

has had a number of inventions added to it, steam coils, invented by Stanley, are used instead of fire.

A separate analyzer invented by Reece in 1867 is used. An exchanger invented by Mort in 1870 is another attachment. I will now endeavour to describe how an absorption machine