

DIVINITY DINNER.

The Divinity Banquet has come and gone. It was a complete success. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers and loaded with things edible, served in Bassam's inimitable manner. The "boys" were prepared to do everything justice.

The speeches in proposing and responding to toasts were quite enjoyable. Dr. Williamson was quite up to his old-time kindly scholarly plane and gave much weighty advice to the class who are now going out, which was listened to with reverence. Dr. Bell, in his genial way, rapidly reviewed the course of Queen's during his connection with it and drew from the retrospect lessons of thankfulness and hope.

The Principal was present and seemed to enjoy himself.

The speeches of the boys were well given—less rhetorical than common but more substantial. The pleasant gathering broke up at mid-night.

A. M. S.

President Walker presided at the Alma Mater meeting, last Saturday night, having entirely recovered from his illness. There was considerable business before the meeting. F. Hugo moved that the Publishing Syndicate be asked to pay $5 for the use of A.M.S. piano; the motion was lost.

W. L. Grant, C. McNab, A. E. Ross, F. Hugo, J. W. Muirhead, J. M. Mowat and W. H. Davis were appointed a committee to select a Journal staff for next session, and take what measures they deemed fit regarding form, publication, etc., of the Journal.

J. M. Mowat reported for the Executive, regarding Mr. Pense's bill of $12.56. He recommended that the bill be paid, with the exception of an item of $2.40 for circulars, which was referred to the Business Manager of the Journal. The report was adopted.

D. R. Drummond presented his report as chairman of the curators of the reading room. The financial part of the report showed that $84.88 had been received, and that there was a balance on hand of $7.83. The report contained several suggestions as to the binding of magazines, and the way in which others might be preserved from the depredations of certain students.

The retiring curators were appointed as a committee, with D. R. Drummond chairman, to recommend curators for next year.

W. L. Grant moved that the Æsculapian Society be requested to give an account of the money granted to them for the furnishing of their reading room. The motion was carried.

M. B. Tudhope gave notice that the committee appointed to consider the relation of the Athletic Association to the A.M.S. would report next Saturday.

A good programme was then carried out, the first item of which was a recitation by R. Burton. Then followed a solo by A. E. Lavell. J. Rollins gave the "Revenge of Bernardo del Carpio," and J. B. Cochrane recited, in his own inimitable way, Anthony's speech in the Forum, after which a hearty chorus was sung by the meeting. J. A. Leitch recited "Horatius on the Bridge" in a very dramatic manner. The last piece was a reading by W. L. Grant. The Critic surprised every one by being present, and ready to give his report when called on.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Professor—"What do you understand by true curiosity?"

J. L. M-l-r—"By true curiosity, as I understand it, is meant a desire to get at the root of the matter."

J. B. McDougall, '96, and J. H. McArthur, '96, are in the General Hospital.

The Glengarry students attending College had their picture taken lately. There are quite a number of them.

Among the questions laid on Dr. Watson's desk the other day was the following poser: "State Mill's view of knowledge, also the correct view." The youth or maiden propounding this is evidently after blood.

By-rs (to young lady)—Please don't apocuate your sentences. (Young lady swoons.)

At the last meeting of '93, D. W. Best was appointed delegate to the Divinity dinner. The committee appointed to make preparations for a dinner reported, and were instructed to continue in their work.

Vague rumours are afloat that part of the money voted by the A. M. S. to the Ladies' Reading Room was devoted to the peanut and taffy social. We are pleased to know this is untrue.
