Official Report of the U. S. Agricul tural Department.

Washington, April 12.—The report of the Department of Agriculture makes the average condition of winter wheat 81.4, as against 99.5 on Dec. 1; 77.1 last April, and 81.4 at the same date in 1895. The average rye condition was 88.9, against 82.5 last year. The condi-tion of the soil at the time of seeding 88.9. against 82.5 last year. The condition of the soil at the time of seeding was favorable throughout the country, a few scattered counties reporting too dry or too wet, so that by Dec. 1 a crop nearly standard was indicated. The falling off since December, greatest in Illinois, but strongly shown in every neighboring State, and making an average of 18 per cent for the whole country, is due to the sharp freezes of early winter. Snow covering was ample in the Rocky Mountain States, and westward, but elsewhere to the east it was scanty. The deficiency caused little damage along the Atlantic slope, where the winter was mild, and the favorable early indications continue, no important wheat state showing a condition under 95. The condition of winter wheat is reported below the average in Great stream. The condition of winter wheat is reported below the average in Great Britain, France and Holland, because of excessive rains, but favorable in Central and Eastern Europe. In Southern Russia there have been extensive re-sowings, but the wet weather has so delayed field work in Western Europe that the spring wheat area will be greatly cut down.

Be Repealed.

Experiences in London, Huron and mate Electorate.

Special from Our Own Correspondent.1 Ottawa, April 12.-M. C. Cameron, the member for West Huron, exhibited his old-time vigor and incisiveness of argument when he spoke on the injuities of the Dominion Franchise tion bill, repealing the act of 1885, was the topic before the House, the exwas introduced into this Parliament, it was discussed, it was forced through for the purpose of advancing the interests of the Tory party. And it did so. For twelve years, by virtue of the Franchise Act and by virtue of the still more infamous gerrymander act, honorable gentlemen opposite were able to return to Parliament after the general elections with a majority begeneral elections with a majority behind them. I believe now, however, that the good sense of the Canadian people is so strong and determined that not even the Franchise Act or the gerrymander act could restore honorable gentlemen opposite to the treasury benches"

NEVER PETITIONED FOR. Mr. Cameron pointed out that no petitions were presented to Parliament in favor of the act, and that many petitions were lodged against it. No one, indeed, thought of changing from the municipal system that had been in force for many wears "until the in force for many years "until the tempter in an evil hour seduced from their allegiance to the country the Ministers who then occupied the treasury benches and palmed off this so-called Franchise Bill on the country." THEY ALL KNOW IT

"The Conservative members," continued Mr. Cameron, "of this House well know the iniquities of the present franchise law. They know the hardships of it, and the difficulties of work-I now make are correct. The experience of twelve years of that law has from day to day, intensified the feelng in my province against its in-

NO UNIFORMITY NOW. To the plea that the act of 1885 was intended to make the franchises uniform throughout Canada, Mr. Cameron replied: "After we discussed that bill for weeks and weeks together, the principle upon which it was based at its inception was abandoned by the First Minister, and the franchise was not made uniform throughout Canada. We have not the same classes represented in all the provinces; we have not the same interests represented in all the provinces. Ontario and Prince Edward Island have a different franchise. Quebec and British Columbia have a different franchise, Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia have all different franchises, and hardly two

"We were told when this bill was introduced in 1885, that it was simple, easily worked, and economical. But Piece of Wood.

Ithaca, Mich., April 12.—A somewhat singular accident occurred in the St. Johns Manufacturing Company's mill here yesterday, resulting in the death of an old gentleman, Homer Burns, about 80 years of age.

He had but just entered the mill, when a heart piece of oak from the edger, having worked up to the top of the saw, was shot from it like a javelin, striking Mr. Burns in the neck, severing his jugular vein, breaking his neck and knocking him out of the mill down about ten feet, where he landed on his head in the debris at the

"There never," continued Mr. Cameron, "was another statute in which the loop-holes for fraud and misconduct were greater than in this Franchise Act. There is one constituency in which it was found when the voters' list was placed in the hands of the returning officer that 125 names were on the list twice in one polling subdivision, and that 15 names were inserted three times. There was a chance for men who had slept their long sleep for ten years presenting themselves; and this was done as systematically and regularly as the ballot stuffing that has become notorious from one end of the Dominion to the other. Over 50 men whose names were on that list had not been living, some in the United States, and some in the Northwest Territories; 118 names were added on the revision, but only 12 of these were names of residents of the Province of Ontario. Over a dozen minors were added to the list by the revising officer."

claration at the Court of Revision, not one of which was on the list when handed to the revising officer. All these men whose names were added were Liberals, but their names did not appear on the voters' list when it came to polling day. There were five names on the voters' list of men who had been dead, some for ten years, and some for five years. Several names were duplicated in almost every polling subdivison, there were 19 men on the list described as stage-drivers, although there was only one stage-driver in the whole division. There were 19 men on the list that nobody in the township knew-certainly nobody in the township knew-certainly nobody in the polling subdivision. This is the kind of law which honorable gentlemen opposite want us to keep in force—a law that encourages fraud, that offers a premium for fraud, and that when worked out under the manipulation of the revising officers, benefits the Conservative party."

