They stood on the corner of King William and Hughson streets on Saturday having a conversation. P. C. Barrett heard enough of Davidson's talk to warrant him in arresting them on a vagrancy charge. "The gang of vags who have terrorized the neighborhood have not been seen since the raid last week, when four were captured.

They had been camping in Hendrie's bush, where they had a regular camping outfit. Plunder and robbery by night and going to the city by day has been the custom with them. While watching a baseball game he received a savage blow from behind under the jaw, which put him out of commission. On regaining his composure he found his watch and chain were missing, and also a lock. County Constable Pickard saw the affair, and gave chase to Brown's alleged assailant, and captured Joseph Street, of Guelph. He was charged this morning with theft, and pleaded not guilty. He was remanded till Thursday, that the Guelph Chief of Police may be communicated with.

John Walsh, 219 Mary street, was charged by James Keegan with aggravated assault. Walsh pleaded. "Not guilty," and declined to elect. Keegan said he was married to Walsh's sister, and on Sunday night they were having supper. Words started, then blows, Walsh tried to chew his finger, he said, so he called the police and had him arrested. He was committed for trial.

NO CANADIAN TEAM.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 16.—A Canadian team will not be sent to Seagirt to compete for the Palmer trophy this year. The executive committee of the D. R. A., after giving the matter consideration, has, it is understood, decided not to send a team, principally on the ground of expense.

It is not expected that this work will be done before next summer.

The Financial Post contains an article dealing with the course of the Hydro-Electric Commission toward the farmers in obtaining easements for the Hydro-Electric transmission line. After setting forth, the Commission course, with which our readers are now familiar, the Financial Post says: It will therefore be seen that the Hydro-Electric Commission is attempting by means of an illegal document to blackmail the farmers and to force them through fear of the consequences to accept terms which they have already r-fused to agree to. The Commission has gone a long way before in validating illegal contracts, staying proceedings in pending suits, and denying access to the courts of justice, but this attempt to intimidate the farmer by fear of legal proceedings, arbitration, law costs, sheriff's officers, is far beyond anything that has previously been attempted. One would have hesitated to believe that such a document could have been issued by the Government of the Province of Ontario through the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, had it not been that it bears the signature of A. F. Lobb, as solicitor for the Commission. The Financial Post contains an article

MANY MASTERPIECES

Of Greatest Geniuses Produced Late in Life.

(By Ada May Krecker.) When have the world's chief workers and thinkers performed their greatest achievements? What is the age of men

achievements? What is the age of mental virility?

Prof. Osler, not long ago, in his notable address, said:

"Take the sum of human achievement in action, in science, in art, in literature; subtract the work of the men above 40, and while we should miss great treasures, even priceless treasures, we would practically be where we are to-day. It is difficult to name a great and far reaching conquest of the mind which has not been given to the world by a man on whose back the sun was still shining. The effective, moving, vitalizing work of the world is done between the ages of 25 and 40.

W. A. Newman Dorland has made prolonged scientific investigations, and finds no 40 or 50 year "dead line." He abolishes the "dead line" and establishes a "live line" with undreamed-of possibilities still ahead. He produces abundant evidence for the conclusion that it is the mature genius that has revolutionized the world.

Mr. Dorland points to the records of 40 men famous in all lines of intellectual activity. They fall into two main groups, the thinkers and the workers. In the first class are found philosophers and natural scientists; in the second, those whose intellectual activities culminated in some practical and visible application of their lines of thought—inventors and warriors.

MERE ENUMERATION AN INSPIRA-

"Merely to enumerate the names of these distinguished men," says Mr. Dor-land, "becomes an inspiration. Involun-tarily we deff our hats and with rever-ent mien note the procession as it passes tarily we doff our hats and with reverent mien note the procession as it passes before us, a magnificent array of genius and mentality."

The records give an average age of 50 years as the time for the performance of the master-work. For the workers the average age is 47 years, and for the thinkers, 52 years.

Chemists and playsicians average 41; dramatists and playwrights, poets and inventors, follow at 44 years; novelists give an average 48 years; explorers and warriors, 47 years; musical composers and actors average 48 years; artists and divines occupy the position of equilibrium at 50 years; essayists and reform um at 50 years; essayists and reformers at 51 years; physicians and surgeons line up with the statesmen at 52 years; philosophers give an average of 54 years; astronomers and mathematicians, satir-philosophers give an average of 54 years; astronomers and mathematicians, satirists and humorists reach an average of 56 years; historians 57 years; and maturalisas and jurists average at 58 years. This average age of 50 years for the masterwork is seen to be misleading when it is remembered that the 400 lives analyzed include many that were snuffed out prematurely. Byron, Shelley, Keats, Poe, Mungo Park, Christopher Marlowe, and Thomas Chatterton, and many more, completed their life work before the age of 40 years.

Mr. Dorland concludes that had these men rounded out lifetimes of 50, 60 or 71 years, they would have done even better work than that already accomplished. He believes that these men had only begun to show the wonderful possibilities of their minds, and had they been permitted to live longer, doubtless still greater and more brilliant achievements of mentality would have been placed to their credit. It is probable that then the average age of the masterpiece would be nearer 60 than 50 years.
