Niagara Falls Park Commissioners Will Make Some Enquiries on Official Visit.

The World has received a communication from William Chaplin, a prominent manufacturer of St. Catharnes, calling attention to the ostentatious display of the flag of another country on a public building in a park owned by the people of Ontario. He refers to the museum and restaurant in the Queen Victoria Park at Niagara

When the attention of J. W. Lang-muir, chairman of the Niagara Falis Park commission, was called to the matter, he said he was unaware that matter, he said he was unaware that such was the case, but he was going to Niagara Falls in the morning and would investigate. "We certainly would not permit of any but British flags being displayed on any of the pubflags being displayed on any of the public buildings in the park," he said, "and no United States flags have been hung by authority of the commission. It is quite possible, however, that the display complained of was made by some of the picnic parties from across the line, who are found in the park in large numbers almost every day."

P. W. Ellis, another member of the commission, was seen. He thought the flag was displayed in compliment to the American visitors, about 900,000 of whom cross the bridge every year to get a better view of the cataract. He
