

instances are given, in these lectures, of those verbal tours de force.

We must now take leave of Dr. Dawson's lectures. They are valuable contributions towards a harmony of the conflicting claims of Science and Religion, and very suggestive and provocative of thought. We sincerely hope they will have an extensive sale, for we are sure that they will tend to create a fairer mode of treating the Bible than either savans or theologians usually employ. What with the savans taking metaphors literally, and the theologians taking objective statements metaphorically there never was a book so unfairly treated.
