

SUBMISSION TO THE HOUSE OF COMMONS
STANDING COMMITTEE ON LABOUR, MANPOWER AND IMMIGRATION

ON
"UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE 70'S"
A FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WHITE PAPER

THE CANADIAN WELFARE COUNCIL

PREPARED BY THE CANADIAN WELFARE COUNCIL

The Canadian Welfare Council is a national nongovernment organization made up of some 500 public and private agencies, business corporations and labour organizations, church and citizen groups, and about 1,300 individuals, interested in policies and programs which affect individual well-being and social development. Through planning, consultation, research and public education, the Council seeks to promote for the people of Canada social security measures and social services, government and nongovernment, that are adequate in extent, of high quality and soundly administered. The Council's briefs and statements endeavour to influence public policy towards this end.

2. We are pleased to note that many of the recommendations of the White Paper, many of them similar to recommendations the Council

(1) The major relevant extracts are attached as an Appendix to this statement.