Form of Favorites Begins to Tell in Ottawa Golf Tourney

LUDINGTON LOSES, BUT CARRY TECS TO 11TH

Invaders Offer Unexpected Opposition To London Steam Roller—Weather Fooled Fans and Only Few Turned Up.

Hamel's error, which allowed Stutz to score from second on Shay's hard knock in the eleventh frame, gave London a 3 to 2 verdict in the first clash with Ludington, Central League champion, but he gave the local high priests of the weather, only a handful of fans turned out to see a close hard-fought battle. Fans who stayed away because they thought the game would not be played missed a surprise, for the Ludington team on their first appearance, anyway, refused to be the victims of any ironing-out process engineered by the Toledo steam roller, who is billed to consort with the Toledo Club next spring, was the first sacrifice offered of the war, a battle royal, holding them to five hits. Herbert's service was punctuated for half a dozen hits which made the total figure out to something very near one loud smacker per frame meaning there was a lot of noise that went to the waste pile.

A double steal in the fifth, with Chapman on the coast, the play being done the pushing, eased over London's first run.

Ludington, in the following scene opened it quietly with a single by Hammond. Shoup, not satisfied with merely hurrying, sent a double to left that evened things up. Hammond scored. Beal's sacrifice fly to center field scored Shoup.

Curry was allowed to stroll in London eighth, and continued on through Herbert's sacrifice. Stutz's single to right field scored the London catcher, Shoup going to second on Hamel's lead throw. Two were gone and Shay made the third one and a margin at this juncture impossible.

Ludington got men to second on a walk and an error in both the ninth and tenth, but became nadder still in the eleventh. Beal's sacrifice fly to center field scored Shoup.

Curry was allowed to stroll in London eighth, and continued on through Herbert's sacrifice. Stutz's single to right field scored the London catcher, Shoup going to second on Hamel's lead throw. Two were gone and Shay made the third one and a margin at this juncture impossible.

GIANTS' LEAD CUT TO THREE GAMES

Cubs Beat New York, While Pittsburg and Dodgers Are Idle.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Chicago cut New York's lead in the pennant race over Pittsburg to three games, when a timely single by O'Farrell scored Grimes, who had reached second through Priess's error, and a wild pitch in the tenth inning and gave the locals a 7 to 6 victory. The Giants took a three-run lead by bunting hits off Alexander, but Chicago overcame this by bunting blows off Barnes and driving him off the mound. The visitors tied the score when Kelly cracked out his 23rd home run of the season. After that the game reverted into a pitchers' duel between Cheever and Neff.

CRIME AND WELFARE. [Manchester Guardian.] Crime has two parents—will and circumstance; and to treat it in abstraction from environment is only to misunderstand it. The theory of the work of life is the keynote of modern natural history, and we are always gathering new instances of infinite and unexpected connections. To kill a wagtail may be to bring disease to a flock of sheep. Who drives out bees drives flowers from his land. In exactly the same way social reform is distorted by rigid analysis. The complexity of society merges in a single complex of moral and economic adjustments. By building houses we empty hospitals; prosperity slackens the pressure on the prison; schools and schools fill the balance against the police court. The lesson of this blue book should go first to the economist who divides collective activity into so many sections and would not indiscriminately at each. For the problem of social welfare is, unfortunately, not at all so simple.
