

BRITAIN'S PERIL FROM SUBS. IS VIRTUALLY OVER

Statements of Admiralty and Earl of Selborne Significant.

METHODS KEPT SECRET

But Belief That Many Sub-mersibles Have Been Caught is Strong.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Belief that the British admiralty has been able to devise measures to minimize the danger from German submarines was strengthened today by statements from the admiralty and the Earl of Selborne, president of the board of agriculture. In the admiralty report of the expedition of the British airman, Flight Squadron Commander Bigsforth, in sinking a German submarine off Ostend it is significantly stated that it has not been the practice of the admiralty to publish accounts regarding the losses of German submarines, "important to the Germans" in cases where the Germans had no other source of information as to the time and place at which these losses occurred. It has been reported for months that a large number of German submarines, variously stated at from 20 to 40, have been caught by the British navy, but today's statement is the only official admission that there were others than those previously announced by the admiralty as having been destroyed.

Menace No Longer.
The Earl of Selborne, in concluding an address to a deputation of agricultural landowners, declared that the British navy has the submarine menace well in hand. In the light of the country's experience with submarines, however, the agricultural and economic policy of Great Britain, including the broad questions of food production, would have to be revised, he continued. The committee which he had appointed to deal with increasing the food supply had recommended that farmers should be guaranteed $10 ($12.50 per quarter for wheat, beginning with the harvest of 1916 and continuing until 1920. In view of circumstances in Selborne added, the government had decided that it would not incur the additional financial liabilities involved in the guarantee of arrangements however made, to supply farmers with labor.

Many Subs. Destroyed.
Since the beginning of the war the British official reports have accounted for but one submarine, besides the one destroyed of which was announced today, although there have been vague references to submarines being rammed or sunk by unarmored ships in the English Channel, and the admiral's reward offered by the admiralty for the sinking of a submarine has been paid to a British merchantman.

There have been no other intimations as to what method, offensive or defensive, has been taken by the British navy against submarines although the admiralty previously announced its satisfaction with these measures.

Many Rumors.
Returning Americans have described the new British sport of submarine hunting and have said that great numbers of small, high powered and very speedy motor boats, mounting guns of small calibre, have constantly scoured the coastal waters of Great Britain for months. There also have been repeated stories of an extensive system of submarine nets in channel waters and of one submarine net that extends entirely across the English Channel, with guard boats at the opening.

RED CROSS TO GET BUSINESS WOMEN'S AID

Office Girls and Stenographers Are Contributing Toward Fund for Soldiers.

A fund having the sanction of the local Red Cross Society has been opened to enable the office girls of Toronto to contribute from their earnings as large a sum as possible for use in the present war. Some large offices have a fund of their own, but many are many who have no organization thru which to give.

Other business women following the example of the stenographers and office girls are organizing for Red Cross work, but it is intended to keep all funds contributed by the office girls distinct. It is requested that all wishing to contribute to the stenographers and office girls' fund will send in their contributions to 201 Church street. Any office telephoning to Main 2280 will have their contributions called for if desired.

DRIVE DOUBT AWAY FROM MEN'S MINDS

Forceful Addresses Given at Large Recruiting Meeting in Oakwood.

MADE SPECIAL APPEAL

Citizens Called Upon to Respond When Empire Needs Fighters.

If there were any young men present at the recruiting meeting held last night at Dundurn Heights, St. Clair street, who are eligible for overseas service, and who wavered in their duty towards the empire, their doubts must have been overcome after hearing the forceful addresses delivered by John Beverley Robinson and A. Wright and the appeal of Miss Jessie McNab.

Fully 1,000 people were gathered on the lawn which were brilliantly illuminated with electric lights. Mr. Robinson, who came of United Empire Loyalist stock, said that he was sorry that such a thing as a recruiting meeting was necessary to obtain men to fight for the cause of Britain in her hour of need. I have been told that it has not been brought home to the young men of this country that their duty is to fight. I should have thought that when the sinking of the Lusitania took place and men read of the shrieks of the women and babies as they drowned at the hands of those inhuman wretches, that they would have rushed in swarms to the recruiting offices. This act, however, did not stir Canada as it should have done. He dealt with the statements which have been made in connection with the Monroe doctrine. "I have heard it said that if the Germans reached this far the Monroe Doctrine would protect us. To the devil with the Monroe Doctrine!" he declared.

Secret Preparations.
Referring to the fact that Germany has spent millions of dollars in munitions in the United States, which it is thought have been secreted in the country by Germans, he said: "There are thousands of the Kaiser's official agents in the United States. Germany is doing all she can to force America into the war, and these men are only waiting for this to take place. You know what this would mean, those men are prepared, they know where to lay their hands on the munitions, and in a very short time they would be over the border and at Toronto."

