J. L. STEWART, EDITOR.
FRIDAY EVENING, AUG. 14.

The case of the unfortunate Bridget Kelly is a sad one. While working for a living she was led astray by a man who won her confidence and affection, and who deserted her when her shame found her out. She followed him here, found him at the St. John House, appealed to him to marry her, and was refused. What could the girl do? She could not go home to her friends, she could not seek employment, she had but little money her betrayer refused to marry her, so she sought a refuge from shame in death. The man in the case attended the inquest, coolly testified that he had refused to marry her, and did not appear to think he had done anything wrong. Is there no law to punish such as he?

Some good people take a great interest in the Unitarian movement in St. John, for or against, just as though it made any difference whether people believe in the existence of one God or three, so long as they live godly lives. Many people, we fear, subject themselves to the chances of eternal punishment by trusting their salvation to creeds. They should fear God and keep his commandments, and stop quarrelling over dogmas, gentooisms and millinery. If Christ had wanted his followers to have creeds as defined and explicit as the contents of a statute book, he would have drawn up the articles and signed them. And yet many people who profess to be Unitarians, Christ's work devote most of their time and talents to the discussion of dogmas and forms!

Those who go up and down the Bay in ships are now blessing everybody who had a hand in having a fog whistle placed on Cape DOR. It began to blow a short time ago, and is said to have been heard at the Farnborough pier. It is worth a great deal more to the navigators of the bay than a half dozen light-houses. To Messrs. Lunt, of this city, must be accorded the credit of having taken the initiative in getting this whistle established. They say that it was the one thing absolutely necessary, and succeeded in convincing the Hon. Dr. Tupper that they were right. The Doctor, once persuaded of the importance of the work, did not rest until he had convinced the rest of the Cabinet of which he was a member of its necessity. Lunt says that the objection of the Bay has been robbed of half its terrors by the whistle.

The mismanagement of the mails on the Intercolonial was never so great as within the last two weeks. Has Bridget Kelly anything to do with this, or what is the cause? Letters from points between St. John and Halifax appear to have been sent to Halifax, kept there for a day or two, and returned, while Halifax papers come irregularly. Everybody who receives mail notices by this route is complaining of the bungling that has followed the putting on of a night train. Isn't it about time that mail arrangements were perfected so that some dependence may be placed on them?

We are somewhat surprised at finding the following in the Register, of which a signed copy is before us:
The great teacher scandal, even though it would end in the condemnation of the greatest of American "divines," do some good by partly opening the eyes of pulp-worshippers to the fact that ministers are not necessarily "I" religionists, and as such, are forced to an air of godliness, to perfume their heads of the tricked-out with all the millinery of the pulpit, all the ornaments of the altar, and even the sacred symbols of the blessed sacrament.

We fear that Gordon has not gone to church regularly in Sackville, or that some clerical gentleman has supplanted him in the affections of his beloved.

The Newcastle Advertiser says that Mr. J. C. Gough has not run away, as stated by a St. John paper, but that "Mr. Gough is in Canada and hopes to see his friends and creditors as soon as his business will permit."

At Springfield, Mass., Tuesday, Mary L. Long, for many years the teacher of a private school at Greenfield, and highly respected, committed suicide by hanging in her schoolroom. She is thought to have been insane. If she had been the teacher of a public school the Press could use her case as an argument against our school system.

No society increases faster than the Odd Fellows. The Grand Lodge for Maine met in annual session at Portland, Tuesday, F. W. Langdon, of Bangor, was elected Grand Master, and Joshua Davis, of Portland, Grand Secretary. The returns show the present number of members 4,915; increase the past year, 1,028.

There may be a time and place for everything, including murder, but few will condemn the church door the proper place. Near Carlisle, Nicholas county, Ky., on Sunday, a man named Hamilton, while attending the Methodist Church, becoming offended at something said, stood up on a bench and flourished a pistol. Thomas Shaw, one of the trustees, succeeded in pacifying him and coaxing him out of doors. When outside, Shaw told him the penalty of the law for his offence, whereupon Hamilton shot Shaw through the heart. The murderer was sent to Carlisle, whence, for fear of lynching, he was sent to Lexington.

