PROGRESS, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1898.

we are powerless to dispel. We are powerces to displ. Strange to say the ones that I have briwn in my life who did the least complaining hive been those who have the most to bear, while the whiners have manufactured the troubles they bewailed. Two of Her Work § Whatever you do girls, don't contract a Whatever you do girls, don't contract a habit of whining: I was reading an article the other day on the subject of whinning women, and I wished very much that I could shake hands with the author; we are always inclined to love people who agree with our views, and this man-I am the most cheer'ul people I ever knew, and apparently the most contented, were a min who became perfectly blind after he had passed middle life, and a woman who had entirely lost her hearing after she was grown up. Both of them had known the joys of light and hearing to the full, and had been called upon suddenly the one to live in a world of darkness and the other in a world of silence.

Woman and sure the writer was a man from the feeling manner in which he spoke of the effect of a woman's whine on a man's nerves-3x-pressed my views on the subject much bet-

He said the whining woman was nothing less than a human vampire, that temper, and shattered his constitution morally, as well as physically. He instanced a case which came under his own observation, where a womin of this description succeeded in putting a strong healthy man into his grave in the course of a few years, merely by marrying him. She was the incurably whining kind, and as her health was good, and her husband very wealthy she had no legitimate cause for com, l sint, one would imagine that she would have to be reasonably contented.

She wasn't all the same, so she soon devised a grievance which was likely to last her as long as she lived-it was the care of the house, the childran, the plate, china and glass with which her elegant home was lavishly stocked, and the trouble of entertaining. To all these troubles she added a chearful certaiply that the house was destined to be ei her burglarized, or burnt down, and she talked of her trials incessantly. She enter-tained her friends with her cares and worries and whined so incessantly that they avoided her as much as possible, so of course her luckless husband came in for a double share, and strong as he was, the worries of business, combined with the worries of home, proved too much for him.

and, quietly crawled out of it by dying of nervous prostration. I don't know why he did not go out of his mind, but I suppose he thought the grave was a surer refuge than the asylum, so he chose the shortest cut to oblivion. His widow still survives bim and whines more than ever over her

There are women in this world who seen to think that a man never has any troables of his own, and should be only too happy to spend most of his leisure ho irs in listening to the recital of theirs Tney expect him to regard the tale of the children's misdoings, the servants impertinence and incompetence, and the dis-agreeable happenings of the day generally, as so many plasant items of news, forgetting that men usually come home for rest and peace after the day's worries, and not to have a sort of moral mustard poultice applied to their raw nerves. Men, like all other animals like to be soothed and petted, and if they don't find the soo hing atmosphers they crave, at home, they are terribly prone to seek it elsewhere-usual-

Of course I am not referring just now to the selfish autocrat who declines to share h's wife's burdens in any way and looks upon her, as too many men do, as a sort of buffer to stand between him and everything unpleasant, and smooth his path through life even if she has to remove the briars and stones with bleeding fingers!

such men deserve whining wives, though they scarcely ever get them. I mean the good hearted soul who does his best, and tries to be cheerful against terrible odds, who takes an interest in his home and tries to be cheerful against terribly odds, but whose efforts are met with querulous com-hard lot in being deprived of so devoted a husband.

ly at the club.

ter than I could have done myself.

As a horrid, but I am afraid all-too-observing male writer once wrote :---

she sapped a man's vital ty, ruined his "When a man is down in the mouth, who makes him worse? Woman! If a man is in high spirits, who too frequently takes pains to damp them? Woman !"and I fear it is too true that as far as many women are concerned he is right.

> Tois is the time of year when the newspapers are filed with infallible recipes for the destruction or banishment of flies and mosquitos from the house, and when the trustful housewite patien'ly tries them a'l in succession and finds one about as inefficacious as another. One writer assures the public that a bunch of fresh red clover w li prevent a fly from even looking in at the door; while another is equally certain that if a bouquet of fresh sweet peas is kept in the room not a fly or mosquito will be found in it. Both red clover and sweet peas being cheaper, more plentiful, and far less trouble than either fly paper or Dalmation powder the too credulous house keeper promptly decorates her home liter ally with them, only to find that the flie seem delighted with the arrangement for their comfort and evidently thrive exceedingly upon the honey contained in these flowers. Here is a new recipe which I have not tried, but which I give for the sake of variety, and because I believe it to be new; besides which it really sounds as if it might be of some use.

