

here. They are bigoted and self-satisfied. They say they worship the true God, and are not idolators. They refrain from pork and from things strangled. We went out on the streets and visited several temples and stores. In the evening the chapel filled. Mr. Saw, Mr. Hearnden and I spoke. We prayed and sang as well. Mr. and Mrs. Saw did much good work here and made many friends. Several have told him that they believe, and will soon make the good confession. When they left on their furlough the enemies of the truth said that his Emperor had taken away his button. When Mr. Arnold left for Wuhu some time before, they said that his Emperor was going to take his head off. They look upon missionaries as political agents of some foreign power. Mr. Saw is never weary in well-doing. He preaches wherever there is a man to hear. He is a delightful traveling companion.

The next day Mr. Saw and I left for Nankin. Mr. Hearnden returned to Chu Cheo. We reached the Drum Tower that evening. We were gone a week on this tour. That day we stopped at a tea-house for breakfast. At a table near us was a school-teacher. He gravely assured us that the Japanese were whipped in the war, and all present confirmed his assertion. He told us that the Black Flags were bound to succeed in Formosa. They had already surrendered. To him all foreigners are alike. He understands the Chinese characters and classics, but nothing else. He knows no more than an infant of general history, or mathematics, or philosophy, or science. He wears immense goggles to make him look wise and dignified. One of this class explained to one of our men the cause of night: "The people live inside the earth. The darkness is caused by the two hemispheres coming together and shutting out the sunlight." We asked him about sin. He indignantly denied that Chinese sin. That is for outside barbarians. Mr. Saw quoted Confucius against him. He said Confucius lied to teach his followers a truth. On the way we wanted to take the picture of a buffalo plowing. The men in the field objected. A gatling gun would not have scared them more than a kodak. They were afraid we might take something out of them or put something into them. On almost every farm were shrines to the earth god. We must have seen thousands of these that week.

The ignorance and poverty of the people are indescribable. These two evils are caused by bad government. Give the Chinese the gospel and free schools, good roads, railways, convenient markets, modern farming implements, flouring mills, and they will be one of the greatest nations on the globe. They have vast resources, but they are not developed. They are taxed and oppressed to support a horde of corrupt officials. The mandarins are greedy cormorants. Once a woman went to a Chinese sage and told him that her husband and two sons had been devoured by lions. He asked her why she did not go to some other place. She said that, though the lions were numerous, the Government was not oppressive. He turned to his hearers and emphasized the thought that bad government is worse than lions. Give China a good government and her peace will be as a river, and her righteousness as the waves of the sea.

Nervous Prostration.

THE FREQUENT CAUSE OF MUCH MISERY AND SUFFERING.

The Victim Helpless and Unreliable—It Saps the Constitution and Makes One Involuntarily Ask is Life Worth Living.

From the Lindsay Post.

It is at least commendable to bow before the inevitable. But what appears to be inevitable may be delayed or altogether averted. What were considered necessarily fatal diseases twenty-five or even ten years ago in many instances are not now placed in that category—thanks to medical and scientific skill. Life is sweet. We must either control the nerves or they will master us. Hysteria may prove fatal. It renders the person afflicted helpless and unreliable, and casts a continual shadow upon a hitherto bright and cheerful life. It saps the constitution and makes one involuntarily ask, "Is life worth living?" Miss Fanny Watson, daughter of Mr. Henry Watson, living on lot 22, in the township of Sumerville, Victoria county, is one of those whose life for years was made miserable from nervous disease. At the age of twelve Miss Watson met with an accident which so seriously affected her nervous system that during the subsequent five year she was subjected to very severe nervous prostration, resulting in convulsions with unconsciousness for three or four hours at a time. This condition continued until March last when she had an increased and prolonged attack by which she was completely prostrated for the space of a fortnight. The disease so affected the optic nerve that Miss Watson was forced to wear glasses. Many remedies were tried but with no avail, and both Miss Watson and her friends feared that a cure could not be obtained. Ultimately Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were strongly recommended by various friends and the young lady decided to give them a trial. A half dozen boxes were bought, and by the time one box was used there was an improvement in her condition, and before the half dozen boxes were used, Miss Watson was, to use her own words, a different person altogether. Her entire nervous system was reinforced to such an extent that she is now able to dispense with the use of the glasses which previous failing eyesight had made necessary. Miss Watson is now a staunch friend of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and says: "I have pleasure in recommending them to all similarly afflicted." Rev. D. Millar, a friend of the family, vouches for the facts above set forth.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create new blood, build up the nerves, and thus drives the disease from the system. In hundreds of cases they have cured after all other medicines have failed, thus establishing the claim that they are a marvel among triumphs of modern medical science. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Protect yourself from imposition by refusing any pill that does not bear the registered trade mark around the box.
