

TO HOLLAND

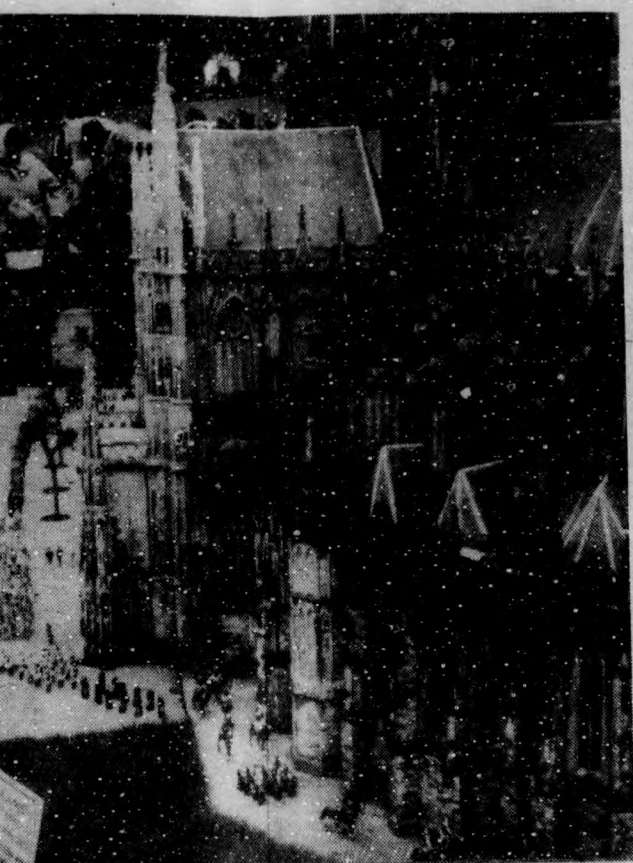

BY BILL DEMONYE

the streets; to see s delivering their
ods to market;
artists on the
er, envisioning
portrayal of the
ld; or to see a
in which the d groom are a horse-drawn
all traditions of

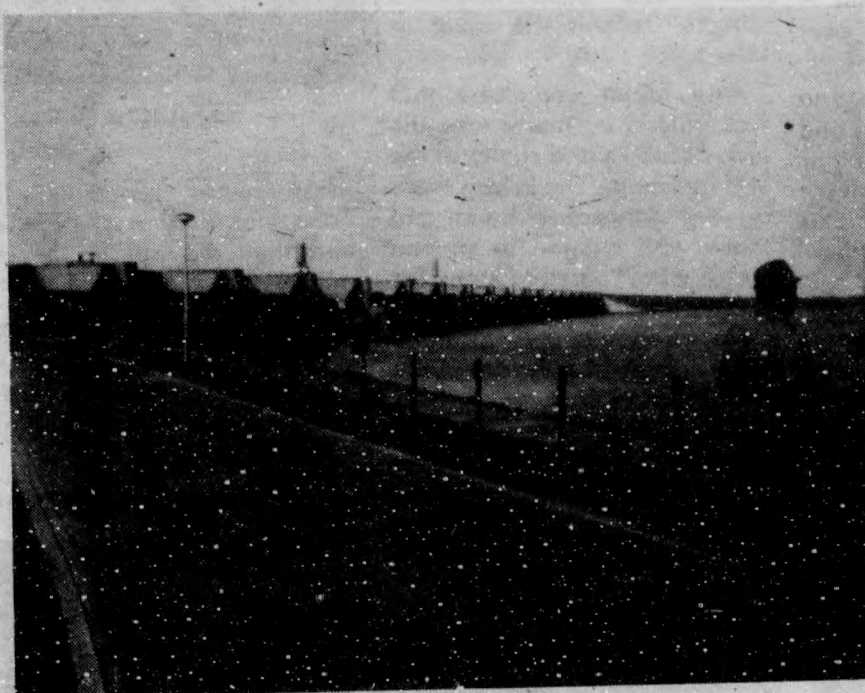

Holland.
If one could go into the past and arrive in Holland as it was twenty to thirty years ago and see the people who struggled to make Holland the country it is today; that is how I believe a trip to Holland would be fulfilling and truly meaningful.

Wind mills are not just pretty but very functional. They were used to reclaim the land from the sea.

DURA DURA DAM
This is a recreation of the Dutch castle for members of the Royal family.

Dykes hold back the water.

The very beautiful Dutch architecture is shown in the form of a town hall.

A scenic picture of old buildings beside the old methods of transportation, the canal and cobble stone streets.