Take care of the stomach and the health will take care of itself. If people only realized the soundness of that statement the majority might live to be a good old age like Moses, "the eye undimmed, the natural force unabated." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is dispensed to nerve and musele. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do its whole work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so spread disease throughout the body. It was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very centre of health and the common source of disease, which led Dr. Pierce to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery." "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cored through the stomach." The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of diseased organs, heart, liver, lungs, blood,—by the use of the "Discovery" which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. key or other intoxicant.

emaining Relice of Summer Take on New Interest-Brilliant Contrasts of Scarlet and Green.

The searching, penetrating air of winter persistently impresses the universal law of change. It comes supremely indifferent to its welcome, and regardless of the petty human activities it interrupts. The remaining relics of summer take on a new interest. Birds are not careful gleaninterest. Birds are not careful gleaners, and the berries still clinging to the withered and shrunken stalks of the solomon's seal and wild lily of the valley betray their negligence. Even the freely-displayed berries on the viburnum have been overlooked in many places. The wintergreen and partridge berry reveal their brilliant contrasts of scarlet and green in perfect indifference to the passing seasons. But the most brilliant display of the closing year is made by the bitter-sweet, as it clings and struggles over shrubbery unable to with-Birds are not careful glean bitter-sweet, as it clings and struggles over shrubbery unable to withstand its strangling coils. This vigorous climber sometimes sways loose, in apparent indifference to the stundy tree that supports it. A slight hold on a branch, in a lofty, spreading top, is all the support it demands, and it swings to the ground like a big, idle rope, light and flexible, inviting various speculations as to how it contrived to climb without taking hold. Sometimes the bitter-sweet will clasp a tree scarcely as large as itself, coiling round and out taking hold. Sometimes the bitter-sweet will clasp a tree scarcely as large as itself, coiling round and round about it like a serpent, and slowly strangling it to death. The dead and attenuated victim may remain in the great overgrown coils, while the serpentine trunk reaches up among the branches of other trees. Its handsome display of rich, red fruit is now revealed among the naked branches, and, in spite of its tempting appearance, is carefully neglected by the birds. The three-valved, spherical orange pods that cluster irregularly on the smaller branches are now open and turned back, displaying the bright red pulpy covering of the seeds. This fruit has the reputation of being poisonous, but while birds avoid it, other bipeds collect it for decorative purposes. It is very enduring, and dries without losing its form or color. The bright colors now displayed among the naked branches are an attraction to the feathered gleaners, but while they dinger and fit about they are not further tempted by appearances.

The bracing air is an inspiration to all animated nature. A brightly-decked jay pulls the last remaining acorn from the highest branch of a red oak, shaking in his strength the decked jay pulls the last remaining acorn from the highest branch of a red oak, shaking in his strength the clinging bunches of withered leaves. He flies to another tall branch to display his handsome mottling of blue and white, but is too busy even to gratify his vanity. The chirp of a junco comes from the close foliage of the ceders but he cannot remain and a junco comes from the close foliage of the cedars, but he cannot remain in hiding. His active energy is contagious as he struggles with the problem of a food supply. Birds become sociable with the approach of winter. Their more somber colorings seem to eliminate all class distinctions. Juncoes, chick-a-dees, and free sparrows gather together in communal activity. The tree sparrow, distinguished by a little black dot in the centre of his otherwise plain breast, seems to take special delight. in the centre of his otherwise plain breast, seems to take special delight in hiding and concealing his identity, while his friend the chick-a-dee has nothing to conceal, and completely ignores his most curious visitors. The remaining robins are congregating in focks and rehearsing for the long migration by lofty, aimless flights. And away up, almost among the grey clouds, a belated flock of wild geese appear like a geometrical form of black dots as they move slowly and steadily southward. That angled outline in the silent distance is moved by a guiding instinct as certain as the calculations of the navigator. Autumn seems incomplete if the wild geese slip away unseen. Their familiar formation is looked for with the old expectancy from year to year. It awakens the all-pervading instinct of migration, the spirit in which self and surroundings are lost as the mind soars away with the wheeling years. breast, seems to take special delight

The perplexing question of gifts is one that arises at the approach of every Christmas. Charming indeed are ne of the pretty trifles made by clever fingers out of bits of silk, satin, vel vet and linen, with dainty laces and ribbons to form the decorations. A dainty gift to add to one's personal belongings will always be appreciated by the friend whose tastes crave beautiful things, while anything that adds to the beauty of the home will bring joy to the housewife. The following Illustrations and suggestions among a number originally presented by the Delineator may prove helpful to those who are busy planning the Christmas offerings: Now that all sorts of fancy knitting are so fashionable again a knitting bag is a convenience. The one shown is of

BRIGHT'S DISEASE CURED.