'London women have discovered a very agreeable way of ridding their homes of flies and mosquitos. They burn saudal wood in the house. This is an Oriental ides. In London it is possible to get the wood prepared for this purpose, but here it is not so easy, as American women have not yet taken to the pratice. Now that the festive fly and the merry mosquito are here, at least the Staten Islanders and Jerservities might do well to give the sandal wood a trial. Sandal wood can be bought at almost any Tarkish or Japanese importing house. It is prepared for burning by being first cut into small pieces a half an inch thick and three inches long. Then it is baked and dried out in a slow oven for twenty-four hours. A piece of wood is put into a metal urn, lighted and allowed to burn untill well afisme, when the fiame is extinguished and the red-hot ember left to smolder until the wood is consumed and nothing is lift but a heap of fine gray ashes. During the smollering process the wood sends out a sweet and aromatic smoke

As yet no very radical changes can be noted in the cut of either skirts or bodices. the fashion plates show a few delighttuily trim little waists which hug the figure as closely as the skir's do, having not a suspicion of blousing or puffing, and scarcely a sign of fullness at the shoulder, but in spite of the promises of its entire abolition the pouched bodice evidently holds its own in the heart of woman, as out of a group of fourteen illustrations but two showed bodices that were quite close fitting. The reason for this is not hard to discover as

or to nearly smaller and are really both pretty and stylisb, suiting stout and thin women alike. Apron like tunics are set on skirts of a contrasting color or of the same color but a different material, and the effect is decidedly odd. Black dresses will be very fashionable again this autump, and those intended for dressy wear will be made of silk, or silk and wool mixtures. Black pluch Bayadere with a silk stripe in some fashionatle color is one of the novelties for the coming season, and is a very hand-some material. One novel design his a ground not unlike a dull moire, with a black plush stripe one inch wide, and next to it a stripe of petunia red, ot the same width. Others are striped with plum, heliotrope, green or damson. The September bride will soon be cupying as prominent a position as the June bride did two months ago, and she is already beginning to think about her tra-velling dress. Naturally the dress in which a bride starts out on the journey which is actually the beginning of the great journey through life that she has just undertaken is rather more elaborate than the one you and I would wear, if we were going to take a trip up to Montreal. Very likely it is her wedding gown, as traveling dress weddings are so fashionable now adays, and who would want to face the great event of her life in a plain tailor gown of light weight tweed, made with a coat and skirt, and a soft silk shirt. That is the costume which the smartest women choose for travelling in the early autumn, and which is correct. But surely the bride, who will never be a bride but once, she honestly believes, may be excused if her going away costume seems rather more elaborate in make, light in color and more pronounced generally than is quile practical. Some very dainty travelling costumes have been prepared for this autumn and the brides of next month will no doubt be unusually sw.ll as far as their travelling gowns are concerned.

A charming going away costums which should appeal to the most fastidious bride, is made of a new material called voil which is grace'ul and clinging, but still quite substantial enough for a tailor made costume. The skirt is tucked to simulate a pointed apron underskirt, just as if it were made with a yoke so deep that it reached below the knees, and the flare below this, which is like a very full Spanish flounce, is trimmed with frills of accordion plaited black and white ribbon, which is a very fashionable decoration for the newest au tumn gowas. The bodice is not in coat shape but is one of the new close fitting models with a vest of tucked chiffon edged with baby ribbon and real lace. Another model is also of voile in deep royal blue el shorately embroidered and mounted on satin of the same deep rich shade. Voile is so apt to stretch that it is impossible to make a skirt loose from the lining. The top of this one is slightly eased on to the band, and has a flat plait made to meet in the centre, at each side, in the back. The bodice has three deep tucks running rouad the bust, and the embroidered bodice pieces which come with the costum ; are utilized for a shaped collar and revers, though they may be made up in zouave shape if proferred, and edged with a plaited frill of blue glace silk. A deep flaffy pinked out frill of the same silk is set in the lining of the skirt in dust ruffl ; fashion to make it flare out properly, and the collar is of silk in folds with trills of the silk, and fans of ace. The vest is of white glace, covered with ecru embroidered net. fulled on. A tucked epaulet gives style to a sleeve other wise quite plain and tight and a folded belt of the blue glace silk is finished front and back with handsome steel buckles. It makes a charming, and very stylish costume.

ASTRA.

MILLIONS HAVE NO OWNER. The Honesty of Miners in the Klondyke is Much has been written of the wonders of the Klordike goldfields, a correspondent writes, but practically nothing has been said of the almost phenomenal honesty of the miners. What amezed me most during my first few days in Dawson City was the reckless way in which miners left thousands lions lying about without anyone looking after them, and so far as one could see, they belonged to nobody. I explored many of these cabins during their owners' absence, and in the very first cabin I entered I saw a dirty, tattered blanket care lessly thrown oves two mackerel kits. I litted the blanket and found that the kits were almost full to the brim with gold dust and nuggets to the value of at least £5 000. The miner was out prospecton Bear Creek, and had no more anxiety about his pile than if it were safely housed in the Bank of England.

