And forget your foot troubles. You will no longer feel that drag to your step, that dead weight, that tired feeling.

THE ELEGANCE

Gold Medal SHOES IS THE RESULT OF BOTH BEAUTY OF DESIGN and BEAUTY OF FIT.

MOST SHOES SIMPLY COVER THE FEET.

Both Dorothy Dodd and Gold Medal Footwear support, brace and aid the feet. One well fitted pair will prove this.

Geo. A. Slater's Famous Invictus Shoes are Flexible.

The foot feels as if it is rested on a cushion instead of a hard leather bottom.

The most thing about breaking in New Shoes is the hard stiff feeling of the soles. Every step is an effort to make the leather bend. You instantly notice the difference when you put on a pair of G. A. Slater's Invictus Shoes.

Frenchman on Verge of Starvation.

Arrives by Fogota and Thinks Comrade Dead—Charges Danish Captain With Cruelty to Both.

A young French sailor named Rene Sainz arrived here by the s.s. Fogota yesterday, having been brought on board the ship at Change Islands by Mr. Thos. Peckford, of Dildo. The man Sainz can speak hardly any English and that of a character which it is not easy to understand. The story gleaned from him is that he and a comrade named Rene Bergeras came out to Twillingate in the Danish vessel Eguste, now lying at Twillingate Harbor awaiting a load of fish for Europe. He says that on the run out and since their arrival at Twillingate, the captain of the ship systematically and cruelly ill-treated them. To a telegram reporter who interviewed Sainz yesterday on board the Fogota as he lay in his berth in the fore-cabin, the man made the charge that he and his friend were brutally treated. According to his version of the affair he and Bergeras, who is now missing, were kicked by the captain and beaten about the head and body with a cudgel. To substantiate what he asserted he bared his legs and they were in a terrible state. They were covered with sores, the result of wounds inflicted some time ago evidently, and were swollen and inflamed. He asserted also that his body, especially about the ribs, was bruised, and the crew of the Fogota substantiate this. His comrade, he averred, was in a worse state, and so brutal was the treatment latterly accorded them that both determined to desert the ship, and left her on the 19th inst. as far as could be understood from the man, and took to the woods. He says they were three days and nights without food, that Bergeras became exhausted on the road and lay down, and he fears he is dead. The distance from Twillingate to Dildo is 20 miles, and Mr. Peckford found Sainz on the road in an exhausted state, famished with hunger and hardly able to walk from the treatment he had received. His legs pained him terribly and he was brought by Peck-ford to his home and given food and nourishment. After giving him the nourishment his condition demanded, Peckford brought him in his boat to Change Islands to get him on board the Fogota for St. John's, where he could lay his case before the French Consul. Sainz has in his possession the following note from Peckford, written on the face of a white envelope in a good clear hand:

"I, Thos. W. Peckford, found this man at Dildo destitute and on the point of starving. I brought him home and treated him kindly. Please be good to him until he reaches his own people. The Lord will reward you for it."

(Sgd. T. W. PECKFORD, "South Side Change Islands.")

Peckford's conduct towards the unfortunate Frenchman is deserving of all praise and is typical of the generosity and warm heartedness of the Newfoundland fisherman. Sainz says he left his friend Bergeras on the road between Twillingate and Dildo, and he believes that he must have died from hunger and exhaustion. One of the passengers on the Fogota, a druggist of this city, notified and bandaged the sores on Sainz's legs on the voyage to this port. When the man boarded the Fogota he wished to go to work on the ship to pay his passage in this way, as he had no money, but when Capt. Barbour heard of his condition he would not barken to his doing anything but made him stay in his berth. The police were told of the affair yesterday. Consul Chorat will likely take steps to-day to have the matter thoroughly investigated.

Elder's Argument.

(Daily News Message)

The Hague, July 24.—Hon. Samuel J. Elder, of Boston, continuing his argument, affirmed that notwithstanding Lord Elgin's warning to the Governor of Newfoundland to conform to the Modus Vivendi concluded between Britain and America in 1906, the Newfoundland law prohibiting the sale of herrings to American fishermen for use as bait, which had for its object to render it impossible for Americans to fish for cod, was carried out with the utmost rigour against American vessels; and those inhabitants of Newfoundland, who had procured bait for them. Elder further said that the Newfoundland fishermen demanded the abolition of the law which did them great harm. They also addressed petitions to the same effect to the Newfoundland parliament. A law forbidding the inhabitants of the Colony to take service in foreign craft was repealed in the case of American vessels by royal decree, but Newfoundland had, in spite of this, enforced the provisions of the Act. Elder contended that the owners of United States fishing vessels could engage foreigners to fish for them under the protection of the American flag. This contention gave rise to considerable discussion between council and members of the Tribunal, who appeared to dissent from the view of Elder.

Labrador Coal.

