TO MUZZLE ALL DOGS.

Many Complaints Show That Scare Has Reached Hamilton.

Mayor McLaren Makes Reply to Rev. Dr. Lyle's Remarks.

Street Railway Work Will be Begun To-morrow Morning.

Many timid people in Hamilton are newhat alarmed as a result of the mad dog scares in Ancaster and Stoney Creek, it would not be surprising if the Markets Committee this afternoon reamends the Council to pass a by-law ordering that all dogs running at large be muzzled. Several complaints have been made, and the aldermen urged to weeks ago, when a small spaniel bit two or three people and a number of dogs in The carcass of the animal was sent to Ottawa, and the report came was sent to Ottawa, and the report came back that the dog had rabies. The people who were bitten were hustled off to the Pasteur Institute, and a Dominion inspector who visited the vicinity killed many animals bitten by the mad dog. A week or so ago the residents of Stoney Creek became alarmed. It was stated that a mad dog had bitten a number of animals in that vicinity. People who were scared armed themselves with clubs and revolvers, and many dogs were killed. The Township Council passed a by-law ordering that all dogs be muzzled. There is little doubt that the scare has reached Hamilton. Fully a hundred complaints have been made in the last week. People say that dogs are running around

The remarks made by Rev. Dr. Lyle when addressing the Trades & Labor Council on the action of the aldermen in cutting off the Art School grant after this year caused Mayor McLaren to issue the following statement to the press this morning:

"The Mayor states that, he is pleased to see, according to newspaper reports of he meeting on Friday night, that the Trades and Labor Council is prepared to hear all about the case before deciding. He is prepared to give them or any citizen who may be interested in the matter his reasons for considering that citizen who may be interested in the matter his reasons for considering that to further grants should be made by the Council to the Art School, as he did to Dr. Lyle, notwithstanding his reported denial, one of the principal reasons being that all educational matters should be under the control of the Board of Education. The Mayor regrets very much that Dr. Lyle found it necessary to resort to personal abuse instead of employing argument, and says that men who give personal abuse instead of employing avgument, and says that men who give their time to the conduct of city business suffer much financial loss thereby and while making no pretence of infallibility they strive to conscientiously perform their duty as they consider it to be in the interests of the whole community."

Traction Manager Green, who will have charge of the re-construction work for the Street Railway Company, called at the Board of Works office this morning and notified Secretary Brennan that a start would be made on James street to-morrow. It will be some days before the city puts its men at work.

On account of Chairman Allan being away from the city, the Board of Works will not meet until Thursday night. The regular meeting of the Finance Committee should be held in the afternoon, but it may be called for early in the evening, the proposition being to have both committees meet that night, followed by an informal Council meeting to discuss the power question.

The Markets Committee this after ne Markets Committee this afternoon will receive the report of the subcommittee appointed to consider the request of James and King street merchants that a by-law be passed regulating the location of moving picture places. The proposed by-law to keep peddlers off the street will also be considered.

Pinch what kind of a weapon it was and what he had done with it, he described it as a black bone-handled knife with metal ends and a blade about three inches long. "I left it in the room, come over and we will find it," he said. He was accordingly led back to the Hunter street house, and into the room where the conflict occurred. After hunting around for a few minutes Sergt. Pinch found it, and noticed that it fitted in with the description given by the prisoner. The patrol wagon was then called, and Simpson taken to No. 3 Police Station, and lodged in a cell. He was heard to remark as he passed through the station: "I fixed him."

Wallace was examined at the hospital and it was found that the wound was much more serious than was at first supposed, the knife having pierced the left lung. In fact the doctors had such grave doubts concerning his chances of recovery that they notified Chief Smith that

The story told by Wallace to Dr. Wickins is somewhat different. He claimed that about dark on Saturday evening, Mrs. Simpson swent to his place with her two children and asked if they could stay there over night as she was afraid her two children and asked if they could stay there over night as she was afraid to go home as her husband had been abusing her. Wallace secured a room for her and the children, and then went to bed. About 8 o'clock the next morning the children went home, and shortly af-ter Simpson appeared at the house and asked for his wife. Wallace urged her to go home with her husband, but she said she was afraid that he would strike her and refused to leave. Simpson then went and refused to leave. Simpson then y away and hunting up a policeman asked him to interfere. He was told to go to the Magistrate and get a warrant, but away and hunting up a policeman asked him to interfere. He was told to go to the Magistrate and get a warrant, but instead of following this advice he returned to his own home. While there it is thought that he brooded on his grievance, until he had worked himself into a towering rage. About 10 o'clock, Wallace said, he appeared in his room and making a rush for him struck him on the breast. A struggle ensued and Wallace managed to get his assailant down and administer a few punches. Simpson finally broke away and made a hasty exit. A few minutes after Simpson suddenly felt a peculiar sensation stealing over him, and, looking down, he was startled to find that his shirt was covered with blood.