Mr. Robinson spoke strongly regarding the excuses of having a sweet heart who would not agree to her boy enlisting and of not liking to leave home. He said that he particularly wanted to get at the man who was holding a soft job. He referred to the fact that a large proportion of the men who had enlisted were men who worked with their hands, and made a special appeal to clerks and men who did not earn their living by manual labor.

"The men at the parliament buildings want to send a machine gun as their part. The machine gun is all right if they will send a crew to man it." He said that after a call for recruits had been placed at the building only ten men enlisted out of the 300 employees. Out of these ten two were married and five were physically unfit.

Victory is Certain.
A. W. Wright, vice-chairman of the Women's War Council, said emphatically that Toronto had not done her part in sending men to fight, and wondered if there were still some who had their doubts as to whether the part England was playing was justifiable. "It took ten years to crush Napoleon," he said, "but that war is insignificant compared to this great struggle. It will take a long time to crush the Kaiser, but victory is certain."

Dr. Fraser urged the women to enlist in the Women's Home Guard, which has just been organized by Miss McNab. Speaking in connection with the Riga district. To the southwest of Friedrichstadt, in the region of Schoenberg and Radzivilski, on the 24th and 25th, on positions before Iwje, the Russian forces met the German and stubborn fighting ensued. In the direction of Dvinsk and in the region of Onkista, on the River Sventa, we drove the Germans back.

"In the direction of Vilna our troops which held up the Jany during the 24th and 25th, on positions before Iwje, are gradually falling back along both banks of the River Vilja.

"On the middle Niemen and the front between the Bobr and the Pripiet our armies, in conformity with instructions, are retreating slowly to the east. The enemy is pressing our troops only in certain directions, having on the 25th concentrated his principal efforts against Bialystok and on the roads running eastward from Bialystok to Kleshtse.

"On other sectors of our front, in general, there has been no important change."

Hold Railway Line.
The Germans now are in possession of the whole line of railway from Cholm to Bialystok. The Russians having already evacuated the latter city, the lesser fortresses of Grodno and Oita are now the only strongly defended positions remaining in the hands of the Russians, while our cavalry, being approached by the Germans and probably will be given up when they have fulfilled their purpose of facilitating the retreat of the Russian armies.

The Russians have not yet entered the vast Bielowitz forest which runs 30 miles north and south and has a width of from 17 to 30 miles. The forest is a famous hunting centre and a bison preserve. South of it are the Pripiet marshes, which protect the Russian left, and with plenty of roads and three or four railroad lines, it is expected here that Grand Duke Nicholas will make good his retirement if Grodno and Vilna can hold out long enough. Even tho they should fall, military observers say the grand duke would be well on his way to his new positions before the Germans could reach his flank. There is again no indication as yet where this attempt is to be made.

WOMEN'S SECTION ALWAYS INTERESTS

This Year's Display at Exhibition Should Eclipse All Others.

SERVE AS INSPIRATION

Localities That Have Not Taken Up Soldiers' Comforts Will Do So.

The women's section at the exhibition is always a quarter that draws the crowds. The feminine world naturally gravitates to the spot where evidences of the skill and deftness of their sex are displayed, and for some reason or other, generally, the men are also attracted to the same spot.

Always attractive, this year's display ought to eclipse all its predecessors. The war has influenced every industry and department of life. Unfortunately, efforts generally have been depressing and disastrous, but in the case of women's arts, crafts and industries there has been a wonderful development for the better. The most lost art of hand sewing has been revived and has become general thru the making of kits and Red Cross equipment, and the work with which our grandmothers loved to beguile the long winter evenings, has been resurrected in the click, click of the knitting needles and the serpentine roll of the yarn.

Patient Industry.
At the Exhibition there will be exhibits that will speak eloquently of the patience and industry of Canadian women in the cause of their men at the front. In addition, this portion of the work will serve as an incentive to rousing patriotic sentiment among many whose minds are yet unopened to this necessity.

In certain localities and in the great centres especially, work among the women is general, but it cannot be denied that there are still great sections where both men and women are as yet dead to the call of the times.

The women's patriotic exhibits and those of the Red Cross generally will be seen by thousands and will serve as an inspiration. Activities in the cause of empire are sure to follow.

THE GRAND OPENS WITH "THE ROSARY"

Famous Drama to Be the Offering During the Fair Week.

THE LAST TIME HERE

Important Changes Made in the House for the Convenience of Theatregoers.

