

POOR DOCUMENT MC 2034

FOUR

THE ST. JOHN STAR is published by THE SUN PRINTING COMPANY, (LTD.) at St. John, New Brunswick, every afternoon (except Sunday) at $3.00 a year.

TELEPHONES:-
BUSINESS OFFICE, 25.
EDITORIAL and NEWS DEPT. 117.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 21, 1907.

ON THE WEST SIDE.

This time last year when the dredging on the west side was dragging along, there was a great deal of comment on the part of citizens regarding the delay in the work. Mr. Mayes did not get ahead as rapidly as might have been done, but for the very leisurely way in which the contract was carried out he was not alone to blame. Various changes in the specifications were made and new contracts added which complicated matters, so that it was not until the latter part of November that the job was completed.

According to contract, Mr. D. G. Clark was to have finished the construction of the first section of the new wharf three months after the site was prepared. The city entered into this agreement with Mr. Clark but was not a party to the contract for the dredging of the site. Thus the common council engaged a man to build a wharf on a site which did not then exist and which the city was not prepared to provide. No wonder delays and disputes occurred.

But after a time the dredging was really finished—in November as stated—and according to agreement Mr. Clark was to have the wharf built in three months. Unfortunately for him the winter was at hand and it was impossible to make such progress as possible as he looked for during mild weather. But he commenced and continued operations with only insignificant delays. A few men have worked steadily, yet today, seven months after the dredging was completed, the wharf is still unfinished. Not only that, but so much remains to be done that it will be at least six weeks or two months at the present rate before the contractor for the new warehouse will be enabled to commence operations. This wharf with the warehouse, tracks and conveyor, must be ready by November. Some three months or longer will be required to do that, but it will be at least six weeks or two months at the present rate before the contractor for the new warehouse will be enabled to commence operations. This wharf with the warehouse, tracks and conveyor, must be ready by November. Some three months or longer will be required to do that, but it will be at least six weeks or two months at the present rate before the contractor for the new warehouse will be enabled to commence operations.

It is natural to expect—and in spite of impassioned declarations by the parties most closely concerned—that competing contractors will not go out of the way to help one another. If, as was commonly asserted, Mr. Mayes did not rush things in order that Mr. Clark might get ahead, it is just as reasonable to believe that Mr. Clark is not losing sleep in an effort to assist Messrs. Clarke and Adams. The city, which fortunately has authority between these parties on the first contract, should see that everything that can possibly be done should be done to hurry along the work. For this reason it is imperative that a competent man be placed in charge of the department of public works.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND AND THE UNION.

If the coadjutor bishop of New Brunswick has been correctly reported in his remarks at King's College, and judging from the tone of the address, it might be supposed that he has been, he has taken an unfortunate view. Eminent as he is, and though Rev. Mr. Richardson may be to express the feelings of the Church of England in Canada, he is still a young man, very young in his new position. And while youth is no disgrace, there are no doubt others of riper years who would feel extremely backward about making such an emphatic declaration. The Church of England is a large organization and includes many men of many minds. It differs not at all in this respect from the various other important denominations, and some three or four of these latter, it will be noticed, are endeavoring to set aside all individual ideas of doctrine and to find a basis for united efforts. It may be that in the Church of England in Canada, perhaps even in New Brunswick, there will be found some who feel that a union with other bodies is not impossible. Surely the teaching of the gospel does not command that any one particular denomination must hold tenaciously to its own theories with the idea that all others are wrong. Bishop Richardson is known to be unfavorable to the union proposal, and while the ultimate success of the plan may now seem most difficult of accomplishment, it will become impossible if those who should be leaders in the one great work so strenuously oppose it. However, one coadjutor bishop is not the whole church.

THE RIVER TRAGEDY.

Among the many fatal accidents which have of late occurred on the St. John river, never has there been one of such a tragic nature as that of last night, the burning of the Crystal Stream, with the loss of at least four lives. Every season sees the destruction of one or more of the steamers engaged in the passenger business, and while it is to be supposed that the members of the crews are careful in guarding against fire, yet it is greatly to be feared that the arrangements on the boats themselves are not of the best. These light wooden vessels, carrying all sorts of inflammable freight, having for the most part open fire holes and using boilers for which wood is burned are, even under the best circumstances, unsafe. Any carelessness on the part of the crew renders them positively dangerous, and while there is not, nor in the past half dozen years has there been, any evidence of negligence, yet it must be that greater precautions should be taken. Last night's tragedy was heard with deep regret throughout the city this morning, with many expressions of sympathy for the families of those who suffered. When the full details of the accident are received it will, no doubt, be found that those on board who were responsible for the safety of others acted with that heroism and devotion to duty which has on previous occasions marked the conduct of river men.