It was the same in nearly every cabin I entered. Gold greeted me everywhere. They were shelves full of oil cans, meattins, fruit-jars, and buckskin and walrus bags packed with the precious metal, and all as unprotected as it they were full of notatoes

One Norwegian miner on Hunker Creek had make a strong box of a pair of canvass overalls, the legs of which he had sewn up. I litted the uncanny "sa'e" and found that it weighed a good 10015., every ounce of which was virgin gol1; and the least value I could place in those dirty overalls was £5 000

There were five gallon oil-cans tall of gold carelessly pushed under the miners bunks, everw one of which held a fortune, for which most men strove a lifetime.

Out on Eldorado Creek there is a settlement of miners who have no fewer than fourteen rich claims, and are washing out gold at the rate of many thousands of pounds a week. There strong room is a common galvan'z id washing-tub, and when I was there it was three quarters full of gold, and much too heavy for two strong men to lift. Had I been inclined I might have pinched thousands of pounds worth. Gold abounded on every side which seemed to belong to nobody. Ev. n if a miner leaves his cabin for a week or more, he simply leaves a notice to this effect attached to the walls. He never thinks of putting a guard over his pil +. Of course there have been attempts at theft, but the perpetrators have been invariably detected. In one recent case the thief managed to carry his booty a distance of ten mil :s, when cold and exhaustion compelled him to take shelter at the cabin of one of the miners. His host's suspicion was aroused by the man's conduct and by the bags of gold, for which he could not satisfactorily account. The miner detained his guest, communicated with some of his fellows; and fitteen of them assembled in the but and sat in judgment on the thief. He was found guilty, and half-a-doz an bullets put a sudden end to his career.

Such cases, however, are very rare; and it speaks volumes for the honesty of the 40,000 men who are now gathered in Dawsow City that they can see hundreds of thousands of pounds worth of gold lying about, without even thing of laying hands on it.

To my mind by far the luckiest man in To my mind by far the luckiest man in the Klondike is a man you have probably never heard of—Halsey Potnam. Before coming to the Klondike, Haleey had tried and failed in almost every calling a man can follow, from blacksmith to labourer in the Brocklyup parks, and from printer to bar-man. When he reached Dawson he had not the necessary 50 cents for a shave; and  $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of meat at 70 cents a pound would have put him in the 'Bankrup'cy Convt.' put him in the 'Bankrup'cy Court.' Within a few months Halsey had mined and sold £14 000 worth of gold; and to-day, after little more than a year at his last luckv venture, he could write you a cheque for £50,000, and yet retire on a fortune. COULD NOT DRESS ALONE. A Nova Scoti in Farmer Tells of Bis Intense Suffering From Rheumatism and How He Found Kellet. From Bridgewater, N. S., Enterprise. victim upon whom it fastens its. If is almost unendurable. Only those who writhe under i's pangs can imagine the joy of one who has been freed from its terrors. Mr. J.W. Folkenham of New E.m, N. S. is one of those who have been released from pain, and who believes it is bis duty to let others know how a cure can be found. Mr. Folkenham is a farmer, and like all FOR .... who follow this arduous but honorable calling, is subject to much exposure. It was this exposure that brought on his trouble and caused bim so much suffering before he was rid of it. He says :- 'In the spring of 1897 I contracted rheumatism. Throughout the whole summ r I suffered from it, and about the first of Octot er it became so bad that I could not get out of the house. The pairs were located in my hip and back, and what I suffered our hardly be expressed. I became so helpless I cou'd not dress myself without aid. Eventually the trouble spread to my hands and arms, and at times these would I seall teeling and become useless. In Novembar I began using Dr Williams' Pink Pills, of pound' worth of gold exposed in empty cabins and tents, as if inviting the first comer to help himself. There were mil-able to do a hard days work. I intend and after taking four boxes began to inusing a few more boxes more as a precautionary measure, and I would earnestly advise those suffering from this painful trouble to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a tair trial and be made well.

. 13

Dr. Williams' Pink Pil's cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapper bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for P. le People.

Freeing a Captive.

The New York Tribune tells a story of precedent in England, the in filment of an old custom. When Charles 11. was reigning, he sent his wife, Katharine, to Oxford. and forbade her to return to S'. James for a full year. The warden of M :rton entertained the queen during her stay, and the tained the queen during her stay, and the rown occupied by her in the quadrangle ara sil abowa. One day as the queen sat working by the open window, a bullfinch fliw into the room; and she caught it, and held it until a cage could be made of hemp and rushes. Some weeks later, as she was leaving, the bird escaped and flew away. On her dt-parture from the college gate, her msjesty said: *Mr. Warden, in remembrance of my

'Mr. Warden, in remembrance of my happy visit, I pray you always liberate hereafter a wild builfach on this day.' So it is that, on the third of June, every year, the warden comes into the qrad-rangle at eleven o'clock, holding a little cage of hemp and rushes, in which a bull-fach is confined. The junior bursar, who has been availing his arrival, then advances fich is confined. The junior bursar, who has been awaiting his arrival, then advances saying, 'Mr. Warden this is Queen Kath-arine's bird?' 'Aye,' the warden replies, 'this is Queen Ka harine's bird.' The bursar then opens the cage, and claps his hands until the bird flies away. During the rest of the year the cage is kept on a pedestal in the senior common room. It is a very pretty ceremony, but it would gain in significance if one could be sure that the bird liberated is one which would otherwise remain caged; but if a wild bird is caught for the occasion there is some pathos in the act.