Thursday evening, Sept. 2, is the date set for the opening of the Grand Opera House, when Toronto theatregoers will be offered their last opportunity to see the most popular drama that has been seen in years. The play, "The Rosary," is Edward E. Rose's greatest success, a religious, heart-touching story that has received the voluntary commendation of representative clergy of all denominations. While the central figure is that of a Catholic priest, the character is so drawn that the question of sectarianism is not in any way involved. Rev. Brian Kelly is presented as a man of God, whose greatest thought is the good he can do for his fellowmen. He never creed or of no creed, and the actor who portrays the character has caught the author's inspiration in his conception of the role. "The Rosary" tells a modest and unassuming story of how the watchful and protective influence of the good priest ultimately restores the happiness of a home that has been wrecked by the evil plotting of one who coveted his neighbor's wife, and sought revenge because his rival had won the love of the woman to whom he paid suit in the days when she was free to choose between them. Several important changes have been made in the Grand since the close of last season and all have been made for the convenience of the fair patrons of the famous playhouse. "The Rosary" will also be presented during the second week of the fair with the comedy "Moray" (Labor Day) Wednesday and Saturday.

statement was issued tonight at the Austrian war office. "The fortress of Brest-Litovsk has fallen. Hungarian landwehr under Field Marshal Von Arz captured yesterday the village of Kobovany, southeast of the village of Wyzwa, and thereby broke the exterior of the fort line. West Galician, Silesian and North Moravian infantry stormed at the same time the forts south of the village of Koroscayn. German troops captured the citadel.

"Meantime the allies repelled the enemy across the Lesna and in the forest and marshy district southeast of Brest-Litovsk, while our cavalry, pursuing the Russians from Kovel northwest, threw their rear-guards back near Buchin and Wyzwa.

"In east Galicia the situation is unchanged."

Time Flies

Whether it be measured by the great city clock or by the sun-dial without which no garden of 68 years ago was complete, it flies fast. We only realize its speed when it has gone by—Twenty years ahead is a long way off, while twenty years ago is but a little while back.

Looking backward will not be without its keen regret if the matter of insurance has been neglected. The yearly premiums on a 20 year endowment may now seem scarcely worth while, but when the policy matures and you hold a cheque for its face value plus several hundred dollars in profits you will feel differently about it.

The policy will fall due when you are in the prime of life, probably when you can use it to the very best advantage. If you are not already wealthy it may start you in business or form the basis of an investment that will ensure ease and comfort for the rest of your life.

In any case you will have the money and the satisfaction of knowing that for twenty years you have done your duty in having your life protected in favor of those dependent upon you.

That protection will be absolutely safe and the returns from your insurance will prove it a first class investment if it is issued by the

BURSAR OF ASYLUM HAD ACTIVE LIFE

Late Jas. Corcoran Was Citizen Who Had Many Interests.

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN

Was Prominent Political Worker and Was True to Conviction.

The passing of James Corcoran at the family home, 149 Cowan avenue, Toronto, deserves a tribute from many sincere friends who desire to express their appreciation of his integrity and consistent Christian life. During his active business career, few Canadian merchants have been so well known or more highly respected. He came to Canada from Ireland during his youth, and entered into business at Stratford, Ont., as a wholesale grocer, enjoying marked success and accumulating a considerable fortune.

In addition to his mercantile business, he cleared up a large area of swampy timber lands in Perth County, and by a drainage system made the land cultivatable. The liberality and thoughtfulness he displayed for his clients and business associates is still favorably remembered by many residents of that county.

Retiring from business in Stratford, he entered the firm of McBride, Corcoran & O'Connor distillers, Windsor, Ont. In 1892 he was appointed bursar at the Mimico Asylum, and afterwards occupied the same position at the Toronto Asylum. It is one of the bright spots in Canadian politics to note that altho Mr. Corcoran had long passed the civil service age limit, when a change of government took place his services were retained and he was honored with cordial appreciation of "duties well performed" up to the time of his death.

One unusual circumstance during his long life deserves special mention, the fact that he sacrificed a large part of his well-deserved fortune to sustain a business which had no claim upon him beyond the desire to benefit and keep good faith with others who were interested. Mr. Corcoran was a Liberal of the old school, and was a warm friend of the late Alex. Mackenzie. In 1874 he unsuccessfully contested North Perth, and after the death of his wife and eldest son about 1881, he retired from active politics.

He is survived by three sons and six daughters—James L. of Stratford, F. P. of Chicago, Rev. Jos. A. of Montreal, Mother Frances, Loretto Academy, and the Misses Elizabeth, Katherine, Jennie and Josephine at home, and Helen of Chicago.

WOULD REORGANIZE TRAVELERS' BENEFIT
Matter Discussed at Meeting, But No Action Decided for the Present.

"Reorganization of the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Benefit Society was discussed at a meeting in the Grand Hall last evening. The insurance department at Ottawa has pointed out that the society's rates are inadequate for the security of members, and requires that the necessary changes be made at once. No action was taken and an adjournment was made for two weeks, so that the members may acquaint themselves with the situation.
