DISDAINED HIS JAG.

Bill Penniock Encounters Strenuous Life in Getting Into Lockup.

William Penniock does not boast a home in this city. He hails from Pickering, but last night he produced an incipient jag as a claim upon the hospitality of No. 1 police station. Sergt. Andy Allison looked over the product and scorned it as not worth noticing. Murphy disconsolately betook himself to the dismal street.

There he met with a cynic. He endeavored to negotiate a loan of trifling proportions, offering the customary re-ward of virtue as an inducement. The cynic demurred, but pointed out that life was a snare and a delusion and reasonable solution of a wearisome

Murphy passed and looked longingly at the comfortable solidity of the postation. He appealed to Inspector Davis, urging that his jag deserved! The inspector was moved to compassion and Murphy registered and sought