The Prize Ring—Edwards and Collyer Fencing each other.
(From the N. Y. Sun.)
APPEARANCE OF THE MEN.
As the men stood opposed to each other at the scratch their appearance and positions were critically and eagerly scrutinized. Edwards's position was easy and artistic, and much nearer than Collyer's, whose guard was held rather low. There was a striking contrast in the two men. The sturdy, thick-set, masculine built frame of Collyer, with his bronzed skin, showing markedly in comparison with the lithe, elegant, but well knit form of Edwards, whose skin was almost as fair, white, and smooth as that of a woman. But all trace of effeminacy was removed by the appearance of Collyer's forehead, showing markedly in comparison with the lithe, elegant, but well knit form of Edwards, whose skin was almost as fair, white, and smooth as that of a woman.

Collyer's sturdy, thick-set frame appeared far more muscular than that of his opponent, and there seemed far greater difference in weight between the two than there was in reality. Sam's loins and thighs were unusually strong; the muscles of his arm well developed, and his feet, as defined and explicit as the contents of a statute book, he would have drawn up the articles and signed them. And yet many people who profess to be Unitarians, Christ's work devote most of their time and talents to the discussion of dogmas and forms!

There may be a time and place for everything, including murder, but few will condemn the church door the proper place. Near Carlisle, Nicholas county, left heavily on Edwards's mouth, received a heavy blow on the left ear, cutting it, and broke away. On the next rally, Edwards planted a terrible blow on Collyer's head, which staggered him. He showed as Edwards, clenched, and the men struggled next to the ropes. Collyer broke away and planted a terrific blow on Edwards's left eye and one on his neck. Edwards forced the fighting, and the fighting was desperate. The round ended by Collyer delivering a heavy blow on Edwards's neck and knocking him down. Amid the wildest excitement Collyer bleating and exhausted while Edwards was published severely about the body.

A FOUL CLAIMED.
The sun was intensely hot—110 in the shade—and several of the spectators fainted. The men looked completely exhausted. When they came to the mark Edwards was weak and almost the all of time. Barney Aaron yelled, "Bring your man up!" Collyer was already at the mark, and Edwards, who had been felled by Collyer's second, shouted foul and opened Edwards's hands. An angry Collyer followed and Barney Aaron claimed the fight for Collyer, but the referee ordered the men to fight on. Barney Aaron refused to let Collyer fight any more, while Allen and Harris complied with the referee's demand, and sent Edwards to the mark.

The referee again ordered the fight to go on, but Aaron refused to let Collyer fight, and Carroll reserved his decision. It is generally supposed that it was another put-up job to cheat Edwards out of the stakes, and Edwards's friends are disgusted with the affair.

It is contended that Collyer could not have withstood Edwards's sledge hammer blows, and the latter would have won had the fight been continued.

PERSONALS.
Mrs. Adela Duncey Maskell left by the City of Portland for Boston this morning. St. John and Fredericton, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather and poor audiences, and has promised to return later in the season. She will shortly commence a tour of the Upper Provinces, and during the winter months will appear in the chief cities of the United States.

REVIEWS.
Mr. Henry Card, No. 9 Waterloo street, is a practical machinist and attends to the repairing of light machinery, sewing machines and a variety of other work which it has been difficult heretofore to get done promptly and satisfactorily. He prides himself on giving satisfaction in regard to workmanship, punctuality and charge, and is securing a very lucrative patronage. See advt.

Mr. John E. Porter, who has been some time in the stove and hardware business at 103 Union street, appears to be doing quite a lively business. He keeps a large stock on hand from which to select. Many of these articles are manufactured on the premises, from the best materials, by experienced workmen, and can generally be relied on for quality and price. He also attends to gas fitting and plumbing.

An elegant quilt tooth-pick was presented to Mr. Resto, yesterday, by some of his many friends.

The Little Wanderers will return to St. John on the 27th. They should take the Institute and charge an admission fee.

The Fredericton Cricketers intend challenging the conquering eleven in the Halifax Tournament. Good for Fredericton!

The funeral of Dr. Paterson, yesterday afternoon, was attended by the Auxiliary Bible Society, the President and Directors of the Grammar School and Mechanics Institute, and a large number of citizens. The services were conducted by Rev. Geo. Armstrong and Rev. Dr. Waters.

The N. B. Engineers will hold their second competition on Monday next. A prize list has been made up which will distribute $40 among the successful competitors.

The Victoria was full last night. Three hundred meals a day, on an average, have been eaten there for some weeks past.

Coroner Earle received, this forenoon, a telegram from the mother of the deceased. She will arrive by train this evening from Canterbury, and make arrangements for the disposal of the body.