Quebec, July 19.—Capt. L. C. Picard of the Transcontinental engineering staff, left yesterday for the Labrador coast, on the Government steamer Montclair, Mr. Picard is going down to follow up the veins of anthracite coal, that are thought to lead into this province from the coal discovery made there recently.

LABRADOR MICA.

Several days ago Mr. Thomas Grant returned from St. Michael's Bay, Labrador, where he was inspecting some mica areas, recently acquired by North Sydney parties from the Newfoundland government. Mr. Grant took passage from the ancient colony on the steamer Invermora as far as she went on the Northern route, and at a bleak, desolate place from civilization he was conducted by a half Esquimaux guide twenty-seven miles up the St. Michael's Bay and then inland a short distance to the mica areas. The belt is fifteen feet wide, and shows easily in places sheets two feet square, although a fair estimate of the find will average six inches, and is of a pure white quartz variety. In its refined state mica retails at 12c. per pound for sheets of 1 1/2 inches x 3 inches square, while squares of 3 are worth as high as 55 cents the pound. From careful estimates made the above property will cut the latter size, thus showing that the owners have a good thing in the proposition.—N. Sydney Herald.

Extensive Lumber Deal

Toronto, July 19.—It is rumored that an extensive sale, covering some 2,264,000 acres of timber and pulpwood lands in Newfoundland has been made by Mr. Henry I. Crowe, a lumber man of that colony, to a well-known mine owner interested in Ontario's northern-mineral fields.

The Archbishop's Tribute to His Holiness.

Amongst the audiences given within the last few days by His Holiness the Pope was that private and special audience given to the Most Rev. Michael Francis Howley, D.D., Archbishop of St. John's, Newfoundland. The audience was specially memorable by the particularly gracious and sympathetic manner of His Holiness. The Archbishop, who was a student of the Propaganda in the early 'sixties," and whose knowledge and practice of Italian is derived from that great school of learning and language, presented to the Pope a sonnet written in Italian:—"To Pope Pius X., called 'Burning Fire'—'Ignis Ardens.'" He has also translated it into English, in which it reads as follows:—
"Accept this tribute of my heart's desire,
O noble Pius! thou seer of old!
In mystic prophesy, so well foretold,
From thy great zeal, as Pope of 'Burning Fire,'
Thy love and Faith the wailing world inspire
With new-born life, and fan the embers cold.
All things restore in Christ—thy blazon bold,
Thy oriflame floats ever higher and higher.
On thy escutcheon gleams the ruddy star
Like new Canopus, guiding Argo's ship
The Golden Fleece to capture from afar,
Lost human innocence—thus limned above,
Beneath, fixed to the rock with hold-fast grip
The triple anchor of Faith, Hope, and love."
St. Malachy.
—M. F. HOWLEY,
Archbishop of St. John's, Newfoundland.

His Grace left Rome on Wednesday, Feast of St. Peter, on his journey homeward. On his way, according to the arrangements he has made, he was to visit Oberammergau, and assist at the performance of the Passion Play that was to take place yesterday. On the day before he left Rome the Archbishop visited the Museum of the Terme, and amongst the objects of art housed in that most interesting collection he was specially anxious to see the recently discovered statue of Augustus, which is under lock and key as having been sequestered by the Government until the rights of ownership are established by the Courts. Although it is difficult to obtain a view of it, the Archbishop was specially favoured by being admitted to see it. He considers it very beautiful, the face being exquisite to look at, but it is almost feminine in the delicate modelling of the nose and mouth and eyes, but withal very dignified.—Freenian's Journal, July 14th.

Fogota's Bad Reports.

The fishery news by the Fogota is of a very discouraging character. Little fish is being taken at Joe Batt's Arm, Fogo, Change Islands and Twillingate, and traps have done comparatively nothing. The highest hook and line men all around Fogo District have ashore to date from 30 to 35 qts., but most of the boats have not had that quantity under sail. Squid are now making their appearance, and it is hoped with this as bait there will be a change for the better. At Westeyville, Greenpond and other places in that section practically nothing has been done. At Cat Harbor boats of two hands got about 2 qts. daily; and to sum up it will be the worst fishery for some years from Cape Fogo to Cape St. Francis.

Regatta Ripples.

The new racer Guard, built by Mr. Sexton for the Methodist Guards, is a beauty, and will be put out of hand to-day. She will be taken to Quidi Vidt Lake on Wednesday and christened.
The practice boats Doctor and Cabot were brought down to the Lake Saturday, and crews until the eve of Regatta Day will practice in them.
It was considered unfortunate that the News could not put a crew on the Lake this year. The men of that office have been the pioneers of the Press race. They won in 1908, were a good second last year and certainly would have given a good account of themselves had they entered the lists this year.
The Telegram boys and Bowden & Co.'s boys will enter the race this year, but for which it must have been stricken from the programme. They have a nice team and will row the Red Lion.
