A Sanguinary Family -- A Son Kills His Father in Self Defence.

[From the Lagrange (Mo.) Democrat.] One of the most terrible tragedies that it has ever fallen to our lot to recount took place near Monticello last Saturday morning. Most of our readers will remember that some time in January Geo. W. Myres and his two sons, William and Isaac, were arrested near Monticello on the charge of being connected with a robbery at Carlinville, Ill., some nine years ago. A man named Daly lost $10,000 at that time, and Myres, who at that time was living at that place in rather moderate circumstances, soon became possessed of sufficient means to buy two or three good farms; among others the old Richardson farm, some four miles west of Monticello, upon which they west of Monticello, upon which they moved in 1866. Some domestic disturbance arose in the family which led to a separation between Geo. W. Myres and his wife, and two of the sons taking part with the father and the third with the mother above the shead the family in your bestle at
