

LODGE TONIGHT TO CELEBRATE 25TH BIRTHDAY

Of Roxborough L. O. B. A. Original Members, Three Still Living

This month marks the 25th anniversary of Roxborough Lodge of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association and the reaching of this important milestone in the life of the organization will be observed at a gathering of the members this evening in the 'Prentice Boys' Hall in Guilford street, West Saint John.

FORMED ON OCT. 10.

Roxborough Lodge was organized on Oct. 10, 1891, at the home of the late Mrs. and Mrs. Ezekiel McLeod, of West Saint John, by Miss Mary Cullen, of Toronto. It started with 15 charter members. Its name was chosen in honor of the late William Roxborough, a prominent member of the Orange Order in his time. Three of the charter members of Roxborough still are living—Mrs. Isaac McLeod, Mrs. Angelina Ferguson and Mrs. John Carrier. Mrs. Albert Evans is the present worthy mistress, and Mrs. Joseph Taylor, one of the members, is the Supreme Grand Chaplain of the L. O. B. A. of British North America, and is also the Grand Provincial W. M. Connected with the lodge is an active sewing circle which has done much for the aid of the Protestant Orphanage. For this purpose the sum of $100 was contributed last year, and, in addition, no garments were made and other charitable work done. The members assisted at the home cooking booth of the fair recently held in aid of the orphanage fund.

UGLIEST WOMAN IS PLEASED WITH JOB

Finds Self Cause of Consolation to More Fortunate Sisters

HOLBECK, Yorkshire, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Bevan's face is her fortune—its reverse. She is a back-handed sister to Cleopatra and Helen of Troy, whose careers may be said to have revolved around their faces.

Mrs. Mary Ann Bevan is distinguished by her superior ugliness. She claims with pride that there is no woman on earth more awful to look upon than she. Yet she takes a queer satisfaction in her ugliness. "It makes other women, who are not quite sure how good looking they are, feel light-hearted to see me," she explains. "They know, at any rate, that they are not as ugly as I and that makes them feel better. I like to do good in the world, even in such an unusual way."

Mrs. Bevan, in spite of her face, is a charming woman with three charming and good-looking children. She first discovered her unusual ugliness when she entered an "ugly girl" competition and won first prize against 250 rival claimants. Doctors tell her she will become more ugly as she grows older.

SCOTT RECEIVES REPRIEVE CALMLY

Tired of Jail With His Life Jeopardized; Plans Test of Sanity

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Wearing a soiled collar, a threadbare tie, a baggy gray suit and in need of a shave, Russell T. Scott received without an obvious expression of emotion the word today that he had again been granted more time to live.

Scott said he was tired of being incarcerated with his life jeopardized by repeated sanity hearings, and added: "Hang me if I am guilty, but put me on the street if I am not."

As he leaned forward and grasped the cell bars, Scott declared, "There was one prominent man who said he would give $10,000 out of his own pocket if I was hanged next Friday."

He said that through friends he was preparing to have the Illinois law dealing with the criminal insane tested before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Denies Intention Of Moving To U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—A contract with her French managers, which runs three more years, serves as an effective bar to her permanent removal to the United States, Paquet Mellor, Spanish stage artist, declared yesterday on her arrival for a second "tournee."

Asked regarding reports that she had sold her holdings in France, and had been accused of "ingratitude" by French critics, she said the Paris residence was disposed only because of staging taxes.

Woman Attacked By Hawk, But Magpie Flock Saves Her

SYDNEY, Oct. 14.—A fierce battle between a woman and a huge eagle-hawk was recently fought at a sheep station near Goulburn, about 140 miles from here.

The woman, Mrs. Gertrude Flynn, was going out to drive the cows home for the night, when she heard them bellowing. They were rushing madly in all directions.

At first, Mrs. Flynn thought that a pack of wild dogs were bothering them, but as she drew nearer she saw a huge eagle-hawk, viciously attacking the cows. Swinging down at them the hawk was pecking furiously and clawing at the backs of the frantic animals.

Without thought of her own danger, Mrs. Flynn picked up a large stick, and when she came near the hawk, struck it with the stick.

The hawk's claws ripped her dress from shoulder to wrist. Mrs. Flynn fought desperately to save her life. She aimed heavy blows at the bird but its talons continued to inflict severe gashes on the woman, and she was almost exhausted when she found unexpected allies.

While the fight was being waged, a small flock of magpies came to Mrs. Flynn's assistance and pecked at the bird of prey. Singly, the hawk could have killed the magpies with one blow, but numbers told and soon he was in flight. Mrs. Flynn was so seriously injured that she had to enter a hospital.

PLUCKY GIRLS SAVE PAYROLL FROM ROBBERS

Two With $3,000 Held Up in Street by Youths

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The hold-up of two young girls from whom a $3,000 payroll was taken caused considerable excitement at Broadway and Fourteenth street. One of the two girls, Eva Boretzky and Edith Ficus, both of Brooklyn, employees of the Phoenix Leather Goods Company, University Place, had just obtained the payroll at the Central Mercantile Bank,

TRIPPED BY YOUTHS

They were walking south in University Place and were near Thirteenth street when two youths ran out of a doorway and tripped the girls. As the girls fell the robbers snatched the envelopes out of their hands. Miss Boretzky was the first to regain her feet, and started to chase the robbers north in University Place to Fourteenth street, a large crowd joining in the pursuit.

The robbers tore open the envelopes as they ran, and began to divide the loot. One darted into the Interborough subway station at Broadway, but the other continued toward Fourth avenue. Patrolman McSweeney caught the youth whom he saw throw a bundle of money away. The prisoner started to fight, but the patrolman felled him with a blow in the face, and, dragging him twenty feet, retrieved the money.

The two girls ran up and identified the youth as one of the robbers. He was Frank Plais, 20 years old of East Thirteenth street. He was taken to the Mercer street station, and when the money was counted it was found that $88 was missing. The second robber was believed to have got away with this on a subway train.
