privileged to listen to, and concluded by moving a vote of thanks to Rev. Dr. McCrae, whose motion was seconded by Mr. Oliver. Votes of appreciation were also tendered to visiting brethren and to the choir for the excellence and propriety of the music furnished for the occasion.

A Credit to London.

Gentlemen should pay a visit to the "Semi-Ready" Wardrobe, 146 Dundas street, London, just to see what enterprise and money have accomplished since the Men's Outfitting Company, capitalized at $50,000, took over the agency for the "Semi-Ready" brand of clothes for gentlemen, some weeks ago.

The store and fittings would do credit to New York, while the stock is large enough for any city in Canada. The new manager, Mr. J. H. Brownlee, is a custom tailor of wide experience, who now devotes all his time to the Company's interests.

During a conversation a day or two ago, Mr. Brownlee expressed the utmost satisfaction with his reception in London. He thinks nothing too good for Londoners, and will keep before the public the best goods obtainable.