EDUCA FIONAL. THE ROTHESAY SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

on Church of England lines, re-opens September 6 h.

WRITING Metherwood The Rev. Caron Roberts says:

"I found there my ideal of a true home for the education of our daughters."

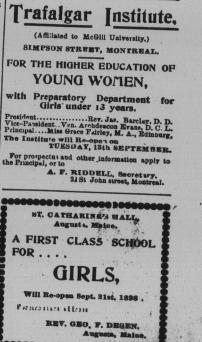

For a calendar giving interesting infornation apply to ME3. J. S ARMSTRONG, Principal, or Netherwood, Rothesay, N. B., J.S. ARMSTRJNG, C. E., Midiand Railway, Wincoro, N. S.

EDGEHILL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, WINDSOR - - - NOVA SCOTIA, Incorporated 1891.

Bishop Courtney, D. D., Chairman Board

Bt. Rev. Bishop Ccu:tney, D. D., Chairman Board o'Turstees.
Miss Lefroy, of Chellenham Ladies' College, Eng-land, Frmeipal.
Eigbt Rescient Experienced Governesses from Ensland. "rous keeper, Matroo, and Nurse.
Boord and Tatiton Free, including French, Latin or Girman or Greek, Dally "faitutenelt, Class "storg and Neediework, $225 per samum, or $75 per term.
Music, Singling, Patiting, Drawing, c'c., are extras. & Frienstons for the Univers t.es.
Michaema Tean begins Sort. 14th, 1898.
For Catalogue apply to DR. HIND.

slightest altitude, roduce a tly been raphy of

1. Bryan, dle Park.

mountain

se when I I did not

I am al-

of frame

nger else

the most

t I should e over the

INP

sh.

one nly.

with ith

C8.

t it.

f. Benj. F.

n's Herald,

anie. I.

ire:

4...

4-1

Perris is view of o of the rhaps the d of the t to bear from the considerof the oluntary ELIX.

set his but the ntial to n and be came backing sel',' he ife. It ep supeutere. I'll a good Pitch one till you've all they uld do I could walked l, and ve the

I ware hard every-

James

statesmong ne of st the ior to n the

"in J e was headt stion siter, ce of stors, this

s the very heart and soul out of him. I know life is rather a hard affair, especially for women, and that we have plenty to complain of often, but still it is a habit that grows upon one with awful rapidity, and if we could only realize what a terrible enemy the complaining habit is, I believe we would make more of a struggle against it. It is so easy to magnify trifles and let them obscure all the sunlight of life, until at the last we real za that we stand almost alone in a darkness

1847. ROGERS BBOS.

Genuine AND Guaranteed

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.

THE ARGEST NUFACTURERS

every figure. making the stout wom in look comparatively slinder, if it is properly made, and concealing the lack of round ness in the thin one. The trouble is that the tight waist needs a figure to show it off, while the loose one is especially adapt-ed for concealing all defects in that line, and only a few of us are so gifted by nature that we can afford to be indifferent to these advantages. KNIVES IS & NS KNIVES IS & NS FOR SPOONS STAMPED

The very newest skirts may be graceful in the eyes of some people, but they are certainly most inconvenient for all, not to say absolutely dangerous. They are sheath like in appearance, clinging to the figure al nost too (losely down to the knee, flaring out in fan tashion below it and even on the front and sides hanging from one to two inches on the ground. The effect of this is most grotesque when a women who is not naturally graceful tries to walk, or reappear, after its long retirement, and this will be welcome news to those whose figures are no longer slight enough to show off the sheath skirts to advantage. Pan-go upstairs in one of them. It it hinted that the pannier is about to

Travellers

Should always carry with them a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

The change of food and water to which those who travel are subject, often pro-duces an attack of Diarhosa, which is as unpleasant and discomforting as it may be dangerous. A bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in your grip is a guarantee of safety. On the first in-dication of Gramps, Colic, Diarhose or Dysentery, a few doses will promptly check further advance of these diseases. It is an old, reli-to the remedy, with over forty years' of cures to its credit, whose merit is re-cognized everywhere and one that the doo-tors recommend in and one that the doc-tors recommend in preference to all others. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere at 850, a bottle. Always insist on the gennine, as many of the imitations are highly dangerons.