THE SHIP THAT NEVER RETURNED.

On a summer day, when the wave was rippled
By the softest, gentlest breeze,
Did a ship set sail with a cargo laden
For a port beyond the seas;
There were sweet farewells, there were
Loving signals,
Will the form was yet discern'd,
Though they knew it not 'twas a
Solemn parting.
For the ship—she never return'd.

Chorus:
Did she never return?
She never returned.
Her fate, it is yet unlearned;
Tho' for years and years, there were
Fond ones watching,
Yet the ship she never return'd.

Said a feeble lad to his anxious mother:
"I must cross the wide, wide sea;
For they say perchance in a foreign Climate,
There is health and strength for me."
'Twas a gleam of hope in a mass of Danger,
And her heart for her youngest yearn'd;
Yet she sent him forth with a smile
And blessing
On the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

Chorus:
"Only one more trip," said a gallant
Seaman,
As he kissed a weeping wife;
"Only one more bag of golden treasure."
And 'twill last us all through life,
Then I'll spend the days in my cozy
Cottage,
And enjoy the rest I've earn'd."
But, alas, poor man, for he said
Commander
Of the ship that never return'd.

THE STAR, ST JOHN, N. B. FRIDAY, JUNE 21, 1907

WARM TALK AT THE CONFERENCE

British Blue Book on Preference Debate Reveals It.

What Mr. Asquith Said About British
Free Trade Conventions—Possibilities of Future.

The report of the proceedings at the Imperial Conference has been issued in the form of a Blue-book of 622 pages under the title of "Minutes of Proceedings at the Colonial Conference." It contains full reports of most of the speeches. The general effect of the minutes is to show that the attitude of British Ministers toward the Premier's scheme of Preference was, as reported, a negative and unimpassioned one. The episode of Sir Robert Borden's appeal on behalf of Newfoundland, which the main proceedings of the conference closed, is not fully reported. Sir Robert Borden's speech is given, and in it he uses the phrase, "Humiliating circumstances," of the manner in which the modus vivendi of 1904 was enforced upon the colony. This modus vivendi was concluded between the British Government and the United States without consulting Newfoundland. The report of the speech is followed by a note to this effect: "After a short adjournment, the conference, after discussion in private, agreed that Sir R. Borden's statement should be recorded." Lord Elgin's answer to the statement is not printed.

SOME PLAIN SPEAKING.

There was some plain speaking, the Blue-book shows, by Mr. Deakin in the discussion on the New Hebrides, when he complained that Australia's anxiety to help the settlers was not mentioned by Mr. Churchill in a reply in Parliament to a question directed against the Commonwealth tariff. Mr. Churchill said that the authority for his statement was the High Commissioner in the New Hebrides. Mr. Deakin said that his government was immediately challenged by the "unintentional misrepresentation." Mr. Churchill gave the effect of the report in question, and said that if he had known that Australia was doing so he would have stated it.

Mr. Deakin: Of course you would, but the statement which was made was wrong, and that which you are now repeating is wrong again. Mr. Deakin later spoke of "ridiculous insinuations of those behind the political responsible heads who committed these oversights." Mr. Winston Churchill: I should be very sorry if the answer I gave in the way appeared detrimental to the interests of the Dominion affected and was at the particular time contrary to the fact.

Mr. Deakin: It has been detrimental; these answers are also called out, and our people cannot understand it. It happens. It has had a very bad effect here because it is one of a strain of the same sort of misrepresentation. I take it that what we are entitled to expect on these matters is that somebody in a great office like this should be kept sufficiently well informed of our ordinary public matters so as to be able to put accurate answers into the hands of ministers. In the official proceedings of the Conference, the Permanent Secretary was asked to undertake the press.

PREFERENCE DEBATE.

