The sheriff was for many years editor of the Chatham Banner, and is one of the best known and most popular men in Western Ontario."

The Planet heartily endorses the kind references to the sheriff, and only regrets that such a deservedly popular citizen is not a Tory, but there seems not the least possibility of a change. His politics have been wrong too long.

FIFTY TIMES THE PRICE

Montreal Hotel-Keep's Idea of the Value of Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The monetary price of a good thing does not by any means express its worth. If an article is of genuine use to a man or woman he wouldn't take many times its actual cost and be without it.

Such was, no doubt, the idea of Mr. William Bogie, the well-known proprietor of the popular Waverley House, Victoria Square, Montreal, when he said Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets were worth fifty times the price asked.

Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold at 50¢ a box. At Mr. Bogie's valuation, this would bring the price up to twenty-five dollars a box. Is this high? Does twenty-five sound much? How many a man would sacrifice his wife's fortune to get back a good sound digestion.

Twenty-five dollars is not an uncommon price, to pay in doctor's bills in the effort to cure Dyspepsia. It is an unnecessary price, because Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold at fifty cents a box and are the finest treatment for dyspepsia on earth. But here is no doubt that a man on being cured of Dyspepsia by a box of Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets has got a full twenty-five dollars' worth for his fifty cents.

Mr. Bogie, of the Waverley House, thinks so. One box of Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets cured him. He acknowledges that the service was worth fifty times what he paid for it.

Mr. Bogie, who has been troubled with Dyspepsia for many years and could get nothing to help him until I tried Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets. One box sufficed to cure me. I consider Dods's Dyspepsia Tablets worth fifty times the price asked.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 20

It's time to make a complete clearance of all summer garments and odd lines to make room for our big fall stock. Leastwise, that's the way we look at it. It's a rule of ours—that each season must consume its own merchandise and none to be carried over to another season. It's a good rule, too, and even the prospect of losing some money won't induce us to infract it. Let every suit go!
