Private George E. Underwood, of No. 1 Company, R. R. C. I., has been missing from Wolseley Barracks since 9 a Londoner and has been a member of the R. R. C. I. for the past two years. A SEWER ACCIDENT.

Mr. John Walters, of Piccadilly street, while at work on the sewer on Central avenue, between Colborne and Maitland streets, had the misfortune to break his right arm near the wrist. He was engaged in timbering, when some earth caved in and caused the accident. Mr. Walters lost a son in the Klondike only a few weeks ago. BROWN'S BELONGINGS.

Governor Boston has had Marion Brown's clothes and peg leg packed in the valise sent the murderer from Texas some time ago, ready for reshipment at the request of Brown's sister. Brown was in jail 215 days. The entry in the blotter on Oct. 15, when he was committed, shows that he was then 25 years of age.

FROEBEL SOCIETY MEETS. There was a good attendance at the last Froebel Society mother's meeting on Tuesday afternoon at Rectory street kindergarten. The proceedings had reference to the approaching Empire Holiday. A paper on patriotism was read by Miss Buttrey, who characterized the state as the larger family, and urged that teaching a child to cooperate with other members of the family is the best foundation for later active citizenship. A brief history of the Union Jack was given, with plackboard illustrations, and Principal Althouse, followed by remarking that the special study of those over whom this As It Is." Speaking from his own knowledge of it he said that he regards it as a very important part of the school organization, as it teaches obedience instead of caprice, trains the body and the senses, and instead of maxims, gives the child habits of right doing. Mothers and kindergartners joined in a flag-march, the singing of the National Anthem and the Maple Leaf, and afterwards enjoyed a social half-hour.

MRS. CONLEY'S DEATH

Mrs. Mabel Conley, who died here on the 16th of May, in the 65th year of her age, was a daughter of the late Daniel and Dotty Vining, a sister of the late Mrs. J. C. Yule, and the Rev. Jos. Vining. She was born at Rochester, N. Y., and came with her parents to Nissouri, Ont., when she was 12 years old. In 1852 she was married to Mr. Alexander Conley, and in February, 1884, she was left a widow with seven children, the youngest of whom was then 10 years of age. Shortly after her husband's AT THE HOUSE youngest of whom was then 10 years death she removed to this city, where she united with the Talbot Street Baptist Church, of which she remained a consistent member until her death. At the early age of 6 years she was brought to know her Lord, and she was subsequently baptized by Elder Wilson. She will long be remembered as an earnest and faithful Christian and Sunday school worker. She leaves three sons and two daughters, besides two stepsons and a stepdaughter, children of her husband by a former marriage. To them she bequeathes the example and prayers of a loving and godly mother.

Anxious to Have Differences Sub mitted to Arbitratin.

In regard to the assertion of Manager Carr in relation to Mr. Pickell, that he was laid off for a day for not backing down the hill at Regent and Wellington streets, we may state that he had started to back down the hill, when his conductor, who was Austin Addison, gave him two bells to go whead, and informed him that it was no use in going to Richmond street, o'clock Tuesday evening, when he resisted arrest and fled. Underwood is ing, and as the motorman is under ing, and as the motorman is under orders of the conductor, he naturally obeyed. The rule bearing on this case states as follows: "Rule 16. Charge of conductors.-The conductor has charge of the car, and the motorman is under his directions, and will obey his orders (as far as reasonable). In case the Personnel of the Ball Teams to Play motorman fails to observe any of the rules and regulations the conductor must report the case to the superintendent at once, or he will also be held responsible." In regard to the large number of men who have laid off work, it is hardly necessary to state that the committee are now off in the interests of the employes, and they have all notified the superintendent of the fact. It is not a matter of general occurrence, though as a matter of fact the numerous grievances of the employes in the past has made it necessary for the grievance committee to lose time to interview Manager Carr, but they have always in such cases complied with the rules, and when it was impossible to find him, during their time off duty, they have always arranged for the relief men to take their places while interviews have taken place. If Manager Carr, instead of carefully writing up interviews with a deliberate intention to mislead the public, would consent to have all differences submitted to arbitration, when men could be examined and cross-examined by impartial authorities, it would be a far more satisfactory way of getting at the truth. We are ready to do this. Unfortunately the management so far has not evinced a like desire. Our case has been stated to the public, who can judge for themselves, and we think if directors of the London Street Railway Company desire to have a flag floats should be to preserve the satisfactory adjustment they can ideals for which it stands. He gave a hardly refuse to submit the issue to a brief address on "The Kindergarten fair tribunal, as we have asked. Having a strong case, and feeling we are right, we have no fear to meet the issue and leave it to honest arbitration. As a committee, our whole saim is to avoid trouble. We have taken no avoid trouble. hasty or ill-advised action. taking into consideration the interests of the public, as well as the welfare of the men, and we will not precipitate a crisis until every honorable means of effecting a settlement has proved futile. We see little use in the continuance of a controversy in which one side affirms and the other denies. The difference between the committee and the manager in their assertions is that one side is willing to submit every-thing to arbitration. Is the case of the management so weak that it cannot afford to do the same? This committee with full confidence leaves the public to decide the true merits of the case. Which side has taken the most honorable stand? (Signed)

The Canada Life Assurance Bill Goes -Douglas' Elevator Eill Defeated.

[Special to The Advertiser per C.P.R.] Ottawa, May 18.-There was another crowded meeting of the banking and commerce committee today to further consider the Canada Life Assurance bill. The bill passed with a few amendments, one of which gives power to hold the head office at any other place than Toronto, if so decided. In the list of directors to be sent out it must be stated whether they are shareholders or policyholders, or both. At the meeting of the special com-mittee appointed to discuss Dr. Douglas' elevator bill the first clause was defeated. This means that the bill is defeated. However, the clause about be accepted. The government may do this.