It is impossible to print the full report of the Preference debate, which was not merely a series of speeches, as the records suggested, but a constant interchange of argument and answer between the home and colonial ministers. The following are extracts: Mr. Asquith: I am not sufficiently conversant with your (Australian) policies to say whether you will be able to pass any tariff which does not maintain this condition about ships being manned by white labor.

Sir William Lyne: It does not affect very much. Mr. Asquith: It affects us enormously. It is a thing which to us is absolutely inadmissible, and I say that in the plainest terms. . . . There is nothing that we can give you that we do not give you.

Sir William Lyne: You can give us your wine more than other people's. We give you, I say, everything that is possible for us to give, and under no system of Preference could we give you more.

Sir William Lyne: I am very sorry to hear it. Mr. Asquith: . . . What you are asking when you come here and talk about Preference, and suggest, that we should give you Preference, is not that we should give you more than at present—we cannot; we give you everything—but that we should take away from others. Sir William Lyne: If I had a boy, I should look after him before I looked after a foreign boy. Mr. Asquith: . . . The abandonment of Free Trade. That is the bargain. Dr. Jameson: Is not that coming back rather to the fetish of Free Trade? Mr. Asquith: . . . You can call it a fetish if you like; you can call anything a fetish, but with us it is a conviction.

Mr. Deakin: English protection sixty years ago was a fetish and nothing else. Mr. Asquith: . . . It may be in time you will persuade the people of Great Britain that Free Trade is a fetish.

Mr. Deakin: No, I think it is so now. Mr. Asquith: Go and persuade the people of that, if you can persuade them, and we will have another colonial conference, and we will see what happens. But you have first to persuade the people. . . . I do not like these questions of terminology which are apt to generate heat, but never conduce to light. We may be an absolute set of lunatics, wandering in twilight and darkness—fascial twilight—and the time may come when we shall have a rude awakening. We may think on the other hand, that Free Trade within the empire will be recognized as an ideal which all the various communities of the empire ought to aid in constructing.

"You think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Mr. Deakin: I think, no doubt, that our economic system belongs to the age of the dodo," was another of Mr. Asquith's remarks. Mr. Deakin's first speech on Preference occupies (with interruptions) thirty-four pages, and he spoke at length several times later. Mr. Lloyd-George's speech occupies thirty-eight pages, but it is not really a speech but a series of answers to the innumerable questions and interruptions of the premiers.

Exclusive Jewelry, Etc.

In new goods, and an endless variety from which to choose Remembrances.

FERGUSON & PAGE,
Diamond Dealers & Jewelers,
41 King Street.

Everything Electrical

Construction Work and Supplies.

THE VAUGHAN
ELECTRIC CO., LTD.
94 Germain Street.

McKIEL'S

No injurious mixtures in this make of bread to keep it fresh and sweet. It is the very best

Home Made Bread
baked in St. John today.
Bread that is tasty, wholesome and cleanly always.

McKIEL'S

AT THE HEADQUARTERS!

Strawberries, Pineapples, Maple Syrup, and Groceries.
Sugar Cured Corned Beef, New Cabbages, etc., etc.

CHAS. A. CLARK,
Telephone 823 Main 23-77 Sydney Street.

A. E. HAMILTON, Contractor and Builder.

Jobbing of all descriptions promptly attended to.
183-188 Brussels Street. Phone 1628

Buy Your Coal From The GARSON COAL CO.

Best quality, good weight and satisfactory delivery, lowest prices.
We have a five hundred ton schooner on the way from mines, with guaranteed best quality Honey-brook Lehigh American hard coal. Phone 1602.

WOOD—When you are
Wood—Hard, Soft or Kindling—
call up 468,
City Fuel Co.,
City Road.

WEDDINGS

Beautiful Gold Rings in all qualities, styles, prices.
Handsome array of Gift Goods in Silver, Gold, etc.
Wedding Favours in latest novelties, from 2 to 20 York.
After the wedding we can sell you clocks and other home accessories.

A. POYAS,
36 Mill Street, near Union.

Solomon knew a great deal about serpents and eagles, but he forgot several things that are needful in every home. 1st, good white bread—GOLDEN EAGLE FLOUR. 2nd, strong, pure tea—TIGER CEYLON TEA and a 5 lb. bag GRITS.

DEATHS.
LEONARD—In this city on June 20th, Edward Plummer Leonard, in his 66th year, leaving a wife, one son and one daughter.

