Toronto. A SUNDAY IN TORONTO.

A Clergyman Relates His Experience it The agricultural editor of the Toronto," in which he says:

I began the second part of this letter as I began the first part of it, with a reference to the absence of street railway privileges on Sundays. In the after part of the day, as in the forence, I had practical illustration of the matter. I would have liked to take a quiet ride through the city on the belt-line and note its extent, beauty and e. vironment. In my idea, the Sabbath is as much for rest as for worship. Our Lord tells us it was made quiet ride through the city quiet ride through the city and belt-line and note its extent, beauty and e. vironment. In my idea, the Sabbath is as much for rest as for worship. Our Lord tells us it was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. It is meant to benefit his whole being, lit is meant to benefit his whole being, and merely what some people call bush, an increase of 320,000 bush for the week.

Corn on passage to Europe, 9.760,000 bush, an increase of 320,000 bush for the week.

Imports into the United Kingdom the Wheat, 381,000 qrs.; maize It is meant to benefit his whole being, and not merely what some people call his "soul." The soul is not some appendage to the man; it is the man. The passage of Scripture which asks: "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own scu! ?" is more correctly rendered in scul?" is more correctly rendered in the Revised Version, "and lose him-self." which is undoubtedly the true rendering. The good people who think the whole of Sunday should be given to the whole of Sunday should be given to worship, and mostly public worship, le bor under a mistake. Early morning prayer-meeting, public worship at midday, followed by class-meeting; Sunday school out-door services and Salvation Army gathering in the afterncon; preaching in the evening followed by Christian Endeavor meeting, amount to too much of a good thing. It is being "righteous overmuch" in one line of things. Where, one may ask, does any family religious instruction come in—where anything to do the body good? The body is an important part of the man for whom the Sabbath was made. It is the home and servitor of the man, and its well-being must be consulted in order that there may be what the ancients called, "a scund mind in a sound body."

Well, I saw some sights on Sunday

Well, I saw some sights on Sunday afternoon that set me thinking. In the first place I saw individuals and families out riding in every kind of vehicle that could be made to carry passengers. From the carriages, landaus, Victorias and Surrys of the rich, down to the buggies, express wagons down to the buggies, express wagons, Gricery wagons and pony carts of the humbler classes. Every available rig and turn-out was made to do duty for the conveyance of young and old around an outside the city. The poor grocery wagon horses that had to be going until midnight or after on Saturday night, were heavily laden with human freight on Sunday afternon and evening. If the street cars had been running these poor tired horses could have had a day of rest, while ten times the number of the people might have enjoyed the pleasure of a ride, seen the city, and sniffed a mouthful of fresh air, with less of what is called "Sabbath-breaking" than is caused by the largest possible use of private conveyances. But I saw in the over-crowded parts of the city, where the poorer classes most do congregate what impressed me most in regard to this matter. To see the crowds of these people, old and young, huddled together in heaps, when but for mistaken ideas of Sabbath sanctity they might have had an afternoon's outing in the suburban parks, breathing great mouthfuls of fresh air, worshipping God in his works as seen in the great temple of nature, and getting refreshment in body and mind, moved me with profoundest pity. Sabbatarians plead that there are six days in the week when people can get outings and car-rides, but what can laboring men and women, seamstresses, shop-girls and others who have to toil from early morn till dewey eve and even a late bed time? greery wagons and pony carts of the humbler classes. Every available rig