All who intend going to Halifax to the Cricket Tournament should read Messrs. Small & Hatheway's advertisement. Return tickets, by the Express and the railway, good from August 18th to 27th, are sold for $6.

Coroner's Inquest on One More Unfortunate Victim of Suicide.
Coroner Earle, yesterday afternoon, held an inquest on the remains of Bridget Kelly, of Canterbury, a poor mortem examination having been held by Dr. T. J. O. Earle before the inquest. Mrs. Doherty, who lives in the St. John House, testified to seeing her in the morning, Thursday, and directing her to the post-office by her request. At breakfast she took suddenly ill and was assisted up stairs to her room, where she died in about ten minutes. Deceased had come to the house in search of Charles McCarron, who boarded there. Charles McCarron gave evidence as follows:

I am a house joiner and belong to Prince Edward Island. I know the deceased Bridget Kelly. I have known her for about sixteen months. I first met her in Calais. The deceased was living with Mr. Waite in Calais when I first became acquainted with her. I left Calais a fortnight next Saturday. I did not see her from the time I left Calais till she came to the Saint John House. I saw deceased every day. I saw deceased this morning. She told me she did not feel very well. She was now in the family way. She told me when she first came to St. John she stopped at the Nova Scotia House, on Tuesday night, the same night she came to St. John. I was never engaged to be married to her. I saw deceased this morning a quarter before seven o'clock. About nine o'clock last night she told me she was going to Lewiston, Maine.

Morris V. Faddock, a clerk in Chalmers's, testified to seeing the deceased a fortnight ago, for the purpose of poisoning a dog. They have been in the habit of selling this poison by the bottle to destroy vermin or foxes.

Dr. T. J. O. Earle, who held the post-mortem, said the death was caused by strychnine. The jury returned a verdict of suicide. The body was in the Dead House last night.

Mrs. Maskell's Readings.
The rain last night prevented a large audience from assembling at the Mechanics Institute, but those who were present were delighted with Mrs. Maskell's readings. Her reading of "The Bells" was a marvel of elocution. This piece was studied for years by the lady before she ever gave it in public. "The Bridge of Sighs" was read by special request, and was very appropriate on account of the melancholy suicide of the morning.

An Unknown Corpse found in the Harbor.
This morning, about 6 o'clock, the body of a drowned man was discovered in the Market Slip. Policemen Moore and Wilcox at once conveyed the remains to the Dead House. The body has not been recognized by any one. He was a man about five feet ten, with brown moustache and beard, dressed in dark clothes, with flannel shirt and no collar, evidently a seafaring man. In his pocket was found eighty-seven cents, in a wallet, and a due bill of $5.00 on William Wells, in favor of John McAnulty, and dated April 9th, 1874. A watchman on board one of the tug boats lying at the foot of the wharf heard a splash about midnight, and it is supposed that is the time the unfortunate man fell into the water. He was probably stoned, as there is a serious report on his nose, as if he had struck the bottom of the Slip when he fell. An inquest will be held by Coroner Earle this afternoon.

Physiology.
This evening Dr. Hebbard will open a course of lectures at the Institute on Physiology and Health. The doctor is said to be a very fluent speaker, and the subjects embraced in the course of six lectures are treated in a comprehensive, scientific and highly practical manner. We hope the talented lecturer will be greeted with a full house, as the information imparted by him must prove of incalculable benefit to all who value health and would know how to preserve it.

Shipping News.
New Vessel.—Capt. Wm. Milner launched yesterday, at Sackville, a brig called the Willie, registering 377 tons, and classing 7 years English Lloyds. Her owners are Capt. Milner, Gideon Palmer, Hon. A. J. Smith, C. T. Chandler, Geo. Campbell and others.

New Vessel.—A new bark, named Ulster, was launched at Quaco a few days ago for Messrs. R. Robertson & Son of this city, and was towed into this port this morning. She registers 1090 tons.

City Express, Aug. 14, 9 a. m.—Wind E, strong breeze, cloudy; one bright interval; one sch. outrun.

At this season of the year, when so many of our people are suffering from colds, we call attention to AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL as a sure cure not only for coughs and colds, but all affections of the lungs and throat. Having used it in our family for many years, we can speak from personal knowledge of its efficiency. There may be other remedies that are good, but in all our experience this has proved to be by far the best. It is pleasant to take, and should be kept at command, by every family, as a protection against a class of complaints which seem harmless in the beginning, but become afflictive and dangerous if neglected.

