Apples and Inspectors. To the Editor of the Monitor; Dear Sir:-Will you permit me to r which I sent to St. John for sale some weeks ago, and in respect to which I or rather my agent, was fined for falsely marking? My solicitor wrote to the Sripendiary Magistrate of St. John to know whether this conviction was obtained upon evidence or by cor fession of Cantain Gesner, and I ap pend the reply. From this it appears that the inspector took four apples t the police court, charged me with hav ing fourteen barrels of apples for sale. "falsely marked," from which he had taken the four samples, the captain of the vessel pleaded guilty to the charge and the magistrate convicted me of any of your readers is led to wonder why I was not convicted for having the whole fourteen barrels for sale, as admitted by the captain, I can only suggest that "the conviction was nore for the purpose of emphasizing the fact that there was law bearing on the matter.' Now after the proceedings in the police court the inspector branded fifteen barrels of my apples "falsely marked" and notified me of the fact. The adjudication and conviction only extended to four barrels and one would suppose that the inspector would have stopped when he oranded four, but perhaps he too, wanted to emphasize the fact tha there was law bearing on the matter but if so he emphasized it in a far to have actuated the magistrate. repeat what I said in my previou

Following is the letter referred Dear Sir:—In reply to your enquiry, the Police Magistrate requests me to say that the apples exposed for sale, as being falsely marked or some of as being talsely marked or some of them were brought to the Police Court and were so manifestly below, in grade, the marks said to be on the barrel, that Capt. Gesner, who was acting as agent of the owner, was sent for and admitted that they were in his hands for sale, but as he was only an agent for Inglis the minimum fine for having four barrels was im-

rels, but as only four samples were produced the adjudication was limited to the latter number of packages. There was no evidence taken, and the conviction was upon defendant's admission. The fine was nominal and more for the purpose of emphasizing the fact that there was law bearing of the matter.
