THE C.P.R. DIVIDENDS.

Common Stock Placed on Six Per Cent. Basis.

Montreal, Aug. 11.-At a largely attended meeting of the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway at the general offices here yesterday, it was decided to increase the dividend on the common stock from 2 I-2 per cent. to 3 per cent. for the half-year, which places this security on a 6 per cent. yearly basis, instead of 5 per cent. as theretofore. The regular dividend of 2 1-2 per cent. on the preferred stock was also declared as usual. financiers had already concluded from the way C.P.R. was withstanding the attacks of the Wall street bears that throughout the persistent shrinkage in the value of stock securities since last fall, the decline in C. P. R. was very gradual, and at no time did it begin to keep pace with the frequently tumultuous character of the falling-off in other stocks of the same class. When people paid 140 or more last fall for C. P. R., they did so on the splendid increases in the net earnings of the system and on the general outlook for the company's operations.

After payment of all dividends declared, the surplus for the year carried forward is $3,973,960.

A further feature of to-day's meeting was the addition of the following names to the Board of directors: Senator MacKay. Senator George A. Drummond, Mr. R. G. Reid, Mr. David McNicoll, the present Second Vice-President and General Manager of the company, all of Montreal, ard Mr. Clarence W. MacKay of New York, son of the late John W. MacKay.

A CRY FROM MACEDONIA. Asking Representatives of Powers to Help Them.

DRAMATIC ARREST.

THREE TORONTO BURGLARS CAPTURED RED-HANDED.

Detective Forrest's Daring Dash to Prevent Their Escape-Threatened Him With Their Revolvers.

Toronto, Aug. 11. - A bad gang of armed burglars, the men who are supposed to have been operating extensively in Toronto and vicinity for some time past, was rounded up by the police yesterday after-

Considerable excitement was occasioned in police circles when it became known that Charles Quackenbush, the escaped Central Prison convict, and two of his pals, Thomas Gallagher alias Murphy, and Stephen Doyle, had been caught in the act of robbing the home of Mrs. Adeine J. H. Brodie at 409 Sherbourne street. To Detective Forrest belongs the credit for the capture of the housebreakers, who are probably the worst gang taken into custody since the famous Rice, Rutledge and Jones operated in this city and vicinity. The officer risked his own life in capturing the men, who were all armed with loaded revolvers. He surprised them in the act of ransacking one of the rooms, and kept them at bay till assistance came. A large amount of jewellery was found in their possession, and it is expected to the rooms and kept them for the control of the rooms and kept them at bay till assistance came. Detective Forrest was on his vacation last week, and when reporting for duty on Sunday was handed a copy of a report which stated that Wm. Scholey's house at 82 Seaton street had been entered by thieves some time between 3 and 6 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The members of the family were away at the time. The rear door was forced and every bit of jewellery which was in the place was carried off. Detective Forrest learned then that Charles Quackenbush, the escaped convict, had been seen on Queen street in company with a young woman about 9 o'clock on Saturday night. In reply to an acquaintance's question, who knew him, and asked if he wasn't afraid of being caught, Quackenbush observed, "Well, there'll be some shooting first." A place in which he was supposed to be sleeping was searched on Sunday night, but he wasn on there. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Detective Forrest was standing at the corner of Wilton avenue and Ontario street, when he saw four young men, one of whom was Quackenbush, walking north. The detective waited some time, and then followed them. The quartette went morth to Carlton street, and then over to Sherbourne street, when they again turned up towards Rosedale. Over the bridge they went, and stopped in front of a house where a good haul would likely be made. They sized the place up, and finding that a gardener was at work on the next lawn, they decided to leave the job alone.

The quartette retraced their steps over the bridge, and after loitering about a short time, went south again. When opposite the house of Mrs. Brodie one of the party rang the bell. Getting no response, one of the gang remained outside, the other three going around to the rear, where a good ing around to the rear, where an Detective Forrest was on his vaca-

While the three men were inside the man on guard sat reading a dime novel, and once he got sight of Detective Forrest, who was watching proceedings from behind a tree. Fearing that the alarm would be given before he got assistate, Detective Forrest walked south on Sherbourne street to a house, where he stopped and talked to a lady. When the opportunity presented itself the officer slipped through the yard and over the fence to yard and over the fence to Bleecker street. Seeing the patrol waggon and the detectives approach, Detective Forrest made a rush for the man on guard, but he got away without giving the alarm to his pals. After the house had been surrounded, it was arranged that De-tectives Forrest and Davis and acting tectives Forrest and Davis and acting Patrol Sergeant Pogue should enter. Detective Forrest went upstairs, and on the third flat met Gallagher, alias Murphy, face to face in the doorway. The burglar had a revolver, and pointed it at the officer, who also carried his revolver. "Throw up your hands," said Forrest, and, after saying "I won't" once, Murphy slipped his revolver into his side pocket. In the meantime Quackenbush and Doyle stood with their revolvers in their hands, but they did not attempt to use them. Forrest called his comrades, and they rushed upstairs and into the room

All the prisoners quietly submitted to arrest, and were handcuffed and taken to the Wilton avenue station. At the station they were searched, and several hundred dollars' worth of diamonds and jewellery were found on them. Quackenbush and Doyle had 38-calibre revolvers, and Murphy a 22calibre revolvers, and Murphy a 32-

St. Catharines, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—The second and closing day of the Royal Canadian Henley regatts here to-day was a pronounced success. An immense crowd of spectators turned out to one of the finest list of events ever given by the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen. A strong wind blew directly down the course, making the water somewhat rough for the first three events, but it died away after that, leaving the course as caim and smooth as could be desired. The great crowd was greatly disappointed by the nonappearance of Titus in the senior singles, or the plea that the water was too rough, while as a matter of fact at the time of that event—4.0—the canal had scarcely a Tipple on it, it is generally regarded here among oarsmen than the New Yorker quit cold, and did not care to meet Scholes. His excuse was wholly without foundation, and whatever might be said as to the roughness with the course earlier in the day, there was absolutely no reason for retugness was absolutely no reason for retugnating at that the said as the said as the call of the twee twee the two only not rough at that the said as the said as the call of the call of the twee twee they was a benefit only not rough at that the said as the said as the call of the call of the twee kept waiting at the stating were kept waiting at the stating were kept waiting at the stating and could not be induced to come out and take a beating. It was a clear case of funk, and all present were perfectly satisfied that his well-defined yellow strak secreted itself, at the last moment. ARGONAUTS AND SCHOLES.

Overalls

As a rule most men find it difficult to get shirts and overalls that are really comfortable and durable. We learned this years ago, and that is the reason we started to make these garments ourselves.

We make men's working shirts and overalls in such a way that every wearer gets his full money's worth, not only in wear but also in comfort. First, we use only the best cloths; second, they are cut properly from patterns that do not skimp the materials; and third, the seams are double stitched with extra strong thread.

We replace any garment that rips, with a new one.

The company also propose to take on account of their land grants another tract of about 100,000 acres of semi-arid lands adjoining the irrigation tract of the Alberta Railway & Coal Company.
