DERLIN, Sept. 26. - The unfortunate hind him debts to the amount of 8,000,000 marks. After his death 5,000,000 marks had to be added to pay for enterprises and obligations entered into before his death. That made a total of 13,000,000 marks (83,120,000) to be paid. The most pressing debts were discharged from the private purse of the mad King Otto. They now foot up about 8,000,000 marks. Another 6,000,000 marks will be spread over the next ten years. After the death of the king a public loan was subscribed to pay the debts. The outstanding part of that will be paid in July, 1804, and the repayment of the other loan will be finally attempted in 1903.

dition, and the efforts of the authorities to fight the disease this year have not met with the support of the classes referred to. To-day a regular riot was caused in St. Paul, a suburb of the city, by the attempts of the authorities there to enforce the sanitary ordinances, and during the fighting a policeman was killed. The health officials, in their efforts to enforce deanliness, were accompanied by several policemen, but the latter were powerless to prevent the crowd that had quickly gathered to drive the party out of the streets. Stones were thrown, and some of the officials were quite badly bruised. A policeman was trampled on and killed, and it was found necessary to call out troops to disperse the mob.

of cowardice made against the Duke of Consught, the Queen's third son. Connaught was accused of seeking to escape danger in the battle of the British troops under Gen. Wolseley with the Arabs at Tel-el-Kebir, Egypt, in 1882. The origin of the accusation has been much discussed, especially since Connaught was appointed to the Aldershot command. A special correspondent who was on the field at Tel-el-Kebir has now come has with a letter giving the full story. When the troops were formed for the datok, hessys, the Duke of Connaught with his Guards brigade and Gen. E. Alison with his Highland brigade were in the first line, bortly after this formation was made a lispatch from the highest quarter in Engand was handed to Gen. Wolseley, It intracted him not to 4expose the Duke to larger in battle. Orders were given at the first the first product of the control of the change in the line of attack, connaught and his Guards brigade were harbed to the rear and the Irish brigade was brought to the front. A Runaway Creates a Scene on Kensington Bridge.

And Narrowly Misses Upsetting the Hearse.

Three of the Lady Pall-Bearers Hurt-The Funeral Was Under the Auspices of the Daughters of England.

Kensington bridge was the scene of a runaway yesterday afternoon that for nerve-thrilling incident and mournful circumstance casts the late Suspension Bridge runaways completely in the shade. A flying team met a funeral in the center of the bridge. The pall-bearers were women, and the result was such a mingling of screams, horses' hoofs, excitement and confusion as may be better imagined than described. Women shrieked and fainted, several were badly bruised and otherwise injured; one lost her presence of mind and attempted to jump over the railing; some became hysterical, and altogether the scene was one of wild confusion.

The funeral was that of Miss Marths between the footpath and the passage for vehicles. The hearse turned half around one way and the first cab turned in an opposite direction, completely barring the passage. The runaway team came to a standstill against the first team, narrowly missing overturning the hearse. In the excitement someone screamed "The hearse is upset." This so alarmed one lady, sisterin-law of deceased, that she became frantic, and, getting out from one of the mourners' cabs, she began to climb over the railing next to the water. Before reaching the top she fell back fainting. Of the pall-bearers three were hurt. Mrs. Cripps was making for the footpath, and had just reached it when one of her limbs sank into a hole in the bridge. She was powerless to move, and there, within a few inches of her body was the hearse, which, if the restless horses had backed very little further, would have crushed her against the girders After she was relieved she was found to have suffered severe injury to her limb, the shin abrasion and bruising extending to the thigh. Mrs. Nutkins clambered over the railing and fell on her back on the footpath, sustaining injury to have made the result of the railing was broken and Mrs. Weir considerably bruised thereby. The other ladies escaped in several different stages of hysteria and nervous prostration. In the collision the tongue of the runaway vehicle was broken and the hearse somewhat damaged.

some of them are creating considerable in terest.

As in the Spring Assizes, there is a murder case on the list—that of the Freeman brothers, who are charged with killing Policeman Rankin, of Chatham, while in the discharge of his duty. The feeling against the prisoners had become so strong in Chatham that it was deemed advisable to transfer the case from the Kent to the Middlesex Assize Court in order to get an unprejudiced jury, and an order was ascordingly issued by Juetice Street to that effect. About four mouths ago the prisoners were placed in the county Jail here, and since that time have been earning their bread by the sweat of their brow—sawing wood. They will be defended by Mestrs. Osler and Pegley, while Mr. Lount will represent the crown.

Next in interest for Londoners is the trial of Richard D, Wilson and Harvey de M. Harvey, two clerks who are charged with the embezzlement of a considerable sum of money from the Bank of British North America. Wilson is still behind the bars, but Harvey was some time ago released on ball.

EDWARD LEIGH'S DEATH.

A Londoner Found Dead in a Detrois Street.

Woll Known in the City-The Cause of Insanity Suspected.

The Detroit Free Press of Tuesday says: About 8 o'clock yesterday merning the ony of a man about 30 years old was bund in ditch near the Seven-mile House they afterwards lived in Petrolea, Ont.

He then went to London and the couple separated, His parents live in London and they were telegraphed to last night. It is expected that they will come on and take care of the remains. Facts in the case show that there was no foul play connected with Leigh's death. It is thought that he had not been in his right mind."

Edward Leigh, referred to in the above, was a native of London, and was well known in the city as a member of a highly respected family. He was a son of Mr. Benjamin Leigh, 529 Grey street, and has severat brothers and sisters here. Doceased was for a short time employed by Mr. Martin 'O'Meara, of the Deminion House, as bartender about a year age, and was looked upon as a steady reliable young man. He was married, and the letter alluded to undoubtedly referred to his wife, with whom, it would seem to indicate, he was on the best of terms. The body will be probably interred in Sarnia.