Funeral service at No. 154 King Street on Saturday, 22nd instant, at 2.30 p. m.

Understanding some were disappointed last week
...we will...
REPEAT OUR OFFER.

ON SATURDAY
A Handsome Pin Tray
FREE to every purchaser of White Clover Bread!

To at any of Our Stores.

ROBINSON'S, 173 Union St.
417 Main St.
82 City Road

NEW YORK, June 20.—Following rumors that G. W. Morse had made efforts to buy control of the steamship properties controlled by the Central of Georgia R. R., it was reported more definitely tonight that negotiations with that end in view had been under way but that up to the present time they were not successful.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Following a boxing bout in which he participated at the Longacre Club today, Gustave Lenny, of Boston, was removed to Bellevue Hospital where it was said later that his condition was serious and that he might die. He is suffering from multiple contusions of the head and body and was unconscious for some time after being admitted to the hospital.

TRY! TRY! TRY!

Some men go about in a half-hearted sort of way without taking any particular interest in anything. Very often the trouble is due to the uncomfortable shoe they are wearing, for how can a man give his mind either to business or to pleasure when his corns ache and his feet are sore? Give your head a chance by putting your feet into our easy-fitting Spring Shoes, modelled on the human foot. Our new Spring shoes, made from such stock as Patent Kid, Vici Kid, Kangaroo and Russia leathers, are so easy that any troubled feet will find comfort in them. New toe shapes and all sizes.

We get trade through our low prices and hold it through the merit of our shoes.

D. MONAHAN,
32 Charlotte Street.

MEN'S AND BOYS' STRAW HATS!

THE LATEST STYLES.
Boater Telescope, Curled brim, New York shape; Panama, in fine and medium qualities; Outing Hats—Best goods. Lowest prices.

THORNE BROS.,
HATTERS and
FURRIERS, 93 King Street

Special Prices to Barbers!

I am now prepared to supply the following line of preparations at Lowest Figures:

"ADONIS" HED-RUB, "ADONIS" SHAMPOO, "ADONIS" TALCUM, "ADONIS" MASSAGE.

A line of tonsorial requisites that is very much in demand. Having supplied my store with a large stock I will promptly fill all orders.

W. J. McMILLIN, 625 Main Street.
Phone 980.

On Sale Tomorrow!

200 Lots of Wall Paper ranging from 8c. to 15c. Roll. Goods as high as 18c. per Roll—Tomorrow, all 5c. per Roll.

PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT STORE, 142 Mill St.

USE SOZOTRICHOL

THE GREAT
HAIR REMEDY
Guaranteed to positively cure dandruff and falling of hair in 8 applications, bringing out a new growth of hair in 15 to 30 days.

WE SHIP TO ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.
PRICE PER BOTTLE $1.00 4 BOTTLES $3.00
NONE C. O. D.

DR. GARFALOS REMEDY CO.
Main Office, 444 6th Ave. NEW YORK

LOOKS LIKE ANOTHER CHESTER GILLETTE CASE

Miss Mary Vinal Drowned at Bridgetown,
N. J., Under Very Suspicious
Circumstances

BRIDGETOWN, N. J., June 20.—Miss Mary Vinal of this city lost her life in Sunset lake Tuesday night under such peculiar circumstances as to cause the police to start a thorough investigation.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Tuesday night, the girl started with George Evans, of this place, for a row on the lake in a steel non-sinkable boat. Shortly afterward the boat was found filled with water, while nearby was floating a hat. The boat was towed ashore and the police notified. A policeman was sent to Evans' home where he was found in bed. His wet clothing was hanging over a chair. He was taken to the lake and when questioned said that he hired a boat and started for a row with Miss Vennel.

When near Piney Island the girl wanted to row and in changing their positions the boat sank under them. Evans said he had great difficulty in freeing himself from his companion who, he said, was screaming for help while she held him tightly about the neck. They had gone down twice, he said, when he freed himself and swam ashore. He ran all the way home and did not tell anyone of the drowning of the girl. Her body was found in four feet of water. The body shows several bruises and there are cuts on the face. The police say that they have been unable to find any one who has girl's cries. The shores of the lake were lined with people at the time of the drowning and there were boats on the lake in the vicinity of the girl's last life.

NO