Mary Is Not Dead

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—Well, my sake's alive, but this has been an awful long, hard winter. It was a job for a poor old body like me to keep alive at all. Besides, I had to be careful of Tom and not let him out to catch cold, as I'm expecting he will get the old age pension. If he got sick and died sure I would get no pension at all, and I am sure it would be better for me to die than try and live on the cent and a half a day given to poor widows. So there is to be no old age pension for women, sir. Well in that case would it be a good plan to do as I have read of helps done in some foreign place, that is, bury the widow alive with the remains of her husband.

Sure the poor are not the only people who are treated shabby nowadays. Sure there is that patriotic, dear, kind gentleman, Mr. Seymour, who came down from the Bench to mingle with the poor, to teach them how to kill grubs, plant potatoes, make holes to put cabbage plants in, and a thousand and one other useful things about farming, and all he could get was, as far as the public could find out, only $150 a month and his travelling expenses paid. Sure the poor man could not live on that paltry pittance, so he had to resign; and, oh my, worse than all, he is gone to England, where I hear he is to be employed by Mr. Reid, who is going to have what they call an Information Burrow there. It is a shame, Mr. Editor, that such a philanthropic little gentleman should have to go to England to burrow, just as if there was not room enough for him to burrow there. Why there is all that big stretch of country in the back of this town, known as Pasha's Plain, where I am sure he could do all the burrowing he liked. No, Mr. Telegram, it is quite true, times are wonderfully hard in Newfoundland now. The poor policeman cannot get enough to live on. I was glad to see some person writing their case in the papers lately. No wonder so many young men are leaving the force when the pay is so small, and they walking up and down the streets all day long, poor creatures. There can be no doubt about the truth of this, as to my mind the fact of the chief of police here keeping boarders is sufficient evidence. These Government officials should be paid sufficient salary to keep them out of other businesses and not be running

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its forms can be cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles it can be obtained at aboard the regular hotels and boarding houses.

Many people who fought for the People's Party last election can now recall some of the advantages held out to them, and feel as mad as March hares in April when they think of how they took the bait. Oh, Minister Seymour, alms, how this country will miss you, and as the St. John's farmer said, what a time you took it in your noddle to go, just when we were learning from you all about the art of farming. It is future generations will feel the effects of this decision of yours. Do come back. If you left your high seat on the bench for the benefit of the poor, stay with us and teach us all how to make at least as much as you made yourself, namely, $150.00 a month, and then you may go hence, and be no more seen.

And still I have another proof, Mr. Editor, that those in authority are not sufficiently paid. On the slip here is the ferry being repaired, and Tom told me (and I haven't found him out in a lie for 20 years) that the work of repairs was done by the Chairman and the Inspector of the Road Board. Certainly such men should be allowed sufficient for their services on the Board, and work on the ferry should be given to some needy people.

Dodd's Liniment.

Is the best Liniment for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sprains, etc. Gives relief in one application. "It touches the spot." 25-cs. bot. W. T. COURTENAY, the Prescription Pharmacy, cor. Duckworth and Prescott Sts. mar 20, 11.

Tim Shannahan, Tucker and Mrs. Tucker Over Among the Swails.

We tramped over to the South Side the other day to see the seals getting hove ashore and to watch the skinning. Mrs. Tucker claims to be the only woman who ever went through the premises from stem to stern, and she says it would be well worth while for any woman in town to take a stroll through the works and watch the wonderful things to be seen.

From the "hooking on" of the pelts to the grinding of the fat is an interesting lesson, and she says 'tis astonishing that more of our people don't get interested.

The "hands" engaged handling the fat are quite at home in their work and go about it in an easy off-handed manner as if they were playing a game of cricket. Every man knows his work and things move along with an easy run that is pleasing to witness. The big "strop" of seals coming up out of the hold, ushered up with wonderful rapidity by the powerful donkey engines, ways to another for a second or two, and then swings in over the wharf and soor drops in a heap. Here big strong barrows come along, pushed by rattling strong men, and the seals being hove into them, are conveyed to the weigh house to be weighed. The tally man stands with an all-important air and keeps check of the weight. There is another checker for the men, who keeps tally against him.

After the seals are weighed they are again barrowed and conveyed to the skinning tables. Here is a sight that must seem to be appreciated by the "boy," usually a big boy with a mustache, takes the pelt and fires it up on the slanting table, and after cutting off the tail and a few scraps of fat, the skinner starts into removing the fat. The skinning of a seal requires the "knowing how," or great damage may be done the valuable skin. It is a grand sight to watch a good skinner roll off the fat, and great rivalry exists amongst them as to who will skin the most seals. The late Mr. John (Paul) was considered the best a few years ago, but there are many others who are top notches to-day, but the seals are divided more evenly now and there is not that chance to shine that existed formerly.

Watching the fat going through the grinders is something that will repay a visit, and soon you see the oil running into the tanks, the whole business being worked like magic.

The busy scene, the jolly get along of the workmen, the sizzling of stean on all sides, the youngsters on the search for flippers, and the shriek of the hovering gulls, all lend something that is a complete change from the hum-drum life of the north side. Men are happier over there for they haven't time to grumble, and the lucky captain moves down the wharf a monarch of all he surveys. The merchant is there too, and mixer among the tollers. He looks happle on the south side than he does on the north. There's a freedom over there that makes you feel happy, a something out of the ordinary that drives dull care away; but the freedom of the "flipper" is not thrown in, for the delicacy is guarded by the watchful eye and the strong arm of the "mas" from the north, and woe unto the St. John's boy that tries to "lift" a gad.

