Tyrant Makers

By RUTH CAMERON.

Whoever paves the way for tyranny thereby helps to make a tyrant, and is, therefore, partially responsible for creation's tyranny.

The man who fails to take an intelligent interest in government, and to do what he can to make a good government, paves the way for bad government, and is partially responsible for the evils which result.

The parent who is ever ready to give in to the whims, and pamper the tastes, and how to the moods, of the son or daughter of the family thereby helps to make the child the self-centered, exacting tyrant which is likely to become, and is partially responsible for the tyranny under which the home suffers, and the wrong perspective from which the child will ultimately suffer.

"I declare, I don't know what to do with Arleen," writes one of my correspondents, in regard to her sixteen-year-old daughter; "She grows more thoughtless and self-centered and exacting every day. It really seems as if the harder I try to please her, the more exacting and domineering and dissatisfied she gets." Undoubtedly, my friend. Quite without knowing it, you have put your finger right on the cause of all your trouble. The harder you try to please your little daughter, the more she will expect of you that you should do nothing on earth but try to please her. The more abjectly you enslave yourself to her, the more domineering she will command her.

subject slave. Nor is she so very much to blame. It is hardly in human nature to refuse power when power is thrust into one's hands or not to be exacting when some one is ready and eager to fulfill those exacting.

It is told of an overworked farmer's wife, with a family consisting of her husband and five sons, that when she collapsed in the kitchen one hot day, and the village nurse was hastily called in, the latter found six little bean-pots sizzling away in the oven. "For the land's sake!" she inquired.

"What's all these bean-pots for?" "Oh!" gasped the farmer's wife, "you see, father won't have any molasses in his beans, and John likes 'em full of molasses; Frank vows he can't eat 'em with molasses, but has to have a little onion; Gladson wants lots of pork, and Tom won't eat pork, and little Alec—" but the nurse, without waiting to hear what little Alec liked, slammed the door and retired to the kitchen. There, it is stated, she at once smashed those six bean-pots, substituted a mammoth pot which she filled with beans and molasses and pork and onions, "allowing" to herself that that family would cut their beans that way or not at all. Needless to say they ate them.

Doubtless these six sons were good-hearted folk and very fond of the little wife and mother. But she had so long paved the way of tyranny that they could hardly help being tyrants.

There is an infinite number of such mothers in the world, and few such fathers. They mean so well, but they do so much harm, not only to themselves, but also to those for whom all their sacrifices are made!

Are you one of these tyrant makers?

MAN AND THE SOIL.

Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, author of the Common Sense Medical Adviser, says "why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates. He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor, or by ill-health induced by some chronic disease." Further, he says, "the great value of my Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach and purity to the blood. It is like the phosphates which supply nature with the substances that build up the crops. The far-reaching action of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is due to its effect on the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases that begin in the stomach are cured through the stomach. A bilious spell is simply the result of an effort made by the liver to catch up when over-worked and exhausted. I have found the 'Discovery' to be unsurpassed as a liver regulator and rich blood-maker."

Miss Loretta Kinsley of Perth, Kansas, says: "I will here add my testimony of the effectiveness of your remedy upon myself. I was troubled with indigestion for two years or more. Doctored with three different doctors besides taking numerous kinds of so-called 'stomach cures' but received no permanent relief. I was run down, could not sleep at night with the pain in my chest, caused by gas on the stomach. Was weak, could eat scarcely anything although I was hungry nearly all the time. About one year and a half ago I began taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and after having taken several bottles am nearly cured of stomach trouble. Can now eat without distress and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I thank you for your remedy and wish you all success in your good work."

"Chopper" Replies to "Woodman."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I notice in your paper of January 11th, an article written by some one under the name of "Woodman." Now I fully agree with what "Woodman" says. No doubt the loggers' position has changed for the better, but there are many more things that can and will have to be done if the A.N.D. Co. wish to get men to come in the woods for the winter months. The first thing I wish to speak of is the way that some of the camps are built. It is said that these camps are built on contract and the contractor makes quite a sum on this work. The camps and even the horse sheds are not fit for man or beast to live in. What would "Woodman" think of camp or camps built in such a way that when the water shooting off the roof would come in the camp and on the men's bunks? Again, does "Woodman" know of any camp that had to be shored up after it was built to keep it from tumbling down, until the frost came to hold the bottom in position? If the contractor, when building these camps did not have a plumb, surely the average Newfoundland's eye is straight enough to put the stud upright, so that the water would run down outside instead of coming in the camp and freezing into ice. I wonder has the Company's representative gone around and looked after the camps that were built on contract, after they were finished? To my mind, Mr. Editor, the camps should not be built on contract at all; if the company have no men, they can trust the loggers to build these camps without unnecessary or wasteful expenditure. Then there is the doctor's box. It is said that every camp has a doctor's box. Does "Woodman" know anything about it? If not I could enlighten him. I could tell him of a camp that was three months without a drop of medicine of any kind, although I was told, that the foreman had asked for it several times, and when he did get it, what did it contain? It would be amusing, Mr. Editor, if the public knew. Then there is the demoralizing influences that are carried on in the camps, such as drinking, swearing, gambling and Sabbath-breaking. Hark! is someone

"Syrup of Figs" for Bilious Stomach, Gas, Headache or Waste-Clogged Bowels.

