Alliance Discusses Campaign in Favor of Prohibition and Suggests That Boys Could Assist Considerably - Will Try To Educate Voters On Marking of the Ballot.

Rev. T. D. McCullough stated that through untiring efforts of the various committees canvassing the voting lists, over 1,000 names had been added to the list, some, of course, which were in favor of prohibition and some against. "It requires united effort on the part of everyone who aims for prohibition.

"Just imagine that the liquor traffic is the Hindenburg line, and this is our last and greatest onslaught and we must win. We ministers must lead the attack, although owing to so many being away the entire summer we are not able to get as good a start as we would have liked," said Rev. T. D. McCullough, at the first fall meeting of the Ministerial Alliance, yesterday morning in the Y. M. C. A. Rev. T. D. McCullough and Rev. Captain N. Omond, the latter recently returned from overseas, and a native of London, gave suggestions to the attending clerics as to the best way to present before the various congregations how they must vote in the coming referendum. Mr. McCullough said that he knew that the Methodist ministers had been preaching upon the subject, but had not seen the Presbyterlans working desperately hard. Rev. D. C. MacGregor, the president, remarked: "We are solid anywaya nd the Mtheodists have been a little more lucky in getting into print."