RETURN OF DEAD MEN.

RETURN OF DEAD MEN.

"In the town of Clinton it was found that 119 names of men who were not living either in the town or in the county were on the voters' list; 80 of them had sold out and left the place years before. Forty-six of the 80 were living in the United States, and 17 were dead. Fifty good names were left off the list altogether. The dead men whose names were on the voters' list that came before the returning officer were just as sure to vote as the sun is to rise tomorrow. They are very much alive when polling day comes. Somebody is there to attend to them."

DISQUALIFIED PIONEERS. ter on Friday night. Mr. Foster had taken up three hours of the time of the House, and though the new election hill sion, I found that one man who owned 200 acres of land in West Wawanosh, who had lived there 25 years, and had voted at every election during that time until January, 1896, had no vote. His name was on the assessment roll, the collector's roll, and the local list, but not on the voters' list. Another man who had occupied 200 acres of land for four years was left off the voters'. list. Another man in the town of Goderich, who had lived there for 30 years, who owned the property where he lived, and who had voted at every election, was left off. Another man, Patrick McCarthy, who had lived in the town for 35 years, was on the local list, the assessment roll, and the collector's roll, but not on the Dominion list when election day came. Another man, James Murro, who had lived there 40 years. the topic before the House, the exFinance Minister occupied only five minutes in referring to that measure.
His whole effort was to force a discussion on irrelevant topics, and thus,
for some reason or other, kill time.
Mr. Cameron exposed the foolishness of this course, and then took up the objections to the measure of 1885. "I agree," said he, "with the view frequently expressed that a worse bill, a more scandalous bill, a more infamous bill never was placed on the records of Parliament than the Franchise Bill of 1885. Sir, that bill admittedly was not introduced in the interest of the public, surely it was not introduced in the interest of the Liberal party, or in the interest of the great mass of the people. Pray, in whose interest was it introduced? It was introduced into this Parliament, it was discussed, it was forced through for the purpose of advancing the interests of the Tory party. And it did so. For twelve years, by virtue of the Franchise Act and by virtue of the polling day came. A law under which such things can happen is a law that ought to be repealed at the earliest possible moment. In my own riding I estimate that there were 700 votes that were either left off intentionally or put on intentionally, where neither should have happened."

AFRAID TO ENFORCE IT. Mr. Cameron pointed out that the Mr. Cameron pointed out that the measure could not be operated except at vast expense. Though revisions should have taken place every year, the Government had only allowed four revisions in twelve years, and yet the country had paid out $1,250,000 for the work. "Some elections," he continued, "were held upon lists two years old, and in some cases three years old, so and in some cases three years old, so that every young man of 23 or 24 was disfranchised because honorable gentlemen opposite dared not enforce their law, on account of the enormous cost, and that is what the honorable gentlements. and that is what the honorable gentlemen term a trifing matter! Then there was the cost to the candidates and their friends for each revision. He was confident it would average $350 for each side, or for all the 200 odd constituencies at least $1,500,000 over and above the $1,200,000 spent by the Government out of public taxation.

ONE MAN ONE VOTE. man one vote, and prohibit the bring-ing in of outsiders to turn the elec-tions. "Let the man vote and not the property," he said, with emphasis. If the new measure does not provide for this, it should do so. Mr. Camero concluded: "I say here, especially after the extraordinary revelations that were made in the election trial in the city of London, that there is no one source that tends more to corruption or a violation of the election law than cum-ulative voting. Voters with us are scattered all over. A great many, I am sorry to say, go to the United States, a great many go to the North west Territories, and when an election takes place, especially in a close con stituency, it is of importance that these scattered fragments should be gathered together. Both parties make the greatest possible effort to get in the outside vote. A man's fate, as a candidate for parliamentary honors or DEFEATED BY OUTSIDERS. "In my bye-election of 1892, I found three men, who had lived in British Columbia for five years, brought in on passes from that province to vote against me. From Crystal City, in the Northwest Territories, eight men came in on passes over a certain railway to vote against me, and all their expenses were paid. From Manitoba and the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, over 50 outside voters were brought in to Huron to vote against me, and all their expenses paid. The majority against me was 16, and as I could not go to the expense of bringing in men from curringing in the current current curringing in the current cur bringing in men from outlying pro-vinces and from the United States, the result was that these 50 votes gave my
