

RUSSIA IN NEED OF ALLIED HELP

Must Not Be Abandoned While She is in Trouble.

COMMISSIONER HOME

C. F. Just Returns After Thrilling Escape From That Country.

Ottawa, Ont., June 1.—After many exciting experiences in Petrograd during the progress of the revolution and a terrible trip thru Finland by way of Tammefors to Sweden and England, C. F. Just, appointed Canadian trade commissioner to Russia, shortly before the outbreak of the reign of terror in that country, has reached Ottawa. When interviewed by the Canadian Press today, Mr. Just declared that the allies must consider no move which would tend towards the abandonment of Russia. While he was unable to suggest any possible way of rendering aid at the present time he favored the suggestion regarding the formation of commissions by the allied countries to establish the national services of Russia on a solid basis as soon as a responsible government has been formed. These commissions, he declared, would have to be in a position to render practical help.

Previous to his appointment as trade commissioner to Russia, Mr. Just, was acting in a similar capacity in Germany and for nine months subsequent to the outbreak of war, was confined in Hamburg. On his exchange being effected by the British authorities he returned to Canada and was then sent to Russia to report on the opportunities for the extension of Russo-Canadian trade. In 1916 his appointment as trade commissioner was made by the Canadian Government and he commenced work late in that year.

It was not until the Bolshevik insurrection that Mr. Just was compelled to give up his work completely, and then he accompanied the British, French and Italian embassy officials in their flight to Helsinki. There it was arranged for an icebreaker to take them to Sweden, but fearing capture by the Bolsheviks, they made an exit over the ice in sleighs to the Aland Islands was proposed, when it was learned that the islands were in the hands of the Germans. About thirty of the party attempted the trip, but, with the exception of three older members, they were made prisoners and interned in Danzig. Mr. Just then made his way north to Tammefors.

Two young flying corps cadets identified Woods as the driver who undertook to make the desired arrangements, and collected $6 apiece for the trip to a point half a block from the house. The Griffith girl swore that she and the driver had never been to her house. Later she was taken into custody on a charge of perjury. LATE LT. T. H. HEINTZMAN GIVEN MILITARY HONORS

Remains of Victim of Accident Thursday at Camp Mohawk Laid to Rest Saturday.

Borne on the shoulders of eight of his comrades the body of the late Lieut. T. Herman Heintzman, who was killed in an airplane accident at Camp Mohawk, Deseronto, last Thursday, was laid to rest in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Saturday afternoon. The funeral, with full military honors, took place from the family home, 482 Avenue road, and the cortege was headed by 40 cadets from the school of aeronautics, in charge of Lieut. J. G. Couture. Lieut. H. J. Kirby of the C.E. was in charge of the gun carriage, while the firing party, consisting of 40 members from M.D. No. 2, was in charge of Lieut. R. E. Evans. The pall-bearers, in charge of Lieut. L. H. Landry, were Lieuts. Courtney, Alexander, Hepburn, Lee, Leonard, Raikes and Stroud of the R.A.F.

As the solemn tones of the "Dead March in Saul" played by the band of the Royal Grenadiers, under the bandmaster of Lieut. John Waldron, floated on the air, heads were bowed in mute respect for the gallant young officer who had given his life in his country's service, and something like a sob was heard from the great crowd that had congregated. At the house the service was conducted by Rev. Donald T. L. Mckerroll of Victoria Presbyterian Church, while a short service at the grave was conducted by Major (Rev.) T. Crawford Brown of the 48th Highlanders. Following the volley fired by the firing party over the remains, the "Last Post" was sounded and then the band played "Nearer My God to Thee."

The late Lieut. Heintzman enlisted in the R.F.C. last fall and received his training in Texas. Coming back to Toronto about two months ago he was stationed for a short time at Armour Heights, and about two weeks ago was appointed as instructor at Deseronto. He was the son of Herman Heintzman and was 30 years of age. Born in Toronto he worked previous to his enlistment, with his father's firm and was assistant superintendent at the West Toronto factory, and a number of the hands from the factory followed at the rear. Surviving him are his parents, three sisters, Mrs. Lindsay Graham, Mrs. Arthur Edgar and Mrs. (Major) J. Vandenberg, as well as a brother, Charles E. of Toronto. Major J. Vandenberg, a brother-in-law, who was seriously wounded, is one of the four original officers of the Princess Pa's.

The accident in which both Lieut. Heintzman and Lieut. Rosenthal were killed, was a spinning dive. The two officers were making a light near Camp Mohawk when they encountered another plane returning to the camp, and in an effort to avoid a collision their machine began to spin and crashed to the earth.

INQUEST NOT DECIDED UPON.

The question of an inquest on the death of Air Cadet Jan G. Lawrie has not yet been decided. A question of the jurisdiction of Chief Coroner Johnson in the case has arisen, on account of the fact that the alleged neglect which may have brought about the death of the cadet, did not take place in Toronto, but at Camp Borden. On Saturday Dr. Johnson had not made up his mind, as he was waiting to hear from Mr. Lawrie, the dead man's father, and until he had done so he could not state definitely.
