DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT SENDS SOX TO WORLD

Her Royal Highness and Lady-in-Waiting Forwarded Parcel Yesterday.

AND LADY HENDRIE, TOO

First Women in the Land Show Their Interest in Great Campaign for Soldiers.

A very important parcel has been received at The World Knitting room, which will be unwrapped and put on exhibition this afternoon. All interested friends who wish to contribute to our "Sox Day" campaign are invited to come and view the sox knit and sent to The World by H. R. H. the Duchess of Connaught, who has knit over 500 pairs. The duchess is an expert machine knitter and knits for her own use and for the men actively engaged on the fighting line, and we want your help, too.

"A pair of sox from every citizen" is what we want in the next four days. Tuesday, Feb. 15, sees the close of the campaign. Are you a booster—or a laggard? Don't fail to do your bit. Think what your gift will mean to some mother's boy in the trenches—warm feet for a few hours at least. Will you ignore this crying need, or will you signify your loyalty to the men in khaki by a generous donation? Come on, Toronto. There is not much time left but there is enough. Buy sox, beg sox, borrow sox—or knit sox—use any lawful means to obtain sox—but get sox. Send your gift to the over to 40 West Richmond street before someone persuades you to do something else. Our thanks to all who have responded and our compliments to those who will. Attach your name and address to all donations.

There is an excellent musical program arranged for this afternoon, and as on previous Fridays, thru the generous courtesy of the Red Rose Co., refreshments will be served to the knitters.

Address all donations to Miss H. M. Ball, "Sox Day" convener, World Building, 40 West Richmond street, phone Main 5308.

TOLD WOMEN OF THE PIONEERS OF NIAGARA

Interesting Paper at Meeting of Canadian Historical Society. Yesterday.

A most interesting meeting of the Women's Canadian Historical Society was held at 52 St. Albans street yesterday afternoon. The program of the meeting combined reports of the patriotic phase of the organization, together with its regular work.

Reminiscences of Rev. Jas. Richardson, D.D., formed the subject of a picture paper read by Mrs. Brydges. The paper dealt with Niagara about the time of the American revolutionary war. He told of the mother of the writer, the wife of a captain who sailed the lakes, and whose wife in her little pioneer house was often the only white woman of the neighborhood.

"He is Always Telling Others About Them"

Brother and Sister Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills—News of Cure Too Good to Keep.

In this letter Mrs. Hurley relates how glad she and her brother are to tell how they were cured of indigestion and kidney trouble by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

That is the kind of enthusiasm Dr. Chase's medicines arouse and that is why they are so generally known and used today. People who are cured tell their friends and neighbors, and so the word is passed along.

From the limits of Dr. Chase's practice at Ann Arbor, Mich., the good news of these medicines traveled until they are known the world over and considered indispensable in many thousands of homes.

This is the kind of letters we are receiving daily and there can be no mistaking the enthusiasm expressed here.

Mrs. J. J. Hurley, Upper Hanwell, York County, N. B., writes: "I suffered from indigestion for two years, and tried a great many kinds of medicine,

AUSTRALIAN PIANIST WON EIGHTEEN RECALLS

Percy Grainger Displayed Most Delicate Artistry at Massey Hall.

IS LIKE PADEREWSKI

Audience of Music Lovers Surrendered Completely to His Wonderful Spell.

People who heard Percy Grainger on Wednesday night at Massey Hall will note down the date as a red-letter one in their calendars, as they did for the first time they heard Paderewski play, or Patti sing, or Sarasate or Wilhelm on the violin. Those who stayed at home will make the usual excuses and continue to enjoy their self-complacency as connoisseurs who do not recognize. The great pupil of Grieg distinguished himself in all technical ways, and the composer whose works are attracting the attention of conductors everywhere poured out his soul in interpretation. Grainger is not unlike the Paderewski of twenty years ago in appearance. His hair is abundant and light in shade, and he is slight and lithe and graceful. He sits down like a master at the piano, and the audience surrendered completely to his spell. There were 13 recalls altogether, from the four suites which he played. His taste, his tendencies, his character, contribute as great an element in his program as his technique. There is the most delicate artistry in his playing, and the marvels of the performance are as much contrasts of silence with sound as displays of tempo or temperament. Grainger is a leading characteristic of his playing. To impart the molten golden mystery of tone which he found in the passages concluding the Bach prelude was a demonstration of this power, and the figure evolved itself, and in its final climax, out like the fiery corona of a solar eclipse after the shadow lights of the penumbra.

Delicacy of touch and tone pervades all he does. The Grieg folk song was limpid as a brook. Then the clink and chime of the Norse "snaat" music rang with all the spirit and luminous dancing gaiety of the northern lights in the Halling dance. Once more the brook-like ripple played, then light and shade in the Ravel "Ondine," and gradually melted into the flowing of the brown depths of silent rivers. The Debussy numbers were of the same order. The most wonderful work, sound woven into gossamer web. The beautiful Cesar Franck prelude arie and performance of one to a realm of new harmonies, enchantingly vibrated, thrilling the common air with the sense and feeling of a new world.

Words and sounds fell like shafts of sunlight thru a woodland glade, breaking the silence into spaces of glow and golden glow. There is color in every note he touches, deep, rich, living color, and this was the glory of the Franck number.

One's appreciation naturally falls into the language of color, soft, glowing and harmonious color, undertones, tints, hues, elusive shades, and then again blazing radiance, but always color. In the fourth suite his "Mock Morris" dance was in tripping measures as regular as the clacking of a company of bellringers, and as joyful with the earthen effect. The "Colonial Song" is a composition unified with the noble aspiration which makes it worthy of the great new Britain of the South Seas, which it commemorates.

"Hey," an old English dance measure of the rhythm of "Weel may the keel row," was the third of his own compositions which he gave. Like nearly all the others, it was encoored. Among his encoored he played two Chopin studies and the "Spring Song" and his Chopin was as good as the best. The only regret was that nothing Irish appeared on the program.

Paul Wells' Recital.

Much interest attaches to the piano recital to be given at Forrester's Hall by Mr. Paul Wells, of the Toronto Conservatory staff, on Monday evening, Feb. 21. This will be Mr. Wells' only recital of the season. His work, both as a successful pianist and teacher, has become well known in Toronto. The recitalist will play Beethoven's Sonata in E flat, Op. 27, a group of Chopin Mazurkas, several numbers by Liszt and Tchaikowski, and he will close the program with a performance of a sonata of his own composition. Mr. Wells has been at work on this sonata since the summer, and those who have heard it privately performed predict a brilliant success for it at his public concert.
