YORK COUNTY AND SUBURBS
INDEPENDENT TELEPHONES
NUMEROUS ABOUT TORONTO

York and Ontario Union "Now Cover" 36 Postoffice Centres East and North of City.

On Saturday evening last, the systems of the Stouffville Telephone Company and the Mount Albert Company were connected, and by this junction the York and Ontario Independent Telephone Union has now, among the different companies which form the union, over 420 subscribers.

The union is composed of six companies—the Scarborough Telephone Company, the Markham and Pickering Telephone Company, the Bethesda and Stouffville Telephone Company, the Central Telephone Association of Altona, the Claremont and Ashburn Telephone Company. These companies are absolutely independent, not having any belt connection, and cover a district of over 39 miles, by a width of about 12 miles, extending over parts of the Townships of Pickering, Scarborough, Markham, Whitechurch and East Gwillimbury, and also in the incorporated villages of Markham and Stouffville. Lines of the Scarborough Company run within three or four miles of the Toronto city limits.

These telephone companies cover about 36 postoffices, and the instrument is in all but three or four offices. There are five or six banks in this district which have these instruments. The foregoing work has almost entirely been done within the last 24 months, which shows the remarkable growth in a suburban district. Subscribers to any company have free use of the whole union.

Early next spring the Mount Albert Company will connect with another independent company, and when this is done there will be a continuous chain of independent companies along the east border of York County, extending from Lake Ontario quite close to Toronto, up to Jackson Point, on Lake Simcoe.

The union, of which A. D. Bruce Gormley is president, is the outcome of the demand for independent telephones, especially among the farming class. About 350 of the telephones now operated in this union are in farming houses. In some parts of Markham supported by W. J. Minton, brother of the bride. H. Howard Jones played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." The happy couple left for Toronto by the evening car. On their return they will reside at Springfield Farm. Many useful and valuable presents were received by the bride.

George Henry Appeals for Support.
To the Electors of York Township: As it is impossible for me to make a personal canvass for your suffrages, I take this method of reaching you. York Township has been increasing in population and importance so rapidly during recent years that it has outgrown its present system of administration. In most respects the township affairs are governed by the same laws as apply to a purely rural municipality. It is consequently necessary to apply for more ample powers from the Ontario legislature. I am in favor of encouraging all improvements. The Bloor-street viaduct is a necessary and rapidly developing part of the city and the township and the town of East Toronto. The extension of Gerrard-street is now almost accomplished. The fact of the grading and bridging alone remaining to be done. The opening of Queen-street thru High Park to the River Humber is a large work, but one that will be a great advantage to the western district, and consequently needs all reasonable encouragement. If the County of York fails to do something with the good roads movement in the near future, the township should press for recognition under the Good Roads Act. It is now a necessity that York Township receive outside assistance to build up its highways. Owing to the activity of railway companies at the present time it is very desirable that York Township have a strong energetic council.

By a move of your humble servant, the postmaster-general was petitioned last March for free rural mail delivery. According to a recent despatch from the government in that direction. In the near future the Toronto Junction, Davenport, Dovercourt, Brantford, Wychwood Park, Deer Park, Donmorden, and other places, and Coleman will have free mail delivery, except in isolated places. I am in favor of pressing this service to be still further extended. The above are some of the ideas on which I am now soliciting your votes and influence. I have been honored with a nomination by your council board during the last four years, and if entrusted with the chief magistracy of 1907 I shall continue to work for progress and efficiency in township affairs.
George S. Henry.

North Toronto and Power Bylaw
Editor World: Now that Toronto, by such an emphatic vote, has carried its power bylaw, of such vital importance, both as a means of industrial development and general advantage in household economy, should not the ratepayers of North Toronto seize the opportunity of having cheap power delivered at their doors?
The bylaw which we are asked to endorse next Monday should be passed. It contemplates the supply of power (payment of which is spread over twenty years) to light the side streets, which well as Yonge-street, the supplying of power for manufacturers, so that many of our people can find work in the town, thereby saving them many car fares, and also giving us a quick alarm in case of fire—a much needed precaution. The churches, halls and banks constructed, or to be constructed, require it, and the number of petitions already filed, that there are a sufficient number of householders, electric light for the use of it, who will take advantage of it as soon as it is installed. Ex-Mayor Justin T. Brown, of the Town of Brampton, which has a population of 30,000, says his town, having been lighted for over twenty years by electricity, would never think of adopting any other system, and Brampton is now facturing purposes, and is anxious to obtain some from Niagara. Are not we to be progressive and obtain that advantage and comfort of our citizens? If so, let us cast our votes in favor of this bylaw.

grown up with the town, there is no legislation in connection with East Toronto, past or present, with which he is not conversant, so his inclusion in the council should be the means of new vigor being infused into the deliberations of the next twelve months.

East Toronto, Jan. 3.—The mass meeting citizens held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-night to hear the candidates for municipal honors outlined their views as to the many improvements which should be effected during their term of office. Mayor Richard Wagner was chairman. Mayor Richardson and John McP. Ross, the aspirant for the majority, got a warm reception. Mayor Richardson, in the course of an excellent speech, referred to the many improvements which had been effected during his regime, including the waterworks system and the sidewalks of the town. He referred to the proposed entrance of the railway, and expressed his hearty accord with the extension of the preservation of the residential section. Mr. Ross, in the course of a spirited 15-minute address, reviewed briefly some of the work accomplished during the year, and as chairman of the committee dealing with the waterworks during the year, he referred to the work done in that connection. He also referred to the work he had done in connection with the street railway to Ward 3, and struck a responsive chord when he expressed his opinion that the city should be allowed to advance the movement. For reeve, Robert Nimmo and Joseph Hinds declared that, if elected, they would devote their best services to the town. Mr. Hinds said he had changed his mind since last year with reference to the street railway, and would now go as far as at that time. Frank Abbott charged the council with withholding the money for the street railway and not presenting them for consideration. Councilors Berry and Shinnick referred briefly to their own terms of office. Candidate McNeill, for Ward 3, was not present, and T. N. Phelan, a candidate for the council in Ward 2, spoke briefly. If elected, he would devote his best services to the town. Mr. Phelan's reception was most cordial, and at the close of the meeting he was assured of a large support. Councilor Nasimith gave a comprehensive review of his labors during the year, and was followed by Messrs. Brown and Dudley. As chairman of roads and bridges, Councilor Johnson asked for renewed support. Dr. Walters made an attack on council in general, charging that the street railway matter had been sidetracked, and that the annexation vote, if carried, would be the beginning of litigation. He also charged the council with the reduction in the number of councilors.