L.O.A. Parade at Long Island, N.D.B.

The annual parade of the Orange Society took place on the 22nd of March. After meeting in the Hall in the morning, the Society then walked to Lush's Right Church, where they listened to an interesting sermon delivered by Ensign Grandeur of Pilley's Island, the Church being thronged to the doors. After the service they walked back to the Hall where they partook of a fine tea which was heartily enjoyed by all. After the tables had been reset about three or four times and about three hundred fed, the tables were cleared away and the Hall seated and packed to the doors with not sitting room for all. A most successful concert commenced which was made up of dialogues, recitations, songs and speeches. The most interesting of all being a song in Eskimo sung by Martin Hecke, an Eskimo from Hopedale, Labrador. The meeting was most enjoyable, there being people present from Little Bay Island, Pilley's Island and Sunday Cove Island.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, April 16. News has been cabled here from Washington that the force of Marines with a Maxim gun, from the British warship, Shearwater, landed on Tuesday last at San Quinton, Lower California, to protect the town against a threatened attack from the Mexican insurgents, came as a surprise to the British Foreign Office. Nothing whatever had been heard regarding the incident, was the statement given out this morning by the Secretary in charge of the Foreign Office. The Admiralty similarly disclaims any knowledge of the landing of a British force in the Mexican town, though it is admitted that the Shearwater was expected to call at San Quinton en route from Las Pas, Mexico, which port the warship left on April 3rd, bound for San Diego. The officials say that when Capt. Vivian, commander of the Shearwater, telegraphically reported his arrival at San Diego, he made no mention of the San Quinton incident.

LONDON, April 16. Details in connection with the Coronation of the King and Queen at Westminster Abbey, are practically settled. The Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal, and advisers are fortunate in having precedents so recent as 902, when King Edward was crowned, to guide them, but the work has been intricate for the labourers. The actual crowning will be performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, following the ancient custom only departed from in 1902, when the Archbishop of York crowned Queen Alexandra, because of the great age of the Archbishop of Canterbury of that year. The Archbishop of York will preach the Coronation sermon. The great officers of state and the ladies who are to assist, are already studying their parts. Workmen are busy arranging the interior of the Abbey. The ceremony will be equal in brilliancy to any held there.

He returned the fire. The assassin escaped.

House and Contents Destroyed.

Mr. Patrick Kennedy whose wife died so suddenly a few weeks ago at Buffalo, N. Y., had a striking verification of the adage that troubles never come alone. Writing to relatives here by last mail he informed them that a few days before his return to Buffalo his house was gutted by fire and all his furniture and effects were destroyed. He had no insurance and lost in the accident fully $800.

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Mrs. Oscar Veneot, St. Antoine, Sask., writes: "I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him."

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering."

As a cure for eczema and itching skin disease there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes sent free.

Wants to Know.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Mr. Editor,—Please allow me a space in your valuable paper as I have a few words to say about the way the Council are treating the people of Newfoundland. I think myself, it's about time to find out what they intend to do with all the land that they have taken in around Windward Lake. I would like to ask the Council if they intend it for farming, or are they trying to debar the people from a chance of living. I can't see anything else that they are doing with it.

I would like to ask the Council who is paying for all this land, and why are they keeping so much of it. I can't see what they want to fence this land for and paying a man to watch it. Besides the land is lying idle. That is no way to give the people a chance to live. If the Council was producing anything on this land it would be a little benefit to the country. I can't see what they want one half a mile right around the Lake for. Why don't they take what ever is of any injury to the pond and leave the rest to the people?

If a man happens to be caught cutting a stick of wood on their land he is either got to pay or go to jail for wood that he is after paying for before. I don't think that there is anything just about it. What seems funny to me that one person can cut all the wood that he wants, and other people can't cut a stick. It looks as if some people can do as they like. I should not think that the Council should take so much from the people. It's no benefit to the people. All this wood is there rotten, falling down, and lots of poor people perishing and they dare not touch one stick of it. I would like to see people getting a little more fair play than what they are getting.

I remain, yours truly,

A 20-Round Draw.

Paris, April 11.—The 20-round fight between Sam McVey and Sam Langford was pulled off to-night. The fight ended in a draw, although Langford completely outclassed his opponent.

The hall was crowded to the limit, many persons of fashionable society being among the spectators, and when the referee declared the contest a draw, there was a noisy demonstration of disapproval. For nine rounds Langford landed on McVey as he pleased; the latter showed signs of distress, but he came up somewhat fresher in the tenth, and from then on managed to drag through the contest. There was a great deal of infighting, and the referee was constantly forced to intervene. The faces of both men showed signs of severe punishment at the end. The fight was for a purse of $10,000.

New York, April 3.—Commodore H. H. Melville, of the Motor Boat Club of America, received a cable from London advising him that sportsmen there are ready to back the British entry in the International boat race in wagers for any part of $100,000. The Englishmen ask if the Americans have "any offers" to make.

Worst Case Of Eczema

Cure only came when doctors gave up and DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT was used.

Mrs. Wm. Miller, St. Catherine's, Ont., writes: "My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that had ever come under my notice, and she apparently suffered what no pen could ever describe. I had three different doctors attend her all to no purpose. Finally I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and to my surprise she immediately began to improve and was completely cured of that long standing disease. That was four years ago when we lived at Cornwall, Ont., and as not a symptom has shown itself since, the cure must be permanent." The record of cures which Dr. Chase's Ointment has to its credit have placed it alone as the standard cure for eczema and all forms of itching skin disease. Do not be satisfied with imitations or substitutes, 60 cents a box at all dealers or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.
