The department of a more of the "murder car" is giving the public prosecutor information that strengthens the belief that the slaying of Rosenthal did not spring from the enmity of a gambler's clique. Shapiro admits that when his motor car was engaged he was told that policement had knowledge of what was going to happen and the nobody was in any danger.

"Bald Jack" Rose, gambler and a friend of Police Lieutenant Becker, and who surrendered himself to the police, has given the name of a gambler and a gun fighter who was in the car the night that Rosenthal was shot down in front of the hotel Metropole. His name is Schapps and the detectives are securing the town for him.

For the first time the name of "Big Jack," the East Side gang leader and gambler who recently was shot by a "Chick" Triggs, gangster, is brought.

Even Dismantled Battleships Take Their Toll of Human Lives

This article is based upon a report of the New York state factory investigating commission. Not long after the inspection described in this article conference was held at the Brooklyn navy yard, and the facts given here were brought to the attention of the

A battleship in dry dock-stripped of her finery, her engines motionless her decks deserted—seems singularly futile and harmless as she leans tective than the ordinary man would against the prop placed along her sides. In spite of the seeming harmlessness of the inert monster, the battleship remains a destroyer o health and life. The danger is an insidious one, deliberately, gradually and slowly preving upon the health and life of its victims. The source of the danger is lead-not as bullets or cannon balls but as lead paint.
