

THE C. P. R. PRESSES CHARGES AGAINST SUB-CONTRACTORS

These Cases Are the Outcome of the Other Cases Tried in High Court Recently—No Damages Are Demanded—Supt. Deane, of the R. N. W. M. P., is Likely to be Kept Busy for a Week or Two on the Hearings.

Calgary, Aug. 16.—Fifteen sub-contractors of the Canadian Northern railway were before Sept. Deane at nine o'clock this afternoon charged by the Canadian Northern with trespassing on their land while grading the C. N. R. Right-of-way in the Rosebud district. This case is the outcome of other cases which were tried in the high court when the C. P. R. obtained an injunction against the C. N. R., but the latter refused to obey the injunction under the civil code, but under the criminal code. Many of the sub-contractors have three or four charges against them, as they are working under different contracts, and A. A. McGillivray, acting for the defendants, has announced that each case will be tried separately.

Brown also testified that he did not know positively on what section he was working, as he got verbal instructions to grade four miles of the line near Jackson, and he had just went ahead on it. He admitted getting an injunction to stop work one day, but said that as soon as the time of this injunction had run out he began work again. Later he got another injunction, but Mr Jackson then told him that it was not necessary to stop work, and he went away from the irrigation ditch. He did this and went on with his work. Later he came to a quarter section of land that had two meadows, and he was told to stop work on the line of right-of-way with two strands of barbed wire.

The First Defendant.
Philip Brown, a sub-contractor, was the first defendant called yesterday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty to the charge under the criminal code, and stated that he did not know that the land he was working on was owned by the C. P. E. It might have been owned by private people, and he believed that it was when he started work upon it.

They will see a city that at the close of this century will out rival London, Paris and New York in wealth, in commerce, and in power. Let there be no illusions about it. Montreal is the natural gateway of commerce of the North American continent to the south. While the farmers of the south and the miners of the west are reaping their bountiful harvest, the south will be equally busy serving the needs of the north.

This will not be the most remarkable assembly that has ever been seen in the church since the College of the Holy Spirit was founded. It is expected to draw to the world nearly nineteen hundred years ago. The Parls of Richelieu and the Parls of Louis XIV. is the last of the Parls of France, and the Parls of old; it is not the Parls of Louis IX nor of St. Thomas Aquinas. Two hundred centuries the great church of Notre Dame in Paris resounded with the stately steps of the Parls. Tanham Ergue which the genius of St. Thomas Aquinas gave the Christian world. Its echoes are no longer heard in the Parls of France, but in the Parls of the Seine, but here where the St. Lawrence sweeps around to the sea, in the city of Our Lady of Mount Royal, is a new world, where men are now sitting in the Parls of St. Thomas Aquinas is sung in a hun-

Invitations to the conferences on social insurance, unemployment and higher technical education were received from twenty-two foreign countries in which the conferences will be held, having been transmitted through the Royal British embassy and the Colonial Office.

As Inspector-General of Canadian Militia—Impression Confirmed.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The announcement that General Mackenzie, who is now being sent out to Canada by the war office, to be chief of the general staff, confirms the impression that the position of Inspector-general, now held by General Murray, will be taken over by General Mackenzie will, however, be chief military adviser in an-

No official confirmation of General Mackenzie's appointment has yet been received at the Department, but his name was submitted by the Canadian authorities and approved. DECLINE PUBLIC FUNERAL.

BURIAL IN HER WILL.
London, Aug. 16.—The executive, the will of Miss Florence Nightingale, the "Angel of the Crimea," who died Saturday, definitely declined today to offer a public burial in Westminster Abbey, as had been the wish of England. They consider themselves bound by the terms of her will in which she expressed a wish for a simple private funeral. On account of the fact that the late nurse's achievement, a spontaneous movement started in England immediately after her death looking to a state funeral with interment in Westminster

Larger Area Prepared for Crop.

During the present summer a much larger area of land has been followed and prepared for next season's crop than in any former year in the history of the province. The area of this land was prepared with the intention of seeding to fall wheat. There was, however, no use in sowing fall wheat this year because of the fact that the grain would not germinate until the required moisture was assured. This has been the case for thousands of acres of fall wheat which have been sown, which otherwise would have been held over for next spring seeding.

It is expected that the area of land for fall wheat seeding to commence,