Portland Police Court.
Only one case—obscene language—came before Mr. Tapley this morning. Mrs. Gallant was charged with using abusive and insulting language to Miss McCreedy. The charge being proved, Mrs. Gallant was fined $4 and costs.

The Lordly-Hatt case was, by request of the counsel on both sides, adjourned until Monday.

Mr. C. SPARROW begs to intimate to Saint John epicureans that he has engaged one of the best and most skillful cooks to be had from Boston, and he is now prepared to furnish breakfasts, dinners and suppers in the highest style of the culinary art. The public are respectfully invited to call and try his skill, at the Victoria Dining Saloon, No. 8 German street, opposite (Country Market).

Academy of Music Theatre.
"A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing" was enthusiastically received by a large audience last evening, the artists doing excellently. "Po-ca-hon-tas" kept everybody laughing, several new jokes being introduced. Mr. Shirley France stopped, as he was making his exit in one of the scenes, contemptuously rubbed his nose, and said:

One thing before my vision darkens—Who stole the Corporation's gold?
We leave the question for the Common Council to answer.

The Indian Town scene bore the inscription—"Billy Owea's Benefit, Monday evening—Phun, fun!"—and we hope every reader will remember it. "Mach Adu About Nothing" will be given to-night for Miss LeClere's benefit, "Mary Warner" to-morrow afternoon, and "Macbeth" to-morrow night.

The last performance of the company will take place on next Tuesday evening, when a complimentary benefit will be tendered to Messrs. Nunnery and McDowall. The company will open in Bangor for a short season on Thursday evening, and we promise our friends on the other side of the line a series of first-class entertainments. The troupe is one of the very best which has ever been in St. John, and the managers are very fortunate in having Mr. Nell Warner as their star. During his stay in St. John he has made a better impression in the legitimate drama than any other actor who has visited us. In Othello, Richard, and Macbeth, he has had no equal. The company will include all his present features. Mr. Farren, the excellent scenic artist of the company, goes ahead to make the necessary arrangements for the opening.

City Police Court.
This promises to be a lively time in police circles within a few days, judging from the number of warrants that have been applied for. This morning the Clerk, Magistrate and Chief were all engaged listening to complaints, as one after another came to seek redress. The few prisoners in the dock were quickly disposed of.

Patrick Dollard was fined $4 for drunkenness in St. John street.

Owen Harvey, for the same offence in Charlotte street, in a more aggravated form, was fined $6.

John Saunders, drunk in Britain street, was fined $4.

James Barrman was found helpless in Sheffield street, and had a sorrowful tale to tell. He was a perfect stranger and entirely by mistake found himself in the street where he imbued too freely. (It's funny how many strangers find out Sheffield street.) Poor Barrman, however, paid for the time spent there, as he lost his watch and all his money, and found himself in the Police Station. A fine of $6 was imposed, which, after hearing the sorrowful tale, the Magistrate allowed to stand for future good conduct.

George P. Coles was given in charge by Capt. Plafout of the schooner Fred Parker for stealing. The schooner was lying in the stream, and Coles, with others, went on board and helped themselves to what they could find. Before getting away they were seen and followed. Coles was recognized on Reed's Point Wharf, and at once given in charge.

A quantity of cigars, taken from the vessel, was found in his possession. He was remanded for trial, and his companions will be looked after.

Great Court.
Barpus vs. Stickney occupied all day yesterday, and is still before the Court. It is an action to recover for 700,000 feet of logs which were purchased by Messrs. Stickney and Smith from McLean. The logs were purchased with a mill property, and Mr. Barpus claims that the logs were his, under a contract made with McLean. From the evidence it appears that McLean had some of the logs marked differently from others, and these were sold to defendants. Mr. B. F. Carpenter was on the stand yesterday and nearly all this forenoon. He was the surveyor of the logs, and is the most important witness in the case. He testified that the mark was changed by McLean. Seneca Glazier was called in evidence just before the Court adjourned. The plaintiff's case is not yet finished.

The special docket was disposed of this morning.

G. Carvell vs. J. W. Fleming, an action to recover $230.14, the first on the list went for plaintiff. George Blach, Esq., moved for trial.

A. A. Stockton vs. Case, verdict $775 for plaintiff. George Blach, Esq., moved for trial.

T. J. J. Merritt vs. S. B. Buel, was next on the docket. A. O. Earle, Esq., moved for trial. Verdict for plaintiff, $888.

Merritt vs. Buel was the same as the former case, and the same amount was given against the defendant.