Bright's Disease has invariably yielded to a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills, no matter how firm a hold it had secured on its victim. Possibly the most talked of case of recent date is that of Alice Mand Parker, of Shubenacadie, Hants Co. N. S. The full story of this case will be found in the current number of Dodd's Magazine. Herewith a short statement from the young lady's most provided in the struggling victim and the doctor shakes his head and whispers "Bright's Disease," hope fades to nothing, and the sorrowing friends feel that death has marked their loved one for its own.

The alarming increase this terribia disease is making is evidenced by the columns of almost every newspaper. For not among the lowly of the earth alone does it look for its victimes. Statesmen, judg s., eminent lawyers, and honored divines are numbered among those who in recent months have gone down to their graves with the fell marks of this dread disease upon their bodies. In fact, so prevalent has the disease become that a celebrated New York specialist staticed recently that not one person in a hundred was free from some taint of Kidney Disease.

WORKS IN SECRET.

celebrated New York specialist stated of recently that not one person in a hundred was free from some taint of Kidney Disease.

WORKS IN SECRET.

It is the secreey of Kidney Disease that makes it the more dreaded. You can fight an enemy in the open with some chance of success, but if he is lying in wait to take you at an unwary moment your chances of successfully fighting him are terribly diminished. So it is with Kidney Disease. Its first warnings are so faint as to be hardly noticeable, a sight pain in the back that is charged up to over exertion, a slight discoloration while urinating attracts attention of the urine or a burning since that Kidney Diseases is at work gracually eating its way into your system. The pain in the back grows more severe, the urinary troubly more complicated, swellings under the eyes and of the limbs denote the comp of the urine decime. Among those cured of this terrible aiment is Mr. Charles Gilchrist, for fifteen years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Chief of Police of Port Hope, and afterwards for twenty-two years Pishery Oversured. The pain in the back grows more severe, the urinary troubly more complicated, swellings under the eyes and of the limbs denote the coming of Dropsy, sharp shooting pains in the Johns and muscles tell that Rheamatism has you in its grasp, or perhaps a day or two's illness leads to the calling of the doctor, and suddenly the terrible truth is forced upon you—Bright's Disease has, you, in its grasp.

WAY OF ESCAPE.

With this silend, reculess enoughly but surely eating its way into prominence and marking that prominence by a yearly increase in the lengths of its death list, the demand of the day, of the hour, is "Show us the way of escape." Nature never your mankind in a critical condition without providing a way of escape-providing mankind were wise enough to take the way of escape. "Nature never your mankind in a critical condition without providing a way of escape-providing mankind were wise enough to take the way of escape." Nature never your mankind in a critical condition without providing a way of escape-providing mankind were wise enough to take the way of escape. It is a single voice they will rely:

Is it the common people of Canada who die of Bright's Disease? No, it is the bright and shining marks, those who are stationed above the heads of the masses. Ask the reason of this! Go to the people who are practically sxempt from Kidney Disasso in its worst form, and ask them. With almost a single voice they will rely:

We cure our Kidney alments with Dodd's Kidney Pils, and they never get a chance to develop into, that terrible disease that curries so many prominent men into the grave."

ON WITH HIS WORK.

Ana so it is; the man who does manual labor must heal his slightest sches or they hinder him in his work. When he has a backache he cures it with Dodd's Kidney Pils, and goes on with his work; when he feels a twinge of Rheumatism he drives it out of his body with Dodd's Kidney Pils and goes on with his work. Necessity has taught him that he must cure his Kidneys to get rid of his pains, for he must work to live. He has not been educated to that standpoint where a prescription to cure must he written by a specialist at a cost of dollars to every letter. He may not even know that there never was a disease that took in all clases of the community but what nature provided a cure within the means of all clases of the community. What he does know is more to the point than all this. He knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure all aches which experience has taught him come from the Kidneys. He takes Dodd's Kidney Pills and goes on with his work.