Foul breath, coated tongue, dull, throbbing headache, stomach swollen with full of gas, indigestion, biliousness and a sallow complexion, mean that your thirty feet of bowels are clogged with waste matter; that these drainage organs of the body are obstructed; liver stagnant and stomach full of poisonous gases, sour bile and undigested, fermenting food not properly carried off.

Most of our ills are caused by constipated bowels. We all need a laxative sometimes; nobody can doubt that. The only question is, which one is the best? and that isn't a question any more. Syrup of Figs, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and licorice, must act in a harmless, gentle and natural way. Syrup of Figs can be constantly used without injury. Its action is the action of fruit—of eating coarse food—of taking exercise. It is a true and effective liver and bowel cleanser and regulator.

Most folks dread physic—they shrink from the taste and after effects. Syrup of Figs is delicious, and, besides, you don't realize you have taken anything until morning, when all the clogged up waste of the system is gently but thoroughly moved on and out of the bowels without griping or weakness.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." This is the old reliable and only genuine. Refuse, with contempt, any other Fig Syrup recommended as good. They are imitations meant to deceive you. Read the label carefully and look for the name California Fig Syrup Company.

saying, what odds, what we do in here in the lumber woods, nobody cares anything about our souls here; we may have friends home and churches but where are the men who will have the hardships of the logging camp and help me to live right? The camps have been going for four months and I have heard of only one man visiting them; that man was a representative of the Church of England. Where are the other men of the different denominations? Surely a visit from them would help cheer the lonely condition of the men. "Woodman" in his letter speaks of the old days and of the sheds men had to live in. Yes, there is truth in his statement; but he omitted to say, there is double the amount of wickedness and intemperance in these days as then. One has to go back only as far as the burning of that car in December, and see the amount of liquor that went up in smoke, that was on the way to the lumber camps. I would like to tell "Woodman" that I do not believe the condition of the camps will improve much until the foreman of each camp ceases to act and uphold the drinking, swearing and gambling of the present time. One more matter, I will point out to "Woodman," and then I am finished for this time. This is the mall arrangement after the "Lady Mary" ceases to run; the men have to get their meals as best they can. I do not know if the Government have been asked to furnish a courier for this Lake. If not, then they should, and if they did send a man as courier, say from Millertown Junction to the end of the Lake, or two men, if one cannot do the work, then the men next fall will have a chance to act for themselves. The courier should not be under the control of the Company, but for the benefit of the men. We ought not, in these days of improvements, to have to wait a month and six weeks before we hear from our families, because we are a few miles in the woods. How is it that friend Coaker or his Union has not thought of us in here? This is the place for him to come with some of his improvements. Sir Robert Bond and his party did much for the betterment of this lonely corner of our island home, when they gave the Harnsworth people terms and conditions that helped them come with money to build pulp mills and give labor.

Thanking you for space.

I remain,

Yours truly,

CHOPPER.

A Wonderful Meeting.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—A wonderful meeting took place last night in the Orange Hall. I do not think there was ever such an audience assembled in that hall before; it was packed to its utmost capacity, and many could not gain admission. Hours before the doors were opened it was nothing but a moving mass in that vicinity. And what was the cause of all this wonderful commotion and bustle? Why, the flag was flying all day and it got circulated round that "Coaker" was going to address the public. That's all! He did address the public, and for three hours had the closest attention of his hearers. At this period he found that he had only said half of what he intended to say, and as it was getting late the audience asked him to come some other time in the near future and finish his address, which he promised to do. Now, Mr. Editor, his one and only topic was the P.P.T., what it has done and what it is going to do, and using his own words, he had so much to say about it, that he had no time to do "Toryism or Liberalism," if he cared to do so, which was far from his intention. Mr. Editor, I have heard much lately of W. F. Coaker, the man from the backwoods, and I was very glad to have the privilege of hearing him, and I say, "Go ahead Coaker, your intentions are good, you have the backbone at your back. Success will be yours in the end."